would be personal rather than political, as no new principles would be involved.

The Moscow conference was so successful, the Embassy was further informed, that the Provisional Government and the various political groups have decided to hold a series of similar meetings in the near future so as to make any further changes that may from time to time appear advisable as a result of the interchange of views. At the conference there were differences in conceptions of measures to be put into practice between the Bourgeois, or Constitutional Democrats, and the Socialist groups, but that all were agreed upon principles, the differences being entirely with regard to the carrying out of policies.

The conference, for this reason, was considered highly advantageous to the Provisional Government and the various political groups themselves, as it brought to a focus the opinions of all. In the discussions outside the conference, it was explained, it had been made to appear that the differences were insoluble, but as a matter of fact a compromise and solution were obtained.

The compromise and complete unity of all elements in the conference were reached on the necessity of a coalition Government. The different groups all maintained that principle and pledged support to the Provisional Government.

GLOOMY VIEW OF CONGRESS.

Conditions Against Practical Results, British Observer Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 29, (Dispatch to The London Times.)—The nation at large and the army no doubt feel grateful to Kerensky for enabling them to hear the views of authorized speakers who so clearly laid bare the situation of Russia before the conference concluded early this morning. Russia's allies will be gratified to learn that there is practical unanimity on three points: First, the army must be strong; secondly, the war must continue to the bitter end, and thirdly, the necessity of reconciliation between jarring classes and party interests.

Were it possible to assume that this unanimity is not subject to certain reservations the conference might be regarded as an unqualified success. Unhappily, such is not the case. The conciliatory notes recurring in Tsertelli's lengthy vindication of the "revolutionary democracy" cannot obliterate the fact that the various organizations, councils, and committees of which he and Tscheidse act as spokesman are permeated by a spirit of destruction, lawlessness, and indiscipline. A strong army is impossible without discipline, food, and munitions.

Nothing that was said at the conference gives us sufficient assurance that the reforms propounded by General Korniloff and supported by General Alexieff and General Kaledin will be promptly adopted in full measure. Half-hearted steps would only serve to intensify the present disorganization. The food supply is imperilled by the wildcat agrarian schemes, involving the destruction of both the larger and lesser farming interests. Munitions cannot be produced in sufficient quantities under present labor conditions, and under a revolutionary tax amounting to 90 per cent. of gross profits of munition works. The watchword, "War to the bitter end," admits of equivocal interpretation if the policy of the Provisional Government remains such as to debar the restoration of discipline and the reorganization of transport and food and munition supplies. With all the good will in the world no army can fight on empty stomachs, and no artillery can be serviceable without airplanes or projectiles.

We listened many hours to the persuasive eloquence of revolutionary idealists, who assured their hearers that organized revolutionary democracy alone was capable of saving the country. We heard not a word calculated to afford an atom of proof of its ability to cope with conditions vital to the business of Russia's salvation.

ASSEMBLY SHOWED POWER.

English Correspondent Thinks Government Gained by It.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 29.—The National Convention is over. It was a brilliant display. It proved, if proof were needed, that there is still strength and power and capacity in Russia.

On the whole, it may be said that the Provisional Government has gained in stability as a result of the assembly, but it did not gain in prestige. That row of excellent gentlemen who, throughout the proceedings, sat on the stage at a long table covered with red baize, somehow remained in the shade. The country was in the foreground. The Government was in the background.

The truth is that through its very unobtrusiveness the Government served as a common denominator representing national unity to the extent at present possible. For it must be admitted that the assembly was not united. There was a sharp and clear dividing line which, despite conciliatory efforts on both sides, was not effaced till the end.

There was no open conflict. No assembly could have been more serious, more dignified, more restrained. There were plain speaking and sharp criticism on both sides, but the sense of gravity and decorum, or rather the all-pervading sense of the national danger, modified the violence of party passion. Yet the clear dividing line between Right and Left remained. It was, as Guchkoff said, not a distinction of class but a difference of conception, the distinction between a State party and a Socialist party.

There were tempting and tantalising suggestions of national unity and there were moments when it might have seemed that on the main points unity had been attained. The general ovation was one such moment, but this was less a demonstration in favor of Kerensky personally than formal recognition of the fact that for the present the Provisional Government is the only possible centre of national unity.

More striking were the almost unanimous outbursts of applause when first General Alexieff and later Prince Kropotkin put the question, "Shall we yield to the Germans?" and emphatically replied "Never!" In fact, on the general question of war opinion was very nearly unanimous, and representatives of the Workers and Soldiers' Delegates made some remarkable admissions. The hackneyed formula "Peace without annexation and indemnities" was hardly mentioned. The question of the Stockholm conference was not raised.

The Council of Delegates strongly asserted its desire when Tseretelli declared: "We shall not lay down our arms until the enemy is driven from Russian territory," and, again: "We are all for strict discipline from top to bottom." More emphatic still: "There are no stronger opponents of separate peace than in the workers' and soldiers' and peasants' councils. If the sad necessity ever comes to conclude a separate peace it will be concluded over the corpse of the revolution." If this could be regarded as the considered and fixed opinion of the workmen's councils the outlook would be very hopeful.

The convention was united in the desire for victory, but it is just as obviously not united on the question of means and on the question of reorganization of the army. On economic questions the tone was much more conciliatory. Representatives of the industrialists on one side and of the trade unions on the other, while stating their various policies, plainly invited mutual co-operation. There was a scene when the railway expert Bublikoff, after declaring that the offered hand of the workers would not be held out in vain, warmly shook hands with Tseretelli amid a general ovation.

One great gain of the assembly was that it brought the opposing sides into human contact, gave an opportunity for personal estimates, indicated the actual place of each group in general, and wholly dissipated that atmosphere of prejudice that develops in all countries. By so much the assembly will have served to modify the possibility of an acute conflict in the future.

On one side were intellectual power, administrative and industrial experience, strong historical sense, and capacity for affairs. On the other side energetic and crude organisation, or a net of organizations that, as Tseretelli said, were learning by their mistakes. The Government represented a not wholly satisfactory compromise between the two.

MACKENSEN ASKS AID AGAINST RUMANIANS

Defenders Hope to Hold Moldavia, but Parliament Moves to Russia as Precaution.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The correspondent of Reuter's, Limited, at Odessa, sends the following advices under yesterday's date concerning the Rumanian situation:

"The latest communications from the Rumanian battlefront report fierce resistance, often favorable for the Russo-Rumanian forces, against violent enemy attacks in the region of Oituz, Ocna, and the valleys of the Sereth and the Putna. The losses have been heavy on both sides

"It is affirmed from authoritative sources that Field Marshal von Mackensen has urgently demanded strong reinforcements for his army. Rumanian army circles are still hopeful of retaining Moldavia, counting on the co-operation of large Russian divisions, but the Rumanian Government is taking all the measures dictated by prudence. A great number of Rumanian deputies have arrived at Odessa.

"The bureaus of the Senate and the chamber have been ordered to proceed to Cherson, where the Russian Government has placed a number of buildings at their disposition. The King and the Crown Prince, with the Premier and the Foreign, War, and Munitions Ministers, are remaining at the army headquarters. The other Ministers will go to Cherson with the Queen and the members of the royal family."

SOUGHT TO SEIZE EX-CZAR.

Russian Soldiers Searched Car of American Railroad Envoys.

PEKING, Aug. 31.—George Gibbs and John C. Greiner, members of the American railroad commission sent to Russia by the United States Government, have arrived here. The other members of the commission, they say, will remain in Petrograd indefinitely.

Both Mr. Gibbs and Mr. Greiner said today that the responsible leaders in Russia were gradually getting control, that conditions were improving and that they were hopeful of an improvement in transportation, as Premier Kerensky was directing the adoption of more scientific practices.

The American railroad men on their way to this city traveled over the trans-Siberian Railway in a special car, one day behind the train which was taking former Emperor Nicholas and his family to Tobolsk. They say that soldiers' committees at Krasnoyarsk and several other Siberian towns, having heard reports of the movements of Nicholas, suspected that he was with them. The soldiers searched the car for the former monarch and expressed disappointment that they were unable to capture him.

STUDENTS CHECK LOOTERS.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 31.—The fire last Monday in the City of Kazan, on the Kazanka River, 430 miles east of Moscow, spread so rapidly that the population fled to outlying fields and forests, a correspondent of the Bourse Gazette telegraphs.

Ruffians began to pillage on a great scale, but students of military schools acted energetically and stopped the looting. Later the flames spread to naphtha reservoirs, and the town was enveloped in smoke.

The fire burned for thirty-six hours, during which time the people remained outside the town. Order is being restored gradually.

LENINE IN SWITZERLAND.

Russian Agitator Said to be Writing a Peace Pamphlet.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—Lenine, disguised, has been staying here for the last fortnight at the village of Thalwil, near Zurich, where he is preparing a peace pamphlet. He is expected to leave shortly phlet. Thousands of copies are destined to be smuggled to the Russian Army. He is expected to leave shortly for Berlin.

MORE PETROGRAD RIOTS.

Militia Quells Anti-Government Outbreaks by Maximalists.

Cabling yesterday, the Petrograd correspondent of The Jewish Daily Forward said:

"The militia of Petrograd was busy the whole day suppressing anti-Government counter-revolutionary activities. Posters calling the population to an armed uprising against the Government were torn down and attempts at street demonstrations were vigorously quelled.

"The main reason for the strengthened anti-Government propaganda is the shortage of food, which is felt very keenly all over the country. Chernigov Jews were searched and maltreated on the pretext that they were concealing food provisions."

SOCIALIST VIEW CLEARED.

London Conference Showed Majority Firm for Allied Success.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—At first laughed at as a complete failure, the Allied Socialist and Labor Conference held in London this week is now judged in many quarters to have served a useful purpose in clearing the situation among the various groups. That the conference failed to reach unanimity of decision, it is argued, in no sense indicates its complete failure.

The conference showed that a majority representing Great Britain, France, and Italy wished to go to Stockholm to insist upon the war aims of the Allies, but this same majority is determined to pursue the war until Prussianism is crushed. The majority element takes President Wilson's reply to the Pope as almost exactly expressing its view.

The minority was composed of pacifists who want the war to be stopped somehow, some from humanitarian reasons, others because they think all wars are manifestations of capitalism. The latter hold that all governments, except possibly the Russian, are equally to blame, and refuse to compromise international Socialism by having dealings with any of them.

As the conference came to the conclusion that unanimity could not be attained in Stockholm or London, a correspondent of the Westminster Gazette points out that the Stockholm Council passes into the background for the present. In some quarters the view is expressed that the working class will have a say about the terms of peace, but that the proper time for this will be after an armistice and while regular negotiations are proceeding.

AUSTRIAN DEFICIT GROWS.

Interest on the War Loans Now Amounts to $352,000,000.

ZURICH, Aug. 31.—The Austrian budget for 1916-17 shows a deficit of 344,000,000 crowns, compared to a deficit of 49,000,000 crowns in the preceding year.

Two of the largest items of expenditure are 1,761,000,000 crowns for interest on war loans and 1,650,000,000 crowns for the support of soldiers' families. Special and direct war expenditures are not included in the budget.

AUSTRIA TAKES OVER POLAND'S ARMY

Uses It on East Front While Her Own Troops Are Rushed to Italy.

PLEDGES AGAIN VIOLATED

Berlin's Kingdom Plan Avowedly a Failure and Pan-German Papers Urge Its Abandonment.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 31.—Italy's victory on the Isonzo apparently is indirectly responsible for the crisis that has arisen over Poland, involving the resignation of the Polish State Council at Warsaw and the dispatch to the front as a part of Austria's forces of the army raised in Poland, ostensibly as a national home organization.

The Vossische Zeitung of Berlin, according to a Berlin dispatch, says that the sending of the Polish legions to the front, because of which the State Council retired, was due to military necessity, as every available man had to be thrown into the battle line. The legions, with the exception of a detachment of officers and non-commissioned officers that remained in Warsaw to instruct recruits, took over a section of the Austrian eastern front.

The newspaper's statement is a revelation because it had not been known here that the legions already were at the front relieving troops to reinforce the Isonzo front. This action was a violation of the understanding that Polish troops were to be used only in the defense of Poland and not the southern front.

The Tägliche Rundschau gives a new version of the reason for the retirement of the Polish Council, saying that instead of resigning it was dissolved because it ventured to present an ultimatum to the German Government on military questions.

The retirement of the council has brought out the fact that at the confidential session of the Reichstag Main Committee on Monday the majority parties demanded the establishment of a really representative assembly and a responsible Ministry in Poland—a step which the Rundschau declares would lead to an immediate demand for the withdrawal of Germans from Poland.

The Pan German newspapers have begun a campaign for abandonment of the idea of a Polish Kingdom, arguing that the retirement of the council gives a favorable opportunity to undo the mistakes made in proclaiming the establishment of the Kingdom and since that time. Newspapers of all shades of opinion agree that there is little friendship for Germany among the Polish population, and that the Poles who at the time the Kingdom was proclaimed were ready to cast their lot actively on the side of the Central Powers, and who never constituted more than a minority, are steadily losing influence and prestige.

The Pan German organs now declare that the bulk of the population is so avowedly anti-German that some solution other than the creation of a semi-independent Kingdom must be sought. A certain section of the Poles is again advocating a Kingdom in close association or union with the Hapsburg monarchy.

BERLIN, Aug. 30, (Via London, Aug. 31.)—The Foreign Office today informed The Associated Press that, notwithstanding the retirement of the Polish Council of State, Germany and Austria would proceed to complete the work of organizing the Polish State. The negotiations between the powers of occupation virtually had been completed and they had assigned to the recalcitrant State Council an important rôle in the new Government.

"The general offensive now being carried on by our foes," the Foreign Office official declared, "also is aimed at Poland, to which, therefore, is given the opportunity to fight shoulder to shoulder with us against the common enemy. For this purpose a large number of troops composing the newly organized legions have been placed at the disposal of Austria. A sufficient number of officers and instructors have remained behind, however, to continue the work of organizing the army.

"As soon as the military situation warrants the Polish troops now at the front will return home.

"It is to be regretted that the Council of State has made a pretext of this measure was wholly dictated by military necessity. The incident, however, will not interfere with German and Austrian plans for establishing a Government that will permit Poland to enter the ranks of independent powers."

POLES PLAYED FOR DELAY.

Members of Warsaw Council Hampered German Plans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Announcement was made by The Associated Polish Press tonight that American Polish leaders are "not distressed" by the news that the members of the Polish Provisional Council of State at Warsaw had resigned in a body. Polish leaders here were recently advised out of Switzerland that the persistent attempts of the Austro-German Governments to use the council for the purpose of creating a Polish army to fight for the Central Powers were certain to bring about the resignation of the members of the Polish Council of State.

"Inasmuch as the Council," says the announcement issued here tonight, "was summoned in the first instance by General von Beseler, Dec. 8, 1916, for the purpose of hastening the formation of the army, the American upholders of Free Poland are inclined to credit their fellow-Poles with having achieved considerable success in delaying the accomplishment of this purpose. Considering that the body in the first instance was called into existence under German proclamation the work of the members in quickening the sentiment for an independent and reunited Poland is also regarded as most praiseworthy.

"The Polish Council was authorized Nov. 26, 1916. On Dec. 8 General von Beseler summoned the Council to draft and suggest laws for the administration of Poland and to form an army. On Jan. 15 the Provisional Council finally met at Warsaw.

"In addition to the twenty-five members agreed on by the Poles and the Central Powers, the German and Austrian Governments each appointed a Commissioner and two Deputy Commissioners to represent them, and to suppress and check the activities of the Poles.

"Practically at their first meeting the Poles showed their spirit by declaring for an independent State which should embrace not only the Russian kingdom of Poland, 'but all those territories separated from Russia which gravitate toward Poland,' thus aiming at the inclusion of German and Austrian Poland. It must be admitted that from the start the Council has been persistent in urging the national idea, and instead of being an aid to the Central Powers, it has been a constant thorn in the flesh of the authorities.

"Even in resigning, it also noted as worthy of attention that the members of the Council have left behind them a committee to hold fast to such national concessions as have been won."

EXPECT BIG LOAN FROM US.

Russian Paper Talks of an Advance of Five Billion Rubles.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 31.—The Bourse Gazette says it has reason to believe that the favorable disposition manifested by Americans, particularly after the national conference at Moscow, will enable the Provisional Government soon to obtain from the United States a loan of 5,000,000,000 rubles.

WILSON NOTE LATE IN REACHING BRITISH

Full Text Was Not Issued by the London Press Bureau Until 9 o'Clock Wednesday Evening.

COMMENT GIVEN OUT FIRST

Paralysis of Newspaper Initiative Laid to the Censorship "Spoon-feeding" Methods.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—American newspapers may find an additional incentive to resist to the uttermost any species of censorship which they regard as interference with the freedom of the press in what has happened with regard to President Wilson's reply to the Pope's peace note.

It goes without saying that in pre-war days, when newspaper enterprise was unshackled, the issue of a document of such importance as the Presidential note would have stirred all newspaper offices to the fullest activity. The least imaginative can picture the efforts which American correspondents of European news agencies and individual newspapers would have made to get the document on the cables to this side. No London newspaper would have hesitated at the cost of having the message cabled at full rates if there had seemed any possibility of securing a "beat."

What did happen in the case of the President's reply to the Pope? That it was printed in the American papers Wednesday morning we know here from the fact that New York editorials commenting on it reached London Wednesday evening. The first version of the note published here was, however, a summary issued late on Wednesday by the Exchange Telegraph Company, which is understood to have obtained a copy, of which it circulated a partial transcript, from the American Embassy.

Later in the evening, at 9 o'clock, the Press Bureau circulated to newspapers the full text of the note. That is to say, one of the historic documents of the war was only made known to the British public practically a whole day after it had been printed throughout America. In pre-war days a document of equal importance would have been rushed over the cables and might have reached London in time to receive publication in special editions of the morning papers, allowing for the difference in time between New York and London. In any case the full text would have been printed in the earliest editions of the Wednesday afternoon papers.

Censorship Lessens Effort.

Too frequent cable delays operate against such a possibility nowadays, to some extent at least, but that some effort of the kind was not made is chiefly due, in the opinion of good newspaper judges here, to the fact as a result of three years of censorship English newspaper initiative and enterprise have become lethargic. Individual effort, in a measure, has become atrophied by continued experiences showing that "beats" even in matters which could legitimately be handled by newspapers without reference to the censorship have become a practical impossibility owing to the delays created by the routine working of the censorship.

English newspapers accepted the conditions created by the application of the censorship from patriotic motives without a full realization of the impediments and restrictions which it would entail upon their most legitimate enterprises. The American press has done well, in the opinion of newspaper makers here, in rejecting a censorship which would have exceeded the necessities of the time.

Another point in this connection is worth noting by American publishers and editors. In an interview printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES at an earlier stage of the war, Sir Edward Cook, one of the directors of the Press Bureau, put emphasis on the fact that the British bureau, in addition to its censorship duties, was supplying English newspapers with a certain amount of copy, being a distributing agency as well as a censor's office. To the bulk of English newspapers, hard hit by the war, this supply of free copy was possibly welcome.

A small number of papers of greater financial strength disliked the system as pointing toward the spoonfeeding methods applied to the German press, but no definite or emphatic opposition was raised. Now and again the spoonfeeding methods were adopted for the special purposes of various departments of the Government and attention was called to the fact in Parliament, with the result that these particular errors were not repeated.

A system by which the Press Bureau remained the distributing agency for Governmental and official documents of various kinds, however, continued and it is no exaggeration to say that the English press generally is now satisfied to wait for all such communications until they are handed out on a plate by the bureau instead of going to work itself to obtain and publish them, I am speaking only of cases where publication is in the public interest. Habits of this kind are not conducive to enterprise and doubtless had an influence in the particular case of the Wilson reply to the Pope.

Editorial Comment Rushed.

Parenthetically it may be mentioned that the first European comments on the note cabled to America were based on the summary circulated by the Exchange Telegraph Company. The complete text, in most cases, was received after the editorials had been written and when little time remained for modification.

Paris was even worse served than London in this respect. In some quarters it is suggested that the slowness of the European press in handling the President's note was probably the result of the financial straits to which newspapers have been reduced by the war. This was not the case so far as the London press was concerned. Fleet Street is not unprosperous, considering all the economic changes the war has brought about. Losses in the early periods of the war have been curtailed and advertising revenues have increased. None of the first-class London papers would hesitate to spend much larger sums than the cabling of the Presidential note would have cost, were there any possibility of a journalistic "beat," but for the reasons outlined such possibilities are nowadays scanty, and the spirit of enterprise in London journalism is moribund in the shackles of the censorship.

LONDON PACIFIST ARRESTED

E. D. Morel, Alleged Pro-German, Seized After Home Is Searched.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—E. D. Morel, Secretary of the Union of Democratic Control, one of the leaders of the pacifist movement, was arrested today. Morel's London office and his home at St. Albans were searched last Saturday by the police and several packages of documents were removed from his office. He had been accused by several newspapers of pro-Germanism.

Morel was charged in the Bow Street Police Court with unlawfully inciting one Ethel Sedgewick to convey to Switzerland a pamphlet contrary to regulations. After the presentation of formal evidence he was remanded.

Rumors of Alsace Change Continue.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Owing to the reports that Emperor William is contemplating a change in the status of Alsace-Lorraine, one of which is that it is to be transformed into a Federal State, some importance is attached here to a Berlin dispatch received by way of Basle, saying that Dr. H. von Dallwitz, Governor of Alsace-Lorraine, is now in Berlin.

BETHMANN ASSAILS GERARD'S VERACITY

Former Chancellor Says the Ex-Ambassador Gives Too Free Rein to His Imagination.

DENIES TALK ON WAR AIMS

Questions Gerard's Taste in Writing His Book and Aims a Shaft at "Shirt-Sleeve" Diplomacy.

BERLIN, Thursday, Aug. 30, (via London, Aug. 31.)—Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, the former Imperial German Chancellor, asserted today that it was his impression that James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, in writing his revelations of Germany's war aims, gave a somewhat free rein to his imagination. The statement of the former Chancellor was the result of his reading in a London newspaper Mr. Gerard's version of a conversation with him last January, in which it was alleged that Germany's peace terms were set forth.

"In his published report of this particular conversation," Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg told The Associated Press today, "Mr. Gerard attributed utterances to me which may have been made in other quarters in Germany, and to which he frequently referred in the progress of our conversation, but which were not my own. This applies especially to his reference to Germany's alleged intentions to seize Liége and Namur, and of Germany's plans to take possession of the Belgian ports and railways and to establish military and commercial dominion over that country.

"I never unfolded such German war aims to Mr. Gerard. In the course of my several conversations with him, as also in our discussion last January, I invariably referred to my Reichstag speeches, in which I stated that Germany would exact positive guarantees that Belgian territory and politics would not in the future be exploited as a menacing factor against us. I did not make any statement as to the nature of these guarantees.

"In the progress of our conversation Mr. Gerard suggested that the realization of far-reaching aspirations in Belgium would give King Albert merely a sham authority and asked whether it would not be better for Germany to forego such plans and, instead of them, endeavor to acquire Liége, which Mr. Gerard thought possible of achievement.

"Perhaps this suggestion was a bait, intended to provoke a reply from me. If so, the attempt failed. In all my discussions with the Ambassador on this subject, I referred to my public utterances in which I emphasized that I was endeavoring to procure a peace that would permit us to live in cordial and neighborly relations with Belgium.

"Mr. Gerard's memory would seem also to have served him faultily when he wrote down what was said about Russia. He dealt but superficially with Germany's eastern war aims, observing that the United States' interest in this direction was very limited and that Germany undoubtedly would have a free hand there. For Rumania and Serbia he also revealed very slender sympathy. Mr. Gerard did not obtain out of my mouth any of the statements concerning these countries which he attributes to me."

The former Chancellor then observed: "When diplomats undertake to exploit their official career for journalistic purposes they are very apt to be misled into putting into the mouths of foreign statemen utterances which either are the creation of an ample imagination or are based on faulty memory. Discussion of political opinions is bound to be transitory and fleeting."

The former Chancellor then touched upon what he considered the ethics of Mr. Gerard's disclosures as compared with the European idea.

"You Americans are an impetuous people," he said. "You do not seem to permit even your retiring diplomats to observe the traditional silence, nor have you the patience to abide the post-mortem publication of their memoirs.

Sir Edward Goschen (former British Ambassador to Germany and Austria) or Jules Cambon (former French Ambassador to Germany, the United States and Spain) probably could excel Mr. Gerard in revelations of entertaining diplomatic history and gossip. Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States,) too, I imagine, might startle us with the diary of his Washington experiences.

"In Europe, however, it would seem that publication of such matters, by common consent, is postponed to a later period, when judgments are both calmer and more mature. Mr. Gerard, however, may hold the special license conferred by 'shirtsleeve' diplomacy, as you call it, and I shall not dispute his prerogatives. But he must not give his imagination too free rein."

Away from the turbulent political arena, the former Chancellor is now enjoying harvest time on his estate at Hohenfino, Province of Brandenburg, two hours by rail from Berlin. During his conversation with the correspondent he begged off from talking politics, but assured the correspondent that the potato crop at Hohenfino was most excellent.

IGNORES NAVY LEAGUE.

Daniels Refuses to Comment on Its Expression of Regret.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Secretary Daniels today refused to comment on the statement issued by the Navy League, in which it accepts "without question" the report of the Naval Board which investigated the magazine explosion at the Mare Island Navy Yard, and expresses regret that the league had given currency to any statement of opinion to the effect that the investigation had been blocked.

"I have nothing to say," said Secretary Daniels, when asked today whether Colonel Robert M. Thompson's approval of the Navy League's expression of "regret" would result in the withdrawal of the ban that had been declared by the Secretary of the Navy against the Navy League. "You may quote me as saying that the Secretary of the Navy said he had no statement to make on any utterance by any officer of the Navy League," Mr. Daniels added.

FREE TWO AMERICANS.

Clayton and Whipple Reach Holland After Release by Germans.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Persistent efforts of the State Department to secure the release from Belgium of two Americans—C. C. Clayton of the Western Electric Company and —— Whipple of the Bell Telephone Company—have been successful, according to a report to the department today from The Hague.

The men have arrived there from Antwerp,, where they were detained by Germans since the first days of the war between the United States and Germany. Their case was similar to many others, the German Government refusing to issue passports. Germany never replied to the representations, but information since received by the department indicated that almost all Americans, other than those of German birth or ancestry, had left the country. Among those still in Germany, however, are many who are known to have been forced into military service on the ground that their naturalization in the United States was invalid.

NORWAY SENTENCES SPIES.

German Captain Said He Worked Under Official Orders.

CHRISTIANIA, Aug. 31.—Three German spies have been convicted at Bergen of supplying information to submarines regarding the sailing time of vessels, which were torpedoed later. Captain Laven and Herr Schwartz, German citizens, and Thorsen, a Norwegian, were given terms in the penitentiary. Laven was sentenced to five years, Schwartz to four, and Thorsen to ten years' imprisonment.

Captain Laven admitted that he worked under instructions from the German authorities. He said that German subjects were forced to obey such orders.

Norwegian newspapers in commenting on the trial emphasize that the country must take note of the fact that German subjects in Norway obey orders from their home country.

ALLIES MAY STAND ON WILSON'S REPLY

for the peace of the world. In any case, that is a subject that may well be studied by those sincerely anxious to put an end to the present system of international anarchy."

POPE KEENLY DISAPPOINTED.

Believes Wilson Reply Leaves Little Chance for Peace Efforts.

ROME, Aug. 31.—It is stated at the Vatican that Pope Benedict, on receiving President Wilson's reply to his peace proposals, did not attempt to conceal his bitter disappointment, and that he regarded the President's answer as leaving little room for further peace efforts at present. It had been no secret here that the Pope had hoped for a more favorable response from the United States than from any other power.

Before President Wilson's reply was read it was said at the Vatican that the responses from the various Governments were expected to be more favorable than the tone of press comment. At the same time the Pope was reported to have signified his intention of issuing a reply after receiving the answers of all the belligerents, pointing out questions in regard to which the mon rights of mankind.' These are our nations at war might be in agreement and others concerning which it would be necessary to hold discussions.

ROME, Thursday, Aug. 30.—President Wilson's answer to Pope Benedict's peace proposals was presented at 12:30 P. M. today by the British Minister to the Vatican.

Mgr. Cerretti, the newly appointed Assistant Secretary of State, immediately took the document to the Pope. The Pontiff does not read English, but he had a rapid verbal translation made and he was much touched by its wording.

The Pope remarked on the "lofty sentiments expressed and also the kindly, humane spirit and manner" of the President in rejecting the Vatican's proposals, but as this was the first answer received he was unable to repress his disappointment that his effort to check the war had been unsuccessful.

This afternoon Mgr. Cerretti translated the document, and the Pope will consider it at his leisure. It is not yet known whether he will make immediate answer to certain points in the note or wait until the powers have replied, and then give the same general answer to all. However, it is certain that the Pope is daily preparing an immense amount of documentary testimony to prove that his principal points are those already admitted or agreed to by all.

The point, emphasized in President Wilson's note, that no one can have faith in the honor of the German rulers or accept their signatures to a peace treaty, is a problem that has focused the attention of the Pontiff. Tonight it was evident that he was not content to cease his peace efforts, but would continue their discussion in further notes, possibly for the next four or five months, until he should gain ground or else become satisfied that the task was hopeless. It has been suggested that, by such a method, the Pope might reach with the warring nations a preliminary ground of discussion, and might eventually become represented at the final peace conference.

"TERRIBLE INSULT" TO KAISER.

Never Before Such Words, Says London Saturday Review.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Saturday Review, referring to President Wilson's note to Pope Benedict, as "the most forcible state paper issued during the war," says:

"We cannot remember that ever before the sovereign of a great nation, with an army and a fleet in existence, has been told that he is a liar and a cheat with whom no treaty can be made. This terrible insult, so amply deserved, comes with great effect from a nation that is not, like Britain, a European rival of Germany and cannot be described as jealous of German trade."

The pacifist Nation finds significance in the suggestion that peace terms are not far from the Pope's. It calls President Wilson's style "the most effective that any living statesman possesses," but says that, as a practical document, the note approaches the formula of no peace with the Hohenzollerns.

FIRMNESS OF WILSON HEARTENS THE FRENCH

Paris Finds French Ideals Strikingly Expressed in American Reply to Pope.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—In a leading article on President Wilson's reply to the peace proposals of Pope Benedict the Journal des Débats says:

"The Holy See found it suitable to take its intervention out of the discreet channels of diplomacy and to give it publicity, of which the danger is evident. It called, therefore, for a striking public reply, which has been given by President Wilson."

The paper reviews at length the President's argument, saying it is based on the brutal facts and nothing else, and continues:

"This appeal for the supremacy of democratic ideas in Germany will afflict, perhaps, those minds that prefer to live in the illusion of a satisfactory peace by compromise because of their country's war successes. The appeal depends upon the defeat of Germany, and until the German nation feels that defeat it certainly will not listen to President Wilson. This injunction from an adversary beyond any doubt will be exploited by the masters of Germany to arouse national sentiment."

The Journal des Débats recalls that there has been no question of crushing Germany or dismembering her, and adds:

"Neither is there any question of that after-the-war economic conflict which some persons have talked about inprudently. It will suffice to insure the complete independence, economic and political, of all the peoples attacked or menaced by Germany."

The Matin says President Wilson's note shows that he is a statesman of high, clear views, who remains faithful to his own thoughts throughout the unrolling of events. "The reply is really very simple and very clear," the newspaper says, "and thus will embarrass the Vatican extremely. We are eager to see the Vatican's answer. It cannot contest President Wilson's ideas, which conform to its own, in regard to the future of humanity liberated from tyranny.

"It will, therefore, be obliged to make known what it carefully has avoided heretofore—its opinion on the responsibility for the conflict and the forfeiture of the Hohenzollerns. If it remains silent, it will prove it has nothing to oppose to President Wilson's nonpossumus."

The Echo de Paris is completely satisfied with the declaration against the possibility of accepting the German ruler's word as a guarantee. It says:

"As for the transcendental conceptions that the President develops on the future peace effacement of economic barriers, and similar ideals, experience forbids us from giving faith to them, at least for the period for which we have to make political calculations, say, for a generation. Until the contrary is proved, the society of nations will be for us a society of nations which combat Germany."

The Temps says:

"President Wilson has taken counsel only with his conscience in formulating his response to the Vatican's peace proposals, but he has an ideal so similar to ours and such a clear view of European realities that his meditation has brought him to a finding of which we approve. The sentiment which inspires the entire note, just as it inspires the entire French policy, is the conviction that we cannot treat with the German Government at present.

"The President of the United States in his patient negotiations regarding submarine warfare had the same experience as France in ten years of discussion of Moroccan questions, and has drawn the same conclusion. Nothing would be gained by signing tomorrow a new 'scrap of paper.' It would not conduce to world peace. It would merely give the Prussian General Staff time to prepare for new aggression.

"That surely was not the end which the Pope proposed. He said the fundamental point must be the substitution of the moral force of right for the material force of arms, but Mr. Wilson has seen clearly and explained clearly that negotiation as suggested by the Holy Father would end in an entirely different result. In Germany it would give to the Imperial Government a renewal of strength. Outside of Germany it would compel persons who desire to remain free to create a permanent league against the German danger. It would result, in fact, in consolidating Prussian militarism and in perpetuating a régime of armed peace.

"It is not to achieve this that the United States entered the war. It is not for this that we are fighting. President Wilson wants a real peace, one which will do away with the causes of war. His doctrine is logical, from one end to the other. It is because he wants a pacific Germany that he rejects the idea of inclosing it within a wall. It is because he counts upon the opening of the eyes of the German people that he refuses to treat with the Hohenzollern autocracy. He has confidence in the future. He believes his idea can be imposed even on the enemy.

"We join the President in this pious hope, but this hope will not be realized unless the United States perseveres indefatigably in the battle for victory of the right. The calmness with which Mr. Wilson contemplates future peace corresponds with the energy with which he will continue to conduct the war. That is the comforting impression left by reading his note. More than ever we have faith in his untiring firmness."

WILSON DIDN'T REFER TO PARIS CONFERENCE

Washington Officials Silent on Attitude Regarding Economic Alignment After War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Secretary Lansing received dispatches from American Ambassador Page at London today telling of the enthusiastic reception accorded by British public opinion to President Wilson's reply to Pope Benedict's peace note. The Ambassador reported that the President's response had been received with greater acclaim by the whole British public than any previous declaration except his April war address to Congress and the declaration of a state of war with Germany.

With respect to that part of his message in which the President alluded to the economic alignment after the war, it was explained today that the President did not have in mind the Paris Economic Conference of the Entente Allies when he wrote that portion of his reply to the Pope. Officials declined to discuss or speculate regarding the attitude of this country toward the Paris Conference.

While officials here were gratified over the cordial reception of the President's note by the Entente Powers, they were not surprised. There had been some doubt concerning the approval by the allied Governments of some of the positions taken by President Wilson, but it was insisted today that there were no points of difference between this country and the Entente nations regarding any questions thus far raised by the entry of this country into the war.

TURNING AGAINST MICHAELIS.

Majority Reichstag Leaders Suspicious of His Peace Sentiments.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 31.—The close of the session of the Reichstag Main Committee in Berlin has shown that Chancellor Michaelis, like Bethmann Hollweg, is confronted by a recalcitrant opposition in the Reichstag and a movement for his retirement. This time, however, the rôles are reversed. The Liberal and Centre Parties are now the ones to suggest that the Chancellor must go unless he comes over wholeheartedly to their program, while the Conservatives and Pan German elements urge him to stand out against the threats and blandishments of the other side.

The Berlin Vorwärts, Tageblatt, Vossische Zeitung and other organs now say that all the signs indicate that the Chancellor belongs to the other camp, and the Socialists and radicals are for war against him if he persists in his course. On the other hand, Dr. Gustave Stresemann, the new leader of the National Liberals, in his program speech before the Reichstag committee, declarod for the collection of a war indemnity and the safeguarding of frontiers, according to the Chancellor's phrase, by annexations east and west.

A fair test of the Reichstag majority's influence over Chancellor Michaelis will be afforded by the result of the majority's ultimatum for an abandonment of the political censorship, giving the Government four weeks until the opening of the Reichstag to show results.

GERMAN AUSTRIANS ALARMED.

National League Denounces Agitation for a Separate Peace.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 31.—A telegram from Vienna says the German National League has demanded that the Government take unsparing measures to check agitation for a separate peace by Austria. It declares that Germans in Austria will oppose to the last any proposal to cede Trieste or South Tyrol to Italy.

A resolution adopted by the league inveighs against the irresponsible elements that are making it difficult for Austria to continue by her allies' side, and painting the situation at the front in dark colors.

DOUBTS ROUSING OF GERMANS.

Copenhagen Paper Praises "Open-Hearted" Appeal of the President.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 31.—The Berlingske Tidende of Copenhagen says that President Wilson's note to the Pope is marked with the originality that characterizes all of the President's messages and by a remarkable open-heartedness with which the President goes right to the kernel of the problem that no peace can be concluded with the present German Government because it does not observe its treaties and obligations.

The conclusion that, from the overrunning of Belgium, the war must be continued until the complete victory of right had often been expressed, the newspaper says, but never so clearly and comprehensively as by President Wilson. The Tidende believes that the document was drafted with a view to its effect on the German people, but that it is a foregone conclusion that it will be almost generally met with rejection by them.

O'CONNELL EXHORTS TROOPS.

Cardinal Says President and Pope Seek Common Aims.

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Aug. 31.—Cardinal O'Connell came here today to celebrate early mass at Camp McGinnis, where members of the 101st Infantry are stationed. The services were held in the little St. Catherine's Chapel which the Ninth Regiment, National Guard, now incorporated into the 101st, brought from El Paso last Fall.

At the conclusion of the service in the chapel Cardinal O'Connell spoke to the men of their duty to America and civilization in the present conflict.

"The head of Christendom and the leader of democracy, our Holy Father the Pope, and our peace-loving President are both working," he said, "for the same ultimate purpose, permanent peace, and their united endeavors, with God's help, will surely win. And you, with perfect, serene faith in our Holy Pontiff's prayers, and perfect, serene confidence in our President's purpose, will, by your courage, your self-control, your obedience, your discipline, aid powerfully the tremendous spiritual force resulting from the noble rapprochement in intention and sentiment of the two greatest influences in the whole world, the head of the old historic Church and the head of American democracy—the two powers which will, God helping both, in the end succeed in routing this spectre of awful war and binding all the peoples of the earth in understanding and amity.

"'The basis of all future peace must be justice and fairness and the common rights of mankind.' These are our President's own words; these I know to be the identical sentiments of the Pope.

"You constitute a goodly part of the great heart of America which yearns for a lasting peace and is willing to offer her best that all the peoples of the earth may be rescued from the perpetual menace of war and all the cruelties of constant conflict."

Reminding the soldiers that duty had called them to a high service—a service demanding perhaps the greatest of all sacrifices—Cardinal O'Connell said:

"As Christians you will not fear and as Americans you must not flinch."

HOPES FOR GERMAN TERMS.

Dutch Catholic Paper Sees Wilson Design to Invite Proposals.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 31.—Commenting on President Wilson's answer to the Papal peace note, the Catholic Tijd thinks it may be read as a conciliatory reply to the Pope rather than a courteous but decided refusal. The paper holds that the statement that there can be no basis for discussion because the Germans have not published their terms can only mean that there would be a basis if the Central Powers declared that they adopted entirely or practically the terms as formulated by the Holy See.

"There is hardly any doubt," says the Tijd, "that the Central Powers' reply will contain particulars on which they have thus far declined to shed light. It may be considered not an unfavorable sign that President Wilson has formulated his views so speedily, as if he wanted to encourage the Central Powers to lay before the mediator a sharp outline of their terms."

The Vaterland says: "Wilson's answer once more destroys any cherished hope for peace. Even if America wished to give a separate answer, she would have been obliged first to consult the Allies, so we may suppose that the general tone of the Allies' answer will be the same."

The semi-official Nieuwe Courant says that President Wilson's unwillingness to make peace with the present German Government on the basis of the status quo ante "agrees with the viewpoint which Wilson took from the time America entered the war that America was fighting for democracy and would only make peace with a democratic Germany." The paper asserts that this may be a catchword for whipping up the American masses for a continuation of the war, but that it does not hasten peace. The Nieuwe Courant remarks that the American as well as the English press appears to approve the note thoroughly.

PACIFISTS CAN'T FIND PLACE FOR MEETING

Talk of Chicago, Milwaukee, or Washington Now, and See No Welcome Anywhere.

CAPITAL WARNS THEM OFF

And Wisconsin's Governor Says "No"—New York Delegates Are in Chicago All Bewildered.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—The People's Council of America for Democracy and Peace will attempt to obtain protection for its proposed national peace conference in Milwaukee or Chicago, preferably the latter, and, failing, will bring the delegates together in Washington, according to conflicting statements by leaders after a conference late today.

While delegates straggled in from the West, and a special train carrying Eastern delegates neared Chicago, leaders debated for hours behind closed doors over the question of a convention city. Finally an agreement was reached.

"We are going to Chicago," said some of the conferees. "We are going to Washington," said others. And the delegates who had left for Chicago were told over long-distance telephone to remain there pending instructions. Still others hinted that a delegation might stop in Milwaukee to look over the situation.

Await Western Delegates.

Twenty-five committee members left for Chicago at 8 o'clock tonight. Other delegates departed on later trains. A few clerks will conduct the temporary headquarters here until all Western delegates have arrived and been directed East.

Excitement of the last few days incident to Governor Burnquist's order barring the peace conference from the State, North Dakota loyalty organizations' warning against meeting in that State, and Hudson, Wisconsin's unceremonious expulsion of the delegates last night was fanned by events of today.

Indignant leaders demanded their "constitutional rights." Eastern and Western delegates bombarded headquarters here with telegrams and long distance calls asking where the meeting would be held, and Louis P. Lochner, Secretary and official mouthpiece of the organization, issued a statement warning civil authorities that there "would be no further temporizing."

Mr. Lochner said he had telegraphed delegates to assemble in Washington, and that unless a suitable meeting place could be found there they would "assemble on the plaza in front of the Capitol."

Previously he had said that the meeting probably would be held in Milwaukee. Several other organizers, influenced, it was said, by advices from Milwaukee that a peace conference there undoubtedly would result in mob violence, stood out strongly in favor of making Chicago the convention city.

When plans had apparently reached a hopeless snarl, word came that Thomas Van Lear, Socialist Mayor, was ready to meet with the council members. In threes and fours they slipped from council headquarters in a small hotel to the meeting place. While the conference proceeded incoming delegates at headquarters protested against "ridiculous procrastination" of leaders in choosing a convention city because "of annoyances of petty civic authorities."

Mr. Lochner, closely guarded by his several assistants, evaded newspaper men after the conference, merely sending word that there was nothing to add to his previous statement that the convention would be held.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—No street meetings under the auspices of the People's Council of America for Democracy and Peace will be permitted in the national capital. The Police Department made this announcement today. The authorities at the capital probably will permit no assembly in the plaza there.

Officials today, when asked for an opinion, referred to the dispersal of Coxey's army when it attempted to enter the capital several years ago. This, they said, was a good enough precedent to govern the case.

WISCONSIN NOW OBJECTS.

Gov. Philipp Opposes Holding of Their Meeting in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 31.—Governor Philipp tonight wired Sheriff McManus that should delegates of the People's Council of America for Democracy and Peace arrive in Milwaukee they should be informed that it is his wish that no meeting be held.

The Sheriff was told to telephone for instructions if after this was done.

CHICAGO PARTY UNDECIDED.

Meeting Place in Doubt, but Minneapolis Contingent Entrains.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—A special train bearing 100 delegates of the People's Council of America for Democracy and Peace arrived in Chicago tonight, its [illegible] of funds and depressed in spirits and the destination unknown. Barred from Minnesota by Governor Burnquist, driven out of Hudson, Wis., and prevented from meeting at Fargo, N. D., they are without a home. Declarations that they would meet in the shadow of the Capitol at Washington met with a quick response that the police would treat them as they did Coxey's army.

Miss Emily G. Balch, Professor H. [illegible] Dana, Miss Crystal Eastman, Professor Lindley M. Keasby, Algernon Lee, Charles [illegible], Jacob Panken, leader of the delegation, [illegible] Russell, [illegible] Thomas, the Rev. [illegible], Seymour Stedman, Robert H. [illegible], leader of the Chicago Committee [illegible]

Miss Crystal Eastman and A. W. Ricker stated that they hoped the final vote, which will be taken here tomorrow by a special committee, would still be in favor of going to Minneapolis. Miss Eastman pointed out that Mr. [illegible] was only one member of the committee. When the special committee arrived from Minneapolis tonight they chose Mrs. Julia S. Poyntz as Chairman, and after several suggestions as to the future course adjourned for something to eat.

On the train a petition was circulated as to Minneapolis regardless of the opposition of the Minnesota Governor. It obtained a few signatures and disappeared somewhere. Those back of the petition asserted that their courage had been challenged. It was somewhere in the discussion that the petition disappeared.

Sara Bard Field was quoted as having said, in commenting on the various changes as to a meeting place, that the meeting had "gone bust." She was derided by others. Joseph Cohen, New York, made the longest speech of the meeting. He explained that the gathering must not be confused; that those present merely represented the organizing committee, and that the People's Council for Democracy and Peace as yet had not been organized. Those present, he pointed out, were merely the organizers, and it was important that they should meet somewhere to complete organization and start the beginnings of a national body.

While he was speaking several delegates, impelled by hunger, left the meeting.

MILWAUKEE, SAYS HILLQUIT.

Lochner Telephones New York That Pacifists Will Meet There.

Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, was in charge at the People's Council headquarters in New York yesterday. Following a conversation over the long-distance telephone with Louis P. Lochner, Executive Secretary of the council, he said:

"Accepting the repeated invitations extended by the municipal authorities of Milwaukee, Wis., the executive officials of the People's and Workmen's Councils have decided to hold their constituent assembly in that city beginning Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock."

Telegrams were sent to the delegation on the special train which was due to reach Chicago at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, telling the pacifists to go to Milwaukee. The council's officers here said they had received from Mayor Hoan of Milwaukee this telegram:

"If the principles of the Bill of Rights and the Constitution of the United States, which guarantees liberty of speech and the right of the people to peaceably assemble to consult for the common good, has been suspended in the State of Minnesota, I desire to inform you that both are living realities in the City of Milwaukee and the State of Wisconsin. I can assure you that, should your organization desire to meet in this city, it will be welcome."

In explanation of the fiasco in Hudson, Mr. Hillquit said:

"The delegates then decided to hold their convention in Hudson, Wis., but here also the city authorities put a ban on free speech expression." Continuing his statement, he said:

"For some time yesterday, Lochner and the other officials were considering holding the convention in Washington, so that the Federal Government could be put on record. It was decided, however, that as there was so little time, it would be impossible to make the necessary arrangements for halls, and other matters, so the plan was abandoned. Then it was decided to hold the assembly in Milwaukee."

The People's Council has made an announcement from its headquarters at 70 Fifth Avenue that its pacifist convention would be held at the following places, and up to the present has been wrong in each case:

Friday, Aug. 24, 3 P. M., Minneapolis, Minn.
Tuesday, Aug. 28, 5 P. M., Minnehaha Falls, Minn.
Wednesday, Aug. 29, 9 P. M., Fargo, N. D.
Thursday, Aug. 30, 4 P. M., Hudson, Wis.
Friday, Aug. 31, 10 A. M., Washington, D. C.
Friday, Aug. 31, 5 P. M., Milwaukee, Wis.

The National Security League, which had made preparations to have patriotic meetings to rival that of the pacifists in Fargo, announced yesterday that it would follow the pacifists wherever they went and try to overcome their attempts to spread their propaganda. The league tried yesterday to have Governor Philipp bar the pacifists from Milwaukee. S. Stanwood Menken, President of the league, sent this telegram to Willet M. Spooner, son of the former Senator and Secretary of the Milwaukee branch of the league:

"If action not already taken, suggest Milwaukee Branch pass strong resolutions opposing holding of peace council in your State and appeal to Governor Philipp to prevent meeting being held."

The Security League received yesterday from A. M. McNair, Chairman of the North Dakota Branch of the league, this message:

"Fargo's loyal citizens have firmly and peaceably prevented Eastman and Works from holding meeting here. The proposal to transfer Minneapolis meeting to Fargo was met by an adequate preparation by our citizens to prevent it in an orderly way by arranging to arrest and prosecute all participants. The Attorney General investigated the situation this morning, with the result that the meeting here was called off and transferred to Hudson, Wis. Sentiment almost unanimous in condemning Governor Frazier's guarantee of protection. Other cities of State warmly approve Fargo's action."

The delegates to the labor loyalty conference in Minneapolis will leave Grand Central Terminal at noon tomorrow on a special train. They will carry 100,000 pieces of literature and 10,000 labor loyalty buttons to distribute along the way. "Labor's Red, White, and Blue Book," a pamphlet of sixteen pages, will tell all working people why they should support the Government in its prosecution of the war. A collapsible platform will be taken on the train and meetings held in a number of cities where the train will make stops of from half an hour to an hour. Last night at 6 o'clock a special train left Los Angeles, Cal., bound for Minneapolis, which will pick up delegates along its route.

There will be an enthusiastic send-off for the labor loyalty delegates in the Grand Central Terminal. There will be a brass band and speeches, and Marie Louise Wagner will sing. She will have a guard of honor of American, British, French, Russian, and Italian sailors.

WEAK IN COMBATING AUTOCRACY'S POWER

Kaiser's People Can Be Aroused Only by a Shock, Says German Democrat at Berne.

HOPE IN BESSARABIA DRIVE

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

BERNE, Aug. 12.—I met a real democrat from Germany today. He hadn't been there very recently; perhaps his "room is better than his company" in the Kaiser's bailiwick. But he is very intelligent and has a large acquaintance in Germany with whom he is in constant correspondence. He is a zealous worker for the adoption of democratic ideas on American lines. I inferred that while his mind had been tending in that direction for some time, his actual conversion had been brought about by President Wilson's State papers.

The late Cabinet crisis contained no comfort for this democrat. It was true that there had been some growth of liberal thought in Germany since the war, but it was not strong enough to defy or even to disregard the Kaiser, representing as he did, the tradition and fact of royal power and the military system.

The people are stirring more or less for democratization. Their thought gives the impulse to the Reichstag. But public opinion as a force is not yet rooted. The initiative comes from the people, but the militarists override it. A half-formed public opinion proposes; a highly organized, thoroughly intrenched Kaiserism disposes. That was the formula for the recent action of the Reichstag and the sequel.

Changes in Kaiser's Moods.

The Kaiser is a neurasthenic. He changes from week to week. At times he is something of a democrat himself. He is worked upon by war conditions and by personal influence. Russia's breakdown has withered his budding faith in democracy and driven him back to the old real thing.

The devil was sick, the devil a monk would be.
The devil was well, devil a monk was he.

The people of Germany are strong when they serve the Kaiser, but grow weak against him. They are yoke-oxen. The very discipline which cements them prevents the development of initiative and independence. But the present informant sees better things in the future. Even the Germans can't stand everything. They will be aroused against the tyranny over them either in case of military defeat, or continuance of, or further decline in economic and food conditions.

He thought that Sweden and Bessarabia would be decisive as to food supplies. The President should carry out the most drastic measures in respect to Sweden. From that country such quantities of material for munitions and food supplies have come into Germany that people have wondered how Sweden had gathered it and transported it. It was thought possible that the German Navy had helped in the transport from Sweden.

Germany was now making a drive on the eastern front for Bessarabia. The present crop of grain in that rich agricultural country would help enormously, but even if it were necessary to wait until next harvest, the possession of Bessarabia would encourage Germany. The people are quick to take heart, and hope goes almost as far as actual food.

My informant thought that Germany could hold together until late Winter, but if by that time Sweden and Bessarabia should be out of hand, it would be difficult to control the people longer, and revolt in some tangible form would follow.

Delusions Spread by the Press.

The lack of information in Germany and the blind acceptance of authority by an intelligent community was attributed in part to press control. The representatives of the military, naval, and civil power sit together in conference daily and adopt policies for the press. These are adhered to slavishly. Even a great journal like the Frankfurter Zeitung is obliged to submit to this brutal dictation.

The press, on orders, prints next to nothing about America. That situation receives the silent treatment. The people would be influenced by America, owing to the bonds of kinship between the two countries, but they get nothing but a few half truths.

A sample of the kind of misleading that is put out and accepted by German people is the ineradicable belief that America is in a state of mental servitude to England. They deeply think that America was captured by an exclusive scheme of English propaganda antedating the war. The publication of extracts from Bernhardi's book by several American newspapers early in 1914 is cited as conclusive proof of the English propaganda.

The tenacity with which Germans hold to the utterly absurd belief in the mental subjection of America by perfidious Albion recalls a not dissimilar obsession in England on the point that Count von Bernstorff had America in hand at one stage of the game. Of course poor Bernstorff never had a particle of real pull anywhere in America at any time. He didn't even always receive his "cash on delivery" purchases. It was German propagandism—a thing discarded off-hand by the rebelliously free mind of America—that impaired Germany's standing at the bar of American opinion from the very first. Her case was really never considered on its merits—for it had none after Belgium and the Lusitania—which American perception was quick to grasp.

My informant brought a report that will be especially interesting in America. It was to the effect that Count von Bernstorff was giving real advice and information in regard to America, and that he was himself showing distinct leanings toward democracy. Stranger things have happened than von Bernstorff holding a seat in a German Liberal Ministry. He knows America, if they will but encourage him to bring his knowledge to bear in the councils in Berlin.

Ministers Forced to Subserviency.

The trouble is that the Kaiser, like most of the breed of autocrats and tyrants, listens only to those who tell him what he wishes to hear. No Minister can get along with him without sacrificing his own principles and convictions. Hindenburg and Ludendorff are not so subservient, but they are war chiefs and cannot be replaced. These two are said to give the Kaiser an hour a day, and no more, for advice and consultation. That hour finished, the two generals leave on the dot, declining always, on the score of military duty, to accept royal hospitality which would tend further to open military matters to what they regard as lay discussion.

The opinion was expressed that if anything should happen to the Kaiser the Crown Prince would never be allowed to take his place as absolute monarch. There is enough "kick" in German liberalism for that. Moreover, the Kaiser's policy ending in this great war has fully capitalized for himself all the loyalty to dynasty that there is in Germany—every drop of it.

The liberalism that must lie at the bottom of the working German's unwillingness to delegate to a single individual future power to plunge him into war ruin, the liberalism of kinship and sympathy with the world, the liberalism of right thinking and right feeling of which even war brutality has not extirpated the roots, the liberalism of love of family, pleasant routine, music, friendly conversation and quiet things—this is the liberalism that my informant hopes for in Germany, whether now or later, whenever final doom shall be pronounced upon the tyranny that now stalks over the land.

"He that leadeth into captivity shall go into captivity; he that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword."

TO BUILD THREE SHIPYARDS.

Big Results Promised from Proposed Fabricating Plants.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Contracts for the construction of three great Government-owned ship fabricating yards were awarded today by the Emergency Fleet Corporation to the American International Corporation, the Submarine Boat Corporation, and the Merchants' Shipbuilding Company, and orders were issued to exert every effort to rush the work.

Plans already under consideration call for the construction on preliminary orders of more than 1,500,000 tons of steel shipping in these yards. The ships will be of 5,000 and 7,500 tons each.

The American International Corporation, which will operate at Hog Island, will build at least 200 ships, it is reported, and the Merchants' Shipbuilding Company, at Chester, Penn., forty or more. The Submarine Boat Corporation at its plant at Newark will have a capacity that will permit the building of twenty-eight ships at one time.

A statement issued by the President of the latter corporation today, which was submitted to the Shipping Board, asserted that the plant would be able to complete one 5,000-ton ship every two days, when it was working at full capacity.

Estimates of the funds to make possible this extensive program have been submitted to Congress, and it is expected that there will be little delay in that quarter.

NEW REICHMANN CHARGE.

Colonel Said to Have Declared Germany Would Prove Invincible.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—E. N. Walton of Cleveland, Ohio, testified today before the Senate Military Sub-Committee that Colonel Carl Reichmann, nominated as a Brigadier General, told him in a conversation on a train two months ago that Germany was invincible and that the United States would regret having entered the war when dead and wounded soldiers began returning to this country.

Mrs. James Anderson of Victoria, B. C., wife of a Canadian army officer, whose charge that Colonel Reichmann uttered pro-German sentiments held up the Colonel's nomination, will resume tomorrow her testimony which began yesterday.

BOND BILL READY FOR HOUSE DEBATE

features are administrative, however, and are not specified in the bill.

To exploit the bonds and war savings certificates the bill allows a sum equal to one-fourth of 1 per cent. of the amount of the total issue; for the certificates of indebtedness one-tenth of 1 per cent. is allowed.

An amendment added to the bill today provides that the foreign bonds and securities held as collateral by this Government may not be redeemed at less than par. It is also provided that the [illegible]

Bond Campaign Plans Ready.

Every detail in preparation for the next Liberty Bond campaign has been arranged for. Indications are that the offering will approximate $3,000,000,000. Under the direction of Oscar A. Price, Fourth Auditor, who has succeeded Robert W. Woolley, ex-Director of the Mint, the organization of the machinery of announcement, including newspaper articles, posters, and the numerous forms of printed appeals to the investing public, has been pushed forward and is in readiness for the signal to begin operations in all parts of the country.

The words to begin this work depends on Congress. Under the existing authorization by Congress Secretary McAdoo could at once proceed to place the second issue, but with the necessity of determining the rate of interest that must be paid on successive issues, nothing can be done until Congress has acted.

Secretary McAdoo's announcement follows:

"It is contemplated that the second Liberty Loan campaign will close on the 1st of November next, and that the active campaign will begin not later than Oct. 1. The details of the loan cannot be given out until the Congress has acted upon the Bond bill now pending. As soon as the new law has been passed announcement of the details of the loan will be made. Obviously no subscriptions will be received or can be received to the new loan until the Congress has acted upon the pending measure and announcement of the issue is made. [illegible]

[illegible]

The campaign to have the next issue of the Liberty Loan bonds advertised at Government expense will necessarily depend on action by Congress. For several weeks the matter has been under consideration by Secretary McAdoo. Delegations of publishers and advertising managers have held conferences with him on the subject. The appeal has been made that the large monetary value represented in free advertising throughout the country should not be sought as a gift from a class of business men who at this time are struggling with the burden of excessively high cost of labor and materials. At the same time, Congress has not made provision for paying the bill.

Secretary McAdoo today issued the following statement in regard to the matter:

"I am receiving numerous communications as to the attitude of the Treasury Department with respect to the campaign now in progress in the country to induce the Government to engage in a policy of paid advertising in connection with future issues of the Liberty Loan. It is necessary, therefore, that the position of the department should be made clear.

"In the first Liberty Loan campaign the department did not pay for any advertising space in newspapers, street cars, bill boards, or other mediums. Some newspapers voluntarily advertised the loan free of cost to the Government, as did street car, bill board, and other advertising agencies. In addition, many bankers, investment houses, merchants, and others, inspired by the same public spirit, bought advertising space or gave over to the Liberty Loan part of the advertising space for which they had contracted.

"There seems to be an impression that the Treasury Department in the first Liberty Loan campaign applied for free advertising or paid for advertising in some papers and not in others. That is entirely erroneous. The Treasury Department did not ask newspaper publishers for free advertising, because it realized that the newspapers' only profitable commodity is advertising space, and that there are many papers which are not able to give free advertising, especially in view of the high cost of print paper.

"Newspapers and press associations loyally co-operated with the Government in the first Liberty Loan. News and editorial columns were devoted generously to the issue. [illegible]

[illegible]

"The question of paid advertising presents a serious problem for the Government. [illegible] A private enterprise may advertise in a selected number of mediums most useful for its purpose, and may control its expenditures for that purpose, without any limitation except its own desires or ability to pay. If the Government engages in such a campaign it must advertise in every newspaper and periodical in America without discrimination; all must have equal treatment, and should have equal treatment. The Government must be thoroughly democratic and impartial in a matter of this sort. To make the advertising thorough and effective it should be done on a broad and liberal scale. The cost of such an undertaking would be very great, and would exceed the appropriation which the Congress has thus far made available for the sale of Liberty bonds.

"This question is, however, being carefully considered by the department, but obviously a final decision cannot be reached until more light has been received as to the cost of an effective advertising campaign, and until it has been decided what appropriations will be made available by the Congress for future issues of Liberty bonds."

CALL FOR CURBING KAISER'S SPEECHES

"Impulsive Statements" Criticised at Session of Reichstag Main Committee.

SPONSORED BY MICHAELIS

Kuehlmann Asserts Chancellor Has Representative at Headquarters and Is Responsible.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—A dispatch to The London Times from Amsterdam says that in the censorship debate in the Main Committee of the Reichstag on Wednesday a Centre Party speaker asked who was responsible politically for the Kaiser's speeches. He cited the promise in 1908 that the Chancellor should be responsible for the conformity of the Kaiser's public utterances to the official party, otherwise the latter could not be regarded as trustworthy abroad.

Foreign Secretary von Kühlmann replied that the Foreign Office had a permanent representative at Great Headquarters, so that the Chancellor's official responsibility for the speeches of the Kaiser was assured.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 31.—A warning that unless the German Government heeds the demands of the Reichstag for reforms the majority parties will take measures to meet the situation was given before the Reichstag Main Committee on Wednesday. Abolition of the political censorship and limitation of the military censorship to facts connected with the conduct of the war and criticism of that conduct were held to be necessary because it is notorious that the military authorities exercise a sweeping political censorship of the German press on the pretense that publications of a political nature may affect the military spirit of the people.

Dr. Karl Heine, Socialist, gave the Government four weeks, until the assembling of the Reichstag, to mend its ways. Otherwise, he said, the Reichstag majority would be forced to take steps. The Government has received half a dozen earlier warnings of a similar nature, and its response in the present instance will not be an unfair test of the influence of the present majority in the Reichstag.

Speeches and pronouncements of Emperor William were criticized in the debate on the censorship. Mathias Erzberger, Centrist leader, and Dr. Heine called attention to the effect caused by the Emperor's impulsive statements, which sometimes run counter to the ostensible policy of the Government. Although not mentioned in the censored accounts of the committee's proceedings, the Emperor's critics probably had particularly in mind his recent utterances in regard to England, which he declared must be defeated at any cost as Germany's arch-enemy.

Dr. Heine appears to have demanded freedom for the press to discuss such utterances of the Emperor. Herr Erzberger asked whether Chancellor Michaelis assumed responsibility for what was said by the Emperor. Foreign Secretary von Kühlmann replied that the representative at Great Headquarters of the Foreign Office was informed concerning these speeches, and that the Chancellor assumed responsibility.

As had been expected, the misleading "denials" by the Foreign Office of Premier Kerensky's statement that a separate peace offer had been made recently to Russia and of the message which former Ambassador Gerard announced had been sent by Emperor William to President Wilson at the outbreak of the war were brought up for criticism. Herr Erzberger said the German official communications were coming into wide discredit abroad, owing to the many self-evident contradictions in them.

DRAFT APPEAL GRANTED.

New Yorker Who Refused to Register May Take Case to Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Meyer Braubarg, a college student of New York, convicted on a charge of violating the draft law, today received permission to appeal his case to the Supreme Court.

Braubarg was sentenced to serve one year's imprisonment for refusing to register on June 5.

MONTREAL RIOTERS DISPERSED BY POLICE

Dominion Authorities Firmer in Repressing Hostility to the Conscription Law.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Aug. 31.—At last the authorities have made it clear that it is intended to enforce the new conscription law with a firm hand and that any more sedition will be visited with the punishment provided under the penalty clauses of the act. After last night's rioting, which resulted in several policemen being severely hurt, two spectators wounded by pistol bullets, and scores of persons slightly hurt by bricks, stones, sticks, and policemen's batons, the authorities decided not to give the rioters any more rope.

It had been intended tonight to assemble on the Champ de Mars, a big open public square behind the City Hall, and there, after seditious speeches, to march to the immigration depot and storm it. Before the rioters could organize, the police, led by Deputy Chief Grandchamps, were among them. A force 150 strong, moving rapidly about in small groups, split up the crowd, which numbered several thousands, and drove them off, keeping them moving until they had been dispersed into leaderless fragments.

Secret Service agents this morning found in an uninhabited house a fairly large stock of rifles, munitions and other warlike material. This is understood to have followed the confession, after two days' grilling, of Elie Lalumiere, the young anti-conscriptionist leader who is now under arrest charged with having attempted to murder Lord and Lady Athelstan and their daughter by dynamite a few weeks ago. Lalumiere, it is reported, gave up his defiant attitude after two days of constant third degree methods, and has disclosed important facts to the Dominion police.

It is also stated that Tancrede Marsil, one of the most violent of the anti-conscriptionists, whose paper, La Liberte, has been counseling a campaign of blood to resist, and who has made numerous threats, has also been arrested. He has been conspicuous by his absence from the demonstrations and this was the sign that preceded Lalumiere's arrest.

ROOSEVELT HEARS OF SONS.

Major Wood, Their Comrade in France, a Guest at Sagamore Hill.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Colonel Roosevelt listened to stories of the important battles in the European war for several hours this afternoon at Sagamore Hill. They were told by Major Eric Fisher Wood of Pittsburgh, who was attached to an English regiment and who recently returned to this country, having been transferred to the Eighty-third Regiment under Major Gen. Glenn.

Major Wood was graduated from Yale in 1910 and is a companion of Major Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and Second Lieutenant Archie Roosevelt, sons of the Colonel, who are now on the battlefields of France. Major Wood suffered two broken arms in the battle of Arras, and was also wounded in another engagement. He referred to his injuries as "not very serious" and "trivial," and said they did not stop him in leading his men in the capture of several German trenches.

The Colonel was greatly interested in the recital and especially so as he heard of news of his sons.

NEW ITALIAN LINE PLANNED.

Fourteen Big Ships to Go Into Service After the War.

Louis Costa, acting manager for Peirce Brothers of New York, Naples, and Messina, announced that a new Italian steamship company had been formed in Naples with a capital equivalent to nearly $20,000,000 in United States currency to operate a passenger and freight service between New York and the Italian ports after the war. Fourteen big steamships, Mr. Costa said, had been purchased or were under construction in the shipyards in Italy, and a big trade was expected to open up between the United States and the Mediterranean after peace has been proclaimed.

William Peirce is the President and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the new corporation, and George Peirce, President of Peirce Brothers in New York, is one of the directors.

Thousands of barrels of grapes and boxes of lemons, onions, currants, &c., have been stored on the piers in Spain, Italy, and Greece this season until they spoiled in the sun on account of the lack of tonnage in the Mediterranean trade.

BAD WEATHER CHECKS FIGHTING IN WEST

German Attacks in the Neighborhood of Epehy Gain Slightly From the British.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—This was a day of small operations along the allied front in France.

The day report of the British War Office says:

The weather is unsettled.

During the night the enemy heavily shelled our forward positions near Arleux-en-Gohelle, (five miles south-east of Lens,) and at an early hour this morning attempted to raid our lines. The German troops were repulsed completely.

The British official statement issued tonight says:

Early this morning the enemy opened a heavy bombardment against the positions recently captured by us east of Hargicourt and east of Epehy. At the same time the Germans shelled our lines east of Gouzeaucourt.

East of Hargicourt, no infantry attack developed, but further north strong bodies of the enemy attacked at an isolated knoll north of Gillemont Farm, forming a part of the ground gained by us on the 19th instant. They forced our small garrison to evacuate this advanced position. Other hostile parties which attacked our trenches east of Gouzeaucourt were repulsed.

During the night strong German raiding parties succeeded in entering one of our posts east of Oostaverne. A few of our men are missing.

The day report of the French War Office reads:

East of Cerny a German patrol which attempted to approach our lines was repulsed by our fire.

There was active artillery fighting on both banks of the Meuse.

In Alsace an enemy attack south of Hartmanns-Weilerkopf was repulsed completely.

There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front.

The night report from Paris says:

No infantry action took place during the day.

The cannonade was rather spirited in the region of Cerny and on the right bank of the Meuse, and also to the north of Hill 304.

BERLIN, Aug. 31, (via London.)—A portion of the ground recently gained by the British south of Le Catelet has been recaptured by the Germans, according to the War Office bulletin today, which reads:

Front of Crown Prince Rupprecht: In Flanders the fighting activity of our own and the enemy's artillery increased toward evening on the coast and between the Yser and the Lys. During the night there were many encounters in front of our positions, and a number of British were made prisoners. In the Artois, north of Lens, local [illegible] which continued until darkness.

South of Le Catelet companies of [illegible] wrested from the British portions of their recent gains. Numerous prisoners were brought in.

D'ANNUNZIO IS WOUNDED.

Poet Shot in Wrist While Fighting in an Airplane.

Il Progresso Italo-Americano publishes this morning the following dispatch from its Milan correspondent:

"Gabriele d'Annunzio has arrived in Milan slightly wounded in the left wrist. The poet has related to his friends that he had taken part in all the recent aerial bombardments, three against Pola, and more than a dozen on the battlefront, often descending to within 170 feet of the ground.

"He said that on one occasion, when he was at a height of 3,000 feet, his steering gear broke and he was obliged to descend to the ground. The machine suffered no damage, nor was he himself wounded, but the next day, during the battle, a shot penetrated the car of the airplane and wounded him in the wrist.

"'The bombardments,' he reported, 'were a wonderful success; the attack of our aviators seemed like an attack of cavalry.

"'Our machine guns cut a path through the enemy. When the battle was at its height a dozen of the enemy's batteries were thus deprived of their gun crews.'"

FRENCH TRAINING PERSHING'S FLIERS

Scores of Them Receiving Special Instruction and Will Serve with French Army.

WIDE FRONT FOR OUR FORCES

Situation of Supply Depots and Other Plans Forecast Operations on Immense Scale.

By The Associated Press.

AMERICAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Thursday, Aug. 30.—A trip along the American lines of communication from the sea to field headquarters reveals in striking manner the immense plans which have been made to serve and care for the large army the United States hopes to have in France. In the making of these plans great reliance is being placed for the time being upon the French, whose ability and willingness to help the Americans seem to be wholly inexhaustible.

For the present American army and navy aviators who are in France are studying in French schools, using French machines of all types. Scores of these aviators are now taking this instruction, and will later join the French flying service. Later they may be transferred to the American Army, as they would form an experienced and self-reliant force for service when the American troops take their place in the line.

Many other American students who are training with the French are being instructed solely for service with the French Army. Already they have had actual experience in flying, but army aviators are not brevetted until they have flown a total of twenty-five hours. Naval aviators qualify after fifteen hours of flight.

Three fliers have met death thus far. This is regarded as a remarkably light percentage. The French have been delighted with the aptness of their American pupils, who seem to have a natural bent for flying and learn quickly. Casualties in the aerial service are always heavy, especially when the men first go over the line into enemy country, but pilots and observers who survive the first week or months of actual war flying are considered of the greatest value, giving the corps its prestige and example in morale.

Large quartermaster stores are being established along the American lines of communication, with the idea of so placing them that the troops may be supplied in all directions and over a wide front. Here again the French are lending invaluable aid, having turned over to the Americans many of their own field buildings. Some of them are complete with French staffs, carefully trained French women clerks and French laborers.

Efforts are now being made, in formulating the American organization, to obtain the right men for the right places. It is realized that an expert in food importation and distribution cannot render the best service in charge of the clothing department, although such makeshifts occasionally are necessary as temporary arrangements. Medical reserve bases from which field and base hospitals will be supplied have been established, with complete stores, even to comfortable rocking chairs for convalescent wounded men, which probably will not be needed for a long time.

The field bakery which has been established at some distance from the present American camps has been so placed as to supply the army most advantageously when it grows to larger proportions. This bakery supplies white bread, made from American flour, for all American troops. The British troops also receive white bread, but the French eat brown war loaves.

MENELIK'S HEIR CAPTURED.

Lidj Jeassu, Deposed Emperor, Reported Again in Foes' Hands.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Lidj Jeassu, the deposed Emperor of Abyssinia, who escaped from Magdala, has been captured, according to a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Jibuti, French Somaliland.

Lidj Jeassu is a grandson of the late King Menelik, whom he succeeded in 1912. He was dethroned in 1916 by his aunt. A London dispatch of Aug. 26 reported that the deposed Emperor and his followers had defeated 300 of the Government forces, who had been trying to capture him for six months.

The 100 members of the Isaiah Temple decided to accept the hospitality of the Baptist congregation because they were unable to raise funds to build a synagogue at this time.

BRITISH CASUALTIES 58,811 IN AUGUST

1,278 Officers and 10,942 Men Killed—4,122 Officers and 43,469 Men Wounded or Missing.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The total of British casualties on all fronts as reported in August is 59,811, divided as follows:

Killed or died of wounds: Officers, 1,278; men, 10,942.

Wounded or missing: Officers, 4,122; men, 43,469.

The report of casualties for August is virtually confined to the first and second phases of the battle of Flanders, begun Aug. 1 and Aug. 16, respectively. According to a report issued Aug. 14, 21,722 of the total 59,811 casualties belong to the first phase.

This is a remarkable showing, whether the figures are compared with the preceding month with 71,899 casualties, or with August, 1916, (the second month of the battle of the Somme,) when the loss was 127,945.

Following the Franco-British activities from February to May, Mr. Bonar Law stated in the House of Commons that the British casualties had been 50 to 75 per cent. fewer than those in the battle of the Somme. The August total shows a similar decrease between last month and the preceding.

BOARD TO INQUIRE INTO 69TH CHARGES

Lieut. Col. Reed Submits Affidavits as to Manner in Which Fillup Recruits Were Chosen.

POOR EQUIPMENT ALLEGED

Chief Concern Is Over Possible Delay in Getting Away to the War Front in France.

A board of inquiry is to investigate charges made by commanding officers of the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Regiment, formerly the Sixty-ninth, now at Camp Mills, Mineola, who allege that among the four quotas making up the 1,400 men sent by New York City regiments to put the Sixty-ninth at war strength were some soldiers unfit physically and mentally for active service. A report concerning these men and the method by which they were transferred from the former National Guard units to the Sixty-ninth was received yesterday by Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan a few hours before his departure for the camp at Spartanburg, S. C., which is to be the training quarters of the Twenty-seventh Division of the federalized New York National Guard.

Lieut. Col. Latham Reed of the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Regiment had a conference at Division Headquarters yesterday afternoon with the Division Commander, to whom he submitted affidavits from non-commissioned officers of the regimental quotas that included "unfit" men. These documents and the report were sent to the headquarters of Brigadier Gen. James W. Lester at the Van Cortlandt Park camp, who will be in command of the Twenty-seventh Division here pending the departure of the units for camp. It was understood that General Lester would appoint a board of inquiry.

According to the rule of the War Department the men assigned from one to another unit of National Guard forces were to comprise "picked" men exclusively, and were to be provided with full equipment for instant service in France. It is charged that some of the men lacked equipment and in other cases the equipment was inadequate.

The regiments affected by the charges were not discussed. The quotas were sent from the Seventh and Seventy-first regiments of Manhattan, and the Fourteenth and Twenty-third of Brooklyn. Colonel Hine and members of his staff of the Sixty-ninth and Major Gen. O'Ryan and members of his staff declined to say that any officer of these four regiments was affected by the charges. But it was intimated unofficially from other military sources that those responsible for the unfit men of the quotas neglected their duty.

The chief concern of Colonel Hine and his officers regarding the undesirable men forced upon them is that it may delay the regiment's departure for France. The "Sixty-ninth" men share the resentment of their officers over this handicap. When the Sixty-ninth was chosen to be the one New York Federalized National Guard unit, and was ordered to Camp Mills by the War Department as part of the Forty-second Division, the men expected to be the first of the guardsmen to go to the battlefront.

It was said last night that the necessary war strength of the regiment may be made up with other quotas of picked men, so that the men of the Sixty-ninth may not be held in camp pending a military ruling, and dismissing the undesirable men. The affidavits from the non-commissioned officers describe the method followed in making up the quotas. It is said that these affidavits indicate that the men were not "picked," but were drawn by lots.

Fifteen of the men of the quota from the Fourteenth Regiment who were among the seventy men who absented themselves from camp without permission and sought to go back to their former commands returned to camp yesterday. They, with others of the "runaways," are now under guard on fatigue duty. What other punishment they are to receive has not been announced. Those who do not voluntarily return within the next day or two will be tried as deserters. Four soldiers from each company from which men are absent were sent out last night, armed with rifles, to search for the derelicts. One of the missing men was found wearing civilian clothes. He was arrested and taken back to camp. All but forty of the absent men have now been accounted for, it was said.

New arrivals at Camp Mills yesterday included the 157th Regiment of Infantry from Montgomery, Ala., commanded by Colonel William T. Screws, and the 117th Engineers' train of North Carolina.

Major Gen. O'Ryan, Colonel H. H. Bandholtz, chief of staff, and twenty-seven officers, started yesterday for Spartanburg. Holmes O'Ryan, 7 years old, son of the commander, accompanied his father. He will attend school while his father remains at the camp. Holmes carried an air rifle. He was with his father at the Peekskill camp and at the manoeuvres at Fishkill. Majors Olmsted and Loree will be in charge of division headquarters here until the troops depart, after which the staff headquarters will be in Albany.

The commission named to reduce the number of liquor licenses in the township of Hempstead, which is the township of Camp Mills, recommended to Deputy Excise Commissioner Raynor yesterday afternoon that 77 of the 203 licenses be refused. Among others placed under ban of the recommendation is the Meadow Brook Hunt Club. It is said, however, that the commission had no jurisdiction to make suggestions regarding clubs.

At Pelham Bay Park last night seventy-five boys from the Cathedral Club took part in a minstrel performance for the entertainment of the soldiers, under the direction of the Rev. Father Quinn. W. J. Boyd of Fordham has donated a reading and writing tent to the troops.

Colonel J. H. Wells announced last night that an active campaign was to be begun to recruit the Seventy-first Infantry, New York Guard, which takes the place of the National Guard now in Federal service, to its full strength. Company F will be organized tonight at the armory, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street. All men between 18 and 45 who wish to do military service in the State guard are invited to appear and enroll.

tion because he had waived it in the first place. By a vote of seven to four the District Board decided that Frasio will fight for America.

So many drafted men are applying to be allowed to go with the first 5 per cent. to Camp Upton that the local boards are becoming embarrassed in making the selections. It is desired that men who have had military training, and cooks, bakers, butchers, machinists, carpenters, and all others who can help in the organization of the camp, be sent first. To get men with these qualifications some local boards are sending out letters asking such to come forward and go with the first contingent. C. A. Durbin, Chairman of Local Board 115, in Public School 17, at 327 West Forty-seventh Street, sent out such a letter, but received so many responses that he had difficulty in sorting out the desirable ones.

That the Government will segregate the white and colored races in the National Army is indicated in the following order to local boards, issued, at the direction of Provost Marshal General Crowder, by Adjt. Gen. Louis W. Stotesbury:

> In order to provide for the segregation of races in the regiments and other organizations and to arrange for compliance with State laws requiring the races to travel in separate coaches, it has been found that it will be necessary for the Adjutant General of each State to know the number of colored and white men certified from district to local boards and to the Adjutant General on Form 164. Hereafter the notation "white" or "colored" will be made opposite the name of any person certified from local to district boards on Form 146, or from district boards to local boards and the Adjutant General on Form 164, and the total white and colored born on the list will be entered on the margin thereof. The Adjutant General should call on local boards for a statement of the number of white and colored men contained on the list already certified to local boards and the Adjutant General on Form 164. This information should be gathered promptly and be kept up to date, to the end that the Adjutant General will always know the number of colored and the number of white men who are on the available list of selected men in each local board in the State who have not been sent to mobilization camps.

City employes who enter the military or naval service will receive from the city the difference between their service pay and their city salary. This was determined yesterday, when Controller Prendergast received a formal opinion on the subject from Acting Corporation Counsel Louis H. Hahlo.

City employes who are called in the draft may, under the Corporation Counsel's opinion, claim exemption upon the ground of being the sole support of dependents. The opinion points out that dependency may mean present or future dependency, and that employes whose full city salaries are available to the family should be permitted to claim exemption even if the full income is assured. It also points out that if the city employe is killed, the city contribution ceases.

The opinion also declares that if the city has power to raise an employe's salary or give him a leave of absence with pay, it also has the power to grant a leave of absence with pay in military cases. The Controller's office has not yet computed just how much money will be involved in the payments to men in the military or naval service. About 800 employes have volunteered their services, but how many will be eligible under the draft has not yet been determined.

OFFICERS HERE LACK FUNDS.

Many Prematurely Called to New York Find Situation Embarrassing.

Several hundred officers who received commissions in August, after graduation from training camps in various parts of the country, and were ordered to report for duty in or near New York, have found on arriving here that their date for going into active duty has been postponed. The number of newly commissioned officers temporarily idle in New York City at present is said to number between 1,000 and 2,000.

The orders received by hundreds of these indicated that they were to be assigned to duty immediately upon arrival here. Some were to be used for the training of recruits. All classes received word when they reached New York that preparations had not been completed for using them in active work. Some of them have come from points as far West as Texas.

While the extension of leave for most officers who have arrived from other cities has meant a chance for a holiday in New York City, it has caused a good deal of embarrassment to scores of others, who expected to go on duty immediately, and who came here with little money left after purchasing their equipment. Numbers of officers who have university or other affiliations here have readily found homes for themselves. Most of the hotels and other firms have been liberal in extending credit to new army officers who have found themselves temporarily in straits. Others are having some difficulty in tiding themselves along until Sept. 5, the date when pay for service in August is expected. All of the new officers have been on the pay roll and have received traveling expenses since the date of receiving their commissions in August, while they received an allowance of $100 a month for attending the training camps before that date, so that as a rule the hardship was not great.

INDICT DRAFT OBJECTOR.

Socialist Had Refused to Submit to an Examination.

The first indictment returned in New York involving the refusal of a man called for service under the selective draft law to submit to examination was returned by the Federal Grand Jury yesterday morning. The man who was indicted is William Hendel, 946 Trinity Avenue, the Bronx, a Socialist who refused to submit to examination on the ground that he was a conscientious objector. He also wrote a letter to the draft law officials stating that he was opposed to all wars except the "class war."

Three saloon keepers, Andrew Styck, Stabley Pacoul, and John Diletto, were also indicted by the same Grand Jury charged with violating the liquor sections of the selective draft law which prohibit the sale of intoxicating drinks to soldiers of the United States. The soldiers to whom the liquor is alleged to have been sold are all of the Twenty-seventh Division, belonging to units encamped at Van Cortlandt Park.

William H. Kimber, also indicted by the Federal Grand Jury, will stand trial for impersonating an enlisted man of the Marine Corps. He was arrested some time ago on the Bowery wearing the uniform of the marine service.

REVEALS SECRETS OF DAYS BEFORE WAR

Emperor was not quite master in his own house and that official Berlin was divided into two parties, one anxious for a working agreement between England, France, and Germany, and another, not yet avowedly a war party, regarding all these attempts as hopeless or dangerous, or both. Then, and for some time afterward, Emperor William belonged to the first party and genuinely was anxious for friendly relations with England. The Crown Prince, with Admiral Von Tirpitz and the General Staff, and probably Prince von Buelow, belonged definitely to the second.

The party division became much sharper, and later was persisted in by Germany even after the war began. Haldane had German sympathizers in the same sense that Emepror William had English sympathizers, who believed it was for the good of the world that England and Germany should come to an understanding. The key to Haldane's whole policy was, while preparing against the eventual triumph of the anti-English party, to strengthen as far as possible those in Germany disposed to be friendly.

"The vulgar idea of the Kaiser as a deep and consistent schemer," says the article, "is almost certainly wrong. He is, before everything else, a poser, an actor. He desires before anything to cut a figure on the world's stage. He is usually asking himself, am I or am I not of the stuff of the great Frederick, in small things as in the great?

"He once prepared a paper on the reform of the English militia and sent it to the British War Office, where it was read and filed, and he was as pleased as possible when a new War Minister in a conversation told him that he had both seen and read it."

Viscount Haldane visited Berlin in the Spring of 1912, not to negotiate a treaty, but under instructions by Sir Edward Grey to discuss affairs freely and refer everything to the Cabinet. The subjects of conversation were the general European situation and the German shipbuilding program in consequence of the growth and power of Germany as the head of the triple Alliance. Naturally there had been other powers which tended to approximate thereto, but there was no reason why the Triple Alliance and what was called the Triple Entente should not be friendly.

Viscount Haldane assured Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, who seemed skeptical, that Great Britain had no agreement with France and Russia except as had been published. Great Britain's military preparations were not hostile. Referring to Morocco, Viscount Haldane said that if Germany had intended to attack France and destroy her capacity to defend herself Great Britain would have had such an interest in the result that she could not have stood by and seen it done.

Chancellor Makes Proposition.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg proposes a formula that neither England nor Germany should enter into any combination against the other. Substantially the following conversation ensued:

Haldane: "I don't like that way of putting it. Suppose Germany joined in an attack on Paris, or Belgium, or Portugal, which we are bound by our treaty obligations to defend?"

The Chancellor, satirically: "Or Holland."

Haldane: "I am not clear about the treaty situation in regard to Holland; but supposing Germany were to pounce upon France and proceed to dismember her? England surely could not stand idly by."

The Chancellor: "Yes, I suppose what you say is fatal to my formula."

Haldane: "What about an undertaking against aggressive or unprovoked attack, and against all combinations and plans directed to that end?"

The Chancellor: "But how can you define what is meant by aggressive and unprovoked attack?"

Haldane: "How many grains make a heap? But one knows a heap when one sees one."

Haldane asked what good was an agreement if Germany was going to increase her battleships and force England to do the same. England, he said certainly would have to lay down two keels to Germany's one.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg was anxious to meet Haldane, but evidently was nervous about what the Admiralty would say. The next day the question was discussed at luncheon with Emperor William, Admiral von Tirpitz, and Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg.

Haldane made the point that an agreement would be bones without flesh if Germany went on with her new fleet. The Emperor was visibly disturbed at the suggestion that there could be no political agreement worth having unless there was an agreement about German shipbuilding.

Admiral von Tirpitz said it was hard for Germany to make any admission about Great Britain's two-power standard. Haldane said the initiative was with Germany. The conversation resulted in the dropping of one battleship from Germany's program. Count von Reventlow in his book asserted that three were dropped.

The next day the conversation between the Chancellor and Haldane resulted in a provisional approval of Haldane's formula for the Entente, with the addition of three important articles. These were:

First, if either side became entangled in a war in which it could not be said to be the aggressor, the other would observe benevolent neutrality and try to localize the conflict.

Second, the neutrality should not apply where there were no reconcilable existing contracts. The contracting powers were to do all in their power to prevent differences between them and other powers.

The Chancellor offered England an exceptional position in the railway between Bagdad and Basra. Haldane asked for the controlling position. Germany was to recognize England's political interests in the Persian Gulf and Southern Persia, and to help England get from Turkey a concession for an extension of the railway from Basra to Koweit. Germany asked certain territorial changes in Africa.

The article says that the proposed settlement was, on the whole, favorable to England, except that Turkey was drifting into the position of a dependency of Germany. Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg would have yielded on the naval difficulty for the sake of an agreement in the Near East, but Admiral von Tirpitz had his way for the sake of a few ships which have been of no value to Germany in the war.

The article concludes:

"Haldane tried by every means consistent with Great Britain's interest and honorable obligations to strengthen the hands of the moderates in Germany, while his enemies have strngthened the hands of the extremists and supplied them with arguments that England, despite her fair professions, was the real enemy.

"Considering the political forces at work, the war may have been inevitable, but those who tried to make hearway against the current have no reason to regret their endeavor."

PROTEST IN BEHALF OF NEGRO TROOPS

White and Colored Educators Ask Baker Not to Differentiate in Treatment.

BELIEVE HE WILL COMPLY

Objections from South to Sending Negro Troops There for Training Considered at Conference.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The widespread protests against quartering negro military units with white troops or quartering negroes anywhere in the South was the basis of a conference which the Secretary of War held this afternoon by his invitation with a party of men interested in the negro question, most of them educators. These men, eleven of whom are in Washington attending a meeting to consider negro educational methods, were in Secretary Baker's office for nearly two hours. President Wilson is deeply interested in the problem, rendered acute by the recent outbreak at Houston, Tex., and no action will be taken by the War Department until he has been consulted.

After today's conference those who participated said they had been bound to secrecy by Secretary Baker. One of them said, however, that the opinion of the delegation had been unanimous. Secretary Baker declined to make any statement.

It is understood, however, that a protest against segregation or distinctly different treatment of negro troops in training camps was made to President Wilson and Secretary Baker by the white and negro educators. After the conference it was said that Secretary Baker shortly would make an announcement concerning treatment of negro soldiers. Members of the committee expressed the belief that the War Department's attitude would be agreeable to them.

The negro leaders promised to cooperate to eliminate as far as possible danger of race riots near negro concentration camps. They made no definite objection to the movement of negro troops to Northern States, where this danger probably would be lessened, other than to object generally to different training or treatment of the negroes.

While the conference was in progress Dr. Robert R. Moton, who succeeded Booker T. Washington as President of Tuskegee Institute, went from the War Department to the White House to keep an appointment with President Wilson. They discussed the negro troop question. No statement as to their exchange of opinions was forthcoming either from the White House or Dr. Moton.

Spartanburg, S. C., has sent a protest to Washington against having the Fifteenth New York Infantry, a regiment composed of colored men, encamped at that place with the other contingents of the New York National Guard. At the War Department it was said that the place to which the Fifteenth would be sent had been determined, but it was not Spartanburg. Department officials declined to tell where the Fifteenth would go.

In addition to Dr. Moton, those who attended the conference with Secretary Baker included Dr. James H. Dillard of Charlottesville, Va.; Oswald Garrison Villard of New York, George Foster Peabody of Lake George, N. Y.; Jesse Jones of the United States Bureau of Education, E. C. Branson of the University of North Carolina, Gilbert N. Brink, representing the Baptist Home Missionary Society; Bishop Wilbur H. Thirkield of New Orleans, William H. Baldwin of New York, Dr. H. Paul Douglass of the American Missionary Association of New York, L. Hollingsworth Wood of New York and State Superintendent of Education Harris of Louisiana, besides a number of negro educators.

ENGINEERS DELAYED ON SPARTANBURG TRIP

Likely to Arrive This Morning, When Officers Will Be City's Guests.

Special to The New York Times.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Aug. 31.—The Twenty-second Regiment of Engineers of New York, commanded by Colonel Cornelius Vanderbilt, were expected to arrive at Camp Wadsworth late tonight, but a message received this evening by the railroad authorities announced that because of delays they would not get in until tomorrow morning. Major Gen. O'Ryan is expected at noon, and, following a reception, he and his staff and the officers of the Twenty-second will be the guests of the city at a "welcome" dinner.

Due to the fact that the officers' quarters at the camp are not yet quite ready for occupancy, the arrivals will make their temporary headquarters at a hotel. The troops, tired by their long journey, will get an opportunity to work out the "kinks" by undertaking the three-mile hike from the city into the camp. The road is uphill all the way, and the jaunt, coming right at the very start of things, probably will prove somewhat of a trial, but it is planned to give the men liberty the moment the preliminary work of settling camp has been done.

Now that the Southward movement of the New Yorkers had begun, the Chamber of Commerce and public spirited men are centring their efforts on a campaign which has been weeks under way, to prevent overcharging. Spartanburg citizens announce that they are determined to prevent any semi-buccaneering against the guardsmen, and by circular and poster are warning the townsfolk against "shaming Spartanburg."

The following, which is tacked to most of the city's telegraph poles, conveys the idea:

HALT! ATTENTION, SOLDIERS!

You will confer a favor by reporting to Post Office Box 554, Spartanburg, S. C., any case of overcharging on the part of any merchant or establishment in Spartanburg or vicinity. A committee designated to deal with such cases wants the information, and will act upon it without involving the person making the report. The people of Spartanburg want the soldiers in camp here to be treated justly and honestly, and it is expected that such will be the case without exception. Should, however, any such cases develop, the matter should be made known to the committee.

In line with the work that is being done to stop all extortion there has come a change of front toward the Fifteenth Infantry, a negro regiment. Though yesterday the city was wrought up over the report that the black troops were coming and took measures to show its resentment, this feeling abated today, and the general disposition will be to make no further protest. The plan now is to permit the regiment to come to South Carolina if it is ordered here and wait to see if the negroes "observe the rules."

All day at the camp laborers were at work clearing away the débris that littered the company streets and putting the finishing touches on the mess barracks. Particular attention was paid to the site picked for the Twenty-second, and once the regiment is comfortably settled the engineers will be required to make ready the military construction work left undone at the twelve other regimental sites.

The all-important task of providing entertainment for the soldiers is being pushed through the Young Men's Christian Association, which will have several buildings scattered through the camp, and through the Playground and Recreation Association of America, the latter the representative of the Government in this department. A library of 12,000 volumes is being installed, and community singing and all sorts of athletic activities are to be included.

The religious welfare of the soldiers will receive especial attention. To supervise this work the Young Men's Christian Association has sent here Dr. A. C. Barbour, President of the Baptist Seminary at Rochester. He will have as assistants men "conscripted" by the Young Men's Christian Association War Work Council from the ranks of education, business, and the clergy. Those who reported for duty today included the Rev. Dr. A. R. Hageman, rector of an Episcopal Church in Binghamton; the Rev. Dr. F. J. Knapp, who fills a charge in Utica; J. G. Moore, New York; the Rev. T. J. Bolger, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Elmira, and the Rev. Dr. A. W. Beaver, pastor of the Lake Avenue Baptist Church, Rochester. A layman recruit for the work is Robert Caulfa, who resigned as welfare director of the du Pont munitions plants to come here.

Workmen Make Demonstration Against High Cost of Living.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Workmen in the Swiss cities of Berne, Zurich, and Basle went on a half-day strike yesterday as a protest against the high cost of living, says a Havas dispatch from Basle.

The manifestation was organized by Socialists, who, the dispatch adds, declare that if it does not produce results a prolonged strike, involving municipal services such as gas and electricity, will be ordered.

PLAN BIG TRIBUTE TO NATIONAL ARMY

Governor, Mayor, and Citizens to Join in Honoring Men of the Draft.

PARADES IN 3 BOROUGHS

Reserve Officers Called Upon to Lead Those Who Will Be in Their Commands at Camp Upton.

The Mayor's Committee on National Defense announced last night the completed program for "National Army Day" next Tuesday, when New York City's quota of 38,572 men for the National Army are expected to parade in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn. The Manhattan parade, which will also include the quotas from Queens and Richmond, will mobilize in lower Fifth Avenue at 8:45 A. M., and will get under way one hour later, passing up Fifth Avenue to be reviewed by Governor Whitman, Mayor Mitchel, Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell and other prominent citizens and officers from a reviewing stand in front of the Public Library. The line of march will be from Eighth Street to Fiftieth Street, and it is expected that more than 20,000 men will be in line. More bands than have ever appeared in any parade in the history of New York will furnish the music for the occasion. The men from Manhattan, Queens and Richmond will mobilize as follows:

Districts 89 to 97 inclusive in West 8th St.
Districts 98 to 106 in East 8th St.
Districts 107 to 115 in West 9th St.
Districts 116 to 124 in East 9th St.
Districts 125 to 133 in West 10th St.
Districts 134 to 142 in East 10th St.
Districts 143 to 151 in West 11th St.
Districts 152 to 160 in East 11th St.
Districts 161 to 169 in West 12th St.
Districts 170 to 178 in East 12th St.
Districts 179 to 187 in West 13th St.
Districts 188 and 189 in East 13th St.

After the parade the selective draft men, together with as many of their friends as can gain entrance, will enter the Polo Grounds, the gates to which will be open at 12:30 P. M. All drafted men wearing the official badge will be admitted free. Prior to the ball game between the New York and Boston National League teams, patriotic exercises will be held and Mayor Mitchel will make a speech. At night there will be entertainments and dinners in all boroughs in honor of the national army men.

Today and tomorrow there will be religious exercises throughout the city arranged specially for the soldiers of Camp Upton. A call for services in all churches and synagogues has been issued by the Rev. Dr. Walter Laidlaw of the New York Federation of Churches and by Rabbi B. A. Zintner of the Board of Jewish Ministers.

Captain A. L. Boyce, U. S. R., who has been drilling thousands of the selected men and will act as marshal, will have as officers on the line of march volunteers from the reserve officers now in town awaiting orders. Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell has strongly urged all reserve officers in town to be aids to Captain Boyce for the parade. He pointed out that the marchers will make up the reserve officers' comands, and invited them to try their hands at leading their future battalions on their first march together. Captain Boyce will confer with the reserve officers at Governors Island at 4:30 P. M. today.

In the Bronx the parade starts at 10 A. M. The line of march is Willis Avenue and 143d Street north to 149th Street, west to Courtlandt Avenue, north to 161st Street to Washington Avenue, north to 167th Street to Franklin Avenue to McKinley Square, to Boston Road to 174th Street to Southern Boulevard to Tremont Avenue, west to Crotona Park, then back to Borough Hall, where there will be speakers. Prominent men of the Bronx will address them.

In Brooklyn the parade will start from the fountain on Bedford Avenue, and the men will fall in on the side streets just off Bedford Avenue. From the fountain the line of march will be up Bedford Avenue to Lafayette and down Lafayette past the University Club. Here the reviewing stand will be located. Brig. Gen. John H. Foote, for many years Colonel of Brooklyn's "Fighting Fourteenth," will lead the marchers.

WILL EXAMINE ROOKIES.

Neurologists to Pass on Fitness of Men Training at Plattsburg.

All men in training at Plattsburg for army commissions are to be examined by neurologists to determine their fitness for army commands. Dr. M. S. Gregory of Bellevue Hospital and Dr. George H. Kirby on the medical staff at Ward's Island, have been appointed to make the examinations.

Drs. Gregory and Kirby will visit other training camps to do similar work.

POLICE HUNT SIGNALS FLASHED TO HOBOKEN

Chief Engineer of City of Oran Reported They Were Sent From Eleventh and Hudson Streets.

Lieutenant William Driscoll of the Second Police Precinct, Hoboken, was on the desk at the station house last night when he received a message saying that some one was sending signals over the river from the houses at the corner of Eleventh and Hudson Streets in this city. Two men sent to investigate learned from Chief Engineer Alexander Lenox of the steamship City of Oran, belonging to the Ellerman and Wilson Line, that he had notified the police because he was convinced the lights were signals.

C. J. Miller of 14 East Forty-third Street and Albert McCarthy of 456 West Eighty-sixth Street, New York, both watchmen on the Twelfth Street piers, corroborated the statements of Lenox. Although the police waited for some hours, no light appeared. The matter will be investigated.

B. & M. SHOPMEN STRIKE.

Refuse to Wait to Have Court Pass on Wage Demands.

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—More than 2,500 machinists and boilermakers employed in shops on the Boston & Maine Railroad struck today. The men demanded a wage increase of eight cents an hour, which was refused by the road on the ground that it was in the hands of the Federal courts under receivership and could not undertake an added annual expense of about $900,000. The company offered a two-cent increase, which, it contended, would make the pay slightly higher than that on the New York, New Haven & Hartford, where a three-cent increase was recently granted. An increase of two cents an hour was granted on April 21 and made effective from Jan. 1 last.

James H. Hustis, Temporary Receiver of the road, offered to take the wage matter up with the court as soon as practicable, Sept. 10, and the men were requested to defer action until then. The men refused to wait unless the receiver would give them a written statement that he would recommend to the court an increase of six cents an hour.

Men's clothing manufacturers are not depending on style as largely as they used to in order to create a demand for their products at present. The natural demand for clothing is so great, and woolens and labor so scarce, that they have all to do to keep up with it.

That is one reason why the difference in cut between a Fall Suit of clothes and a Spring Suit of clothes is so slight. We maintain that the greater difference is in the price.

THE PILGRIMAGE TO BERNE.

It is probable that the gathering of German and Austrian politicians in Switzerland has for its object something more than a mere attempt to set balloons afloat with a general hope that they will land somewhere. It is likely that these individuals have a definite aim, which is to reach statesmen of the allied countries with their proposals. When Mathias Erzberger said that if he could only get Lloyd George alone for a little while he could bring about peace, he gave voice to a desire entertained by men far more important than he.

Germany's great effort is concentrated not on the west front, but in the allied countries. It is a last desperate effort to snatch a victorious, or at least a comforting, peace from the jaws of impending defeat before the preparations now being made to descend on her with overwhelming military strength can be carried out. To this end she is striving, with might and main, to sow dissension among the Allies and build backfires among their respective peoples. It is still Germany's belief that her enemies are actuated by the same ambitious motives that animate her, and that consequently, by showing it to be to the advantage of one of them to desert the others, she can bring about a schism.

This is why she has always refused to name her peace terms in the open. They will not bear to be named, because they involve the bribery of one belligerent at the expense of another. If a German statesman could show Lloyd George where it would be to England's profit to desert her allies, he believes with all his soul that Lloyd George would instantly do it. The constantly reiterated proposal for a peace conference means just that; it means a round table where the parties would outbid and outbribe each other, and where the outbidding and outbribing would be done not openly, at the round table itself, but in secret conclaves, where little groups of two and three could gather together, as the history of peace conferences in the past points the way.

Germany has been foiled by the reiterated refusal of the Allies to enter such a conference; but, still believing that the way to a comfortable peace for her lies in the bribing of nations, she wishes desperately that the thing could come about to which Erzberger gave expression. The building of the backfires among the peoples she leaves to the pacifists and Socialists, at the same time encouraging any promising motive of discord, like the Irish agitation in the United States, for example; but the separation of the Allies by national bribery must be done in personal interviews, whether at the peace conference she has so often proposed or in secret conversations. It is not to be doubted that the array of notables in Switzerland is moving heaven and earth to find some way of approaching the statesmen in enemy countries; and it is equally indubitable that they will fail. Germany is a long way yet from understanding that these nations have not entered the war to be bought off with territory at the expense of their own allies or hers, or that they mean what they say when they declare that the war must go on until the German hand is removed from the throat of democracy.

THE WEST POINT MEN.

Within four months West Point has graduated two classes of young men fit to take their places as officers in our war army. The justification for the commissioning of the men of 1918, who were graduated a year ahead of the specified time, is obvious. Even if there was not a shortage of army officers, men who have received three years of hard training in military science would be needed in wartime for active service. These young officers are in the way to get better training than they could have received in a fourth year at the Military Academy. In 1861 West Point had two graduation days for the same reason and with the same justification.

The 125 young men who received commissions as Second Lieutenants Thursday will be rapidly promoted. Many of them will be needed in the national army, and there will be higher ranks for them there. They will render valuable service in training the drafted citizens, and they will soon see war in its latest development. There is no danger that West Point will lose any of its distinction, in spite of the vast number of competent officers in the various branches of the Republic's great army who are not West Pointers. There will be no aristocracy in our army. The Plattsburg man and the promoted private or "noncom" will not be outranked in service by the man who has the West Point advantages, but those advantages are bound to tell if the man has really benefited by them. The West Pointers need fear no rivalry or injustice in selection from this Administration or any that succeeds it.

JUDGE HYLAN RESCUED.

Judge Hylan is the friend of the people, so some people tell him. It has been painful to all tender souls to see a friend of the people perplexed, mystified, on the anxious seat. A civic regenerator should be able to focus his thought on civic regeneration. How can he when for days and weeks a rival regenerator keeps him in suspense? Judge Hylan has been rather cruelly, if artistically, tantalized. At the eleventh hour, the hour of belated decision and repentance, the feared rival speaks from California. Judge Hylan's agony is over, for it seems unlikely that anybody will be so wicked as to name a candidate in the next three days to oppose him in the primaries.

There is a happy statesman in Brooklyn, albeit his felicity is temporary. Presumably Mr. Murphy ought to be happy. His is not the intellect to cope successfully with the wiles and stratagems of so accomplished and various a politician as has just declined the flattering offer of divers duly enrolled voters to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor. If Mr. Murphy in accepting, provisionally or otherwise, the candidacy of Judge Hylan, was the victim of a bogus indorsement, if the deep-revolving Mr. McCooey was too subtle for the trusting innocence of the Tammany chief, why, that only goes to corroborate the belief, grown great in Tammany itself, that Mr. Murphy plays golf much better than he plays politics.

The irresistible torrent of Tammany enthusiasm for the Business-Men's-League - Democratic-Fusion - Committee's nomination can now burst the dikes. As Tammany mournfully or angrily contemplates its candidate for Mayor, it can console itself with the reflection that "the worst is not, so "long as we can say, 'This is the "worst.'" At least it can swallow the nominee from across the East River with a little less effort than would have been required to ingurgitate the dreaded candidate from across the Rockies. A Stoic philosophy becomes the children of defeat. A good many Tammany men are weary of a leadership that invites and cultivates defeat.

Barring a small Republican sideshow, the city sees just two candidates for Mayor, Mr. Murphy's novice and an admirable, experienced, expert administrator. On one side are the promises of the obscure representative of Tammany and its motley allies and preposterous platform. On the other is a great constructive, fruitful work. The issue is plain. The result is sure.

WHAT THE NAVY IS DOING.

Secretary Daniels spoke encouraging words at the ceremony on the site of the Government's armor plate works at Charleston, W. Va. It is perfectly true that "in preparing for "a terrible war the navy is taking "the surest means to bring about "an early and effective peace." Assurance from Mr. Daniels that our navy is making ready for a terrible war, therefore, is most gratifying. Our navy should be thus prepared and should remain so after the war. An unprepared navy is of small account. A navy with half its ships lying in docks, "out of commission," is no protection. The country understands now that all the warships and auxiliaries are in commission and well manned, that its equipment is not defective, that preparations have been made for an unfailing supply of ammunition. More than this it does not care to know. Naval plans and the movements of ships, necessarily, are kept secret when the nation is at war.

Washington, however, has disclosed the fact that naval vessels are convoying merchant ships on the Atlantic and that the loss of ships thus convoyed has been very small. The German submarine has not been conquered, it still is the worst menace commerce has ever known, but its ravages have been checked. The threat that the Germans intend to increase the fury of their submarine campaign is therefore not so alarming as it might be. As for the efforts to find means to combat the submarine, it is known that they continue, and there is assurance that our naval vessels and seaplanes have actually destroyed submarines, though nobody can say how many. Bombs which explode under water have been dropped, and it is confidently believed that some of these have destroyed submarines. But it is divulged that the undersea Captains have learned a trick of making their boats exude quantities of oil and of scattering make-believe wreckage to deceive their pursuers. That oil might be squirted from a submerged boat is understandable, but it is difficult to see how the "wreckage" could be floated after submerging. The invention of a depth bomb, however, is an important advance. Such bombs have been talked about since the submarine activities began, and the employment of them has been reported, without explanation or verification. Now we know that they exist and they will certainly make the submarine's work of destruction harder, though they may not stop it.

Our Navy Department places strong reliance on the destroyer. Next year our fleet of warships of this class will be as large as any nation's, and when the present plans are carried out we shall have more destroyers than any other nation. American destroyers have long been active in the North Sea. Doubtless their effectiveness there in the protection of commerce has convinced the department that we cannot have too many of them.

WHAT WAS THE OBJECT?

The Senate Military Affairs Committee yesterday voted unanimously against Senator Hardwick's bill prohibiting the sending of drafted troops abroad without their consent. The bill could not have been introduced with any expectation that it would pass, or with any expectation that the committee would even report it favorably. Its object was not to endear Senator Hardwick to the people of Georgia, for that patriotic people is supporting the Government and the war with all its heart, and each new performance of Hardwick's merely adds to the bitterness which Georgians feel over the way in which the great name of their State is being humbled in the Senate by him. What was the object?

We have no doubt what the effect was. Every such bill and resolution, every speech against the war by a Senator, is hurried over to Russia and to Germany by the busy German agents here and made use of in both those countries, to convince the people that this country is not really in the war and will soon get out altogether. The aim is to hearten the Germans and dishearten the Russians. If the Germans can be heartened sufficiently to hope for victory and the Russians disheartened sufficiently to conclude a separate peace, then the task of the young men we are sending to France will be rendered trebly hard, and their lives will be sacrificed in much greater numbers in consequence. This is the effect of such bills as Mr. Hardwick's. We do not know what their object is.

AFTER THE CONFERENCE.

The Moscow National Conference has accomplished a good deal, in spite of impatient critics, who complain that it has accomplished nothing and seem surprised that it did not, by some magic process, instantly set Russia on its feet. It was a meeting of men of all sorts of opinions, of all sorts of interests, a Council of Notables and Sansculottes. The state to which socialism and radicalism, government or want of government by a class, the sincere milk of Marxism, has brought Russia, was shown in all its nakedness. General Korniloff's speech was in itself a national service. What he said, what the Cossack General Kaledin said, what Mr. Rodicheff said, bitter, undeniable truth, will be carried all over Russia.

"We have to save Russia, not the revolution," Mr. Rodicheff told the men who have made themselves the heirs of the revolution, the work of all classes, to turn it into the primacy of one class. "Remove yourselves from this place," General Kaledin cried to the Socialists, "which you "have neither the ability nor the "courage to fill, and let better men "than yourselves step in or take the "consequences of your folly." The popular welcome to Korniloff, the unsparing painter of the military and economic weakness, the destruction of discipline, the malingering and chaos that prevail, shows the popular impatience. The peasants, 80 per cent. of the Russian people, proclaimed their militant patriotism at their congress. We hear of them now uniting as landholders, "bourgeois" therefore, to defend their property. We hear of a military league of landholders, of the manly rural races, the Cossacks, Kirghese, Caucasians, uniting to defend their homes and country. We see the real strength of Russia rising to its defense. Whether party leaders or the horde of busybody committees and councils, magnifying their office and minifying effectiveness, see it or not, inexhaustible Russia is preparing herself. The politicians, the theorists, the irreconcilables, must yield to the national impulse. Russia will be saved.

HOMELESS PACIFISTS.

The convention of the People's Council of America for Democracy and Peace wants a peace that would be fatal to democracy. Whatever its titles, there is a sound general appreciation of its objects. It is one of the long procession of many-named societies that, for three years, have been talking and working for Germany. The "honest pacifists" in it are in bad company. Its membership seems to be largely imaginary. We read the old familiar names, and see its romantic statisticians guessing absurd numbers of the faithful. In itself it appears to be a humbug, dangerous only by the possibilities of disorder which its known sentiments are apt to stir in the communities which it infests.

Its convention has been forbidden in Minnesota. The towns in North Dakota and Wisconsin where its advance agents tried to have it held have violently extruded them or protested angrily against the proposed infliction. Nowhere are the People's Councilors wanted by the people. A trainload of a hundred or so of them wanders in the West. Oh, where shall rest for the People's Council Convention be found? Some of the leaders are on the way to Washington to lay their pitiful case before the Federal authorities, and to ask them to find a temporary home for the homeless wanderers.

The deep indignation of the West, where these volunteer peacemakers or troublemakers want to strut their hour, ought to teach them the folly of their course. The unlawful deportation of some of them from Hudson, Wis., is to be regretted, on general principles; but in this time of national danger popular sentiment is not safely to be affronted.

Whether they seek notoriety or mischief, or are merely fanatics, the People's Councilors encounter a national patriotic feeling before which prudent men would give way. The people feel instinctively that these men and women, no matter what the proportions of disloyalty and doctrinairism among them, are acting as enemies of the United States.

In large cities the demonstrations of these pacifists might be tolerated and protected, though in the present American temper they must be stimulants of riot. The streets of this city are to be protected from one variety of the friends of Germany. The People's Council is another variety, which may have to be dealt with in the same way. Free speech is a noble idea. It is not always practicable or desirable to tolerate a free speech that smacks of treason and which is dangerous by its public incitements to violence. In war it is safest for the pacifist to hold his peace, and let his Government make peace, as is its business.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

For Once Doubt Disappears. A correspondent of our neighbor The Tribune quotes from a letter written by an American woman living in Paris a passage dealing with the speech made by General Pershing when he, soon after his arrival in the French capital, with other high officials, native and foreign, civilian and military, visited the tomb of Lafayette. In it the writer of the letter declares that what the General said, and all he said, was: "Lafayette, nous voila!" This she translates, not quite correctly, perhaps, but with an approach to accuracy about as close as would be possible for anybody, "Lafayette, here we are!"

None can fail to hope that the story is true. It has, indeed, a slightly disquieting likeness to many other utterances of distinguished men on notable occasions—utterances which the historians of former days accepted with the gratitude merited by their intrinsic excellence, and recorded with a joy duly proportioned to the edification which those historians expected the innumerable generations still to come would derive from words in one or another way so admirable. The likeness is disquieting because of late years the professional chroniclers of the past have acquired the tiresome habit of demanding real proof that the great personages really did say what they were credited with saying, and all too often, having failed to find such proof, the chroniclers have leaped to the conclusion—not necessarily a sound one, by the way—that the happy phrase, the noble exhortation, the pious ejaculation, or whatever it may have been, either was an afterthought of the Great One to whom it was ascribed or was the invention, laboriously chiseled and polished, of some well-intentioned but not very scrupulous admirer.

With or without reason, these researches and their confidently proffered denials have much weakened the public's faith in this whole domain of literature, and, as a result, there will be some hesitation about believing that General Pershing did find that so fortunate substitute for the magniloquent orations usually delivered in the performance of such a task as his.

But there!—away with doubt, for once, at least! "Lafayette, here we are!" would have been so adequate in its brevity and simplicity—it would have told so well all that the General felt and meant—it would have made us all so proud—it was so obviously what the General could and would have said if he had thought of it—that they are little, if any, better than the wicked who do not feel, instinctively, that say it he did.

They Stand on One High Level. Colonel Roosevelt, in his speech at the Comedy Theatre, took good care and was wise to do what he could—and the judicious will hope that it was much—to prevent the permanent establishment of a distinction at once invidious and unjustified between the men who recently have volunteered for military service and those who have or will come into it under the operation of the selective draft law. He said that he was as proud of the one class as of the other. So he should be, and so should be all the rest of us.

Of course, to volunteer is a fine thing, and there is not a word to be said against those who do it and many to be said for them. But it is also a fine thing, and a thing in its different way not less fine, for a man to say, "My country has undertaken the task of choosing from among loyal citizens like myself as many as it needs, of the kind it wants, and to assign to each of us the sort of duty which it, in its good judgment, thinks we are best fitted to perform." The man who takes that position has a perfect right to wait till his Government puts hand on his shoulder and says, "Come!" and if, when the summons arrives, he goes cheerfully, his merit as a patriot and soldier ranks level with that of any man in all the land.

The idea that the volunteers are somehow better than those who are drafted is the unfortunate result of things said, in the days before the drafting began, by well-intentioned, but somewhat thoughtless and overzealous, recruiting officers in their haste to do promptly the work that had been assigned to them. They emphasized a little too much the fact that he who volunteered could gain a personal advantage by choosing the branch of the service he preferred. That was an appeal to a motive which, while innocent enough, was not quite of the highest order.

As for "conscript," if that perfectly honorable name offends because its earlier associations have not been forgotten, a substitute for it might be found in "selectman," that ancient and still surviving New England title, devised for another purpose, but perfectly applicable to those who are to serve under the selective draft law. The word is somewhat clumsy—which explains, presumably, why it is so often mispronounced, or misaccented, in the region of its origin—and it must be admitted that there is no chance of its adoption for military uses. It would, however, help to do away with an unfortunate and harmful discrimination about which too much has been heard of late.

He Goes Far and Makes a Bad Choice. It is highly characteristic of the men and women who are having so much trouble to find, even in the part of the country supposed to favor their ideas most, a place for the holding of a pacifist convention that they do not hesitate to say that their views and ends are exactly like those of the half-mad visionaries who have so terribly endangered the welfare and safety of the new Russia.

"Our purpose," says Mr. Lochner, the sometime lieutenant of Mr. Ford, but his lieutenant no longer, "our purpose is to crystallize in this country sentiment similar to the aims of the Russian Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, which stands for an early, general, and democratic peace," and so on, and so on.

If Mr. Lochner reads the daily dispatches from Petrograd and Moscow, he must know what that council has done and is doing to bring ruin on Russia and to delay the rescue of civilization from its deadly foes. And if he thinks that emulation of his acknowledged model wins approbation for his organization and his associates from the sane part of the American people, he is indeed strangely deluded.

There are men in Russia whom he well might take for guides and exemplars, if he insists on going so far for them, but they are not in the council he so much admires.

INCOME TAX COLLECTION.

A Criticism of McAdoo's Plan for "Information at the Source."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Consideration of the new war tax measures now before Congress suffers just now from an excessive concentration of attention upon the more sensational features of the pending bill, such as the various proposals for excess profits taxes put forward by La Follette and by more sincere opponents of undue business success. But there never was a bill like this which did not contain an abundance of seemingly unimportant provisions, which none the less should not be suffered to become law by default.

A characteristic example of a minor provision which may, after it is too late, be recognized as a major feature of the new law is Secretary McAdoo's renewed attempt to substitute, in the provisions for the collection of the income tax, "information at the source" for "collection at the source." The proposal is not an entirely sincere one, for our income tax law has always provided for both information and collection, but it may not appear evident at first sight why a mere alteration in the method of collecting a tax should be likely to prove as important as, perhaps more important than, the relative amount of the tax imposed.

It must be borne in mind, however, that in the period during which the income tax law has been in operation hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of dollars' worth of corporate securities, notably immense issues of railroad and industrial bonds, have been sold in the United States under what is known as the "tax-free covenant." This means simply that corporations charged by law with the duty of collecting the income tax on their own securities have found it simpler and more convenient both for themselves and their security-holders to deduct the tax before fixing the interest rate on the securities instead of afterward.

This "tax-free covenant" was the method by which business throughout the country adjusted itself to the income tax law when first passed. It has become an integral feature of the securities market; but it could not exist without the continuance of the provision for "collection at the source." Should this be abolished, as the Treasury Department asks of Congress, the inevitable result will be that, the tax-free covenant automatically becoming void, the holders of securities sold under it will be saddled, without the slightest warning, with taxes which they have already paid once in accepting a lower interest rate on their investments.

Aside from the unfairness of this proposal, such a measure, involving as it does an immediate and considerable depression in the value of millions of dollars' worth of industrial and railroad securities, could not be adopted even in normal times without widespread business depression and a difficult period of adjustment. In war times, with the strain already existing upon the country's financial and industrial resources, it is not necessary to play Cassandra to foresee results which might compel the Government to pay many times over in diminished efficiency of capital and industry for any slight increase in the amount of income tax levied which the Secretary of the Treasury may hope to obtain by this reversal of his own previous and highly successful policy.

Not a "Race Riot" at Houston.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The recent outbreak here was not a race riot, precipitated in the usual manner. Had it been, the safety and the lives of 35,000 negroes would have been menaced. As it was, not even one instance has been recorded where the life of a negro civilian was threatened. Indeed, negroes and whites were free to gather on the streets of Houston even while the city was in the throes of riot.

Had the mutiny of the soldiers of the 24th been grounded on bad blood between the military and the police of the City of Houston, neither brave Captain Mattes of Chicago nor Everton of the Texas Guard would have been butchered.

Houston derives no pleasure from the fact that an army riot was staged here, that the bayonet on the Springfield in the hands of United States regulars mutilated to death fifteen of her men, women, and children; but she does feel a pride in the forbearance of her townspeople, a forbearance which permitted perfect order to evolve in three or four hours after one of the worst riots in the history of the army. WARNS OF NAVAL RASHNESS.

Henry A. Wise Wood Deprecates Pressure for Attacks on Bases.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of Aug. 27 there appeared the following dispatch from Paris:

> PARIS, Aug. 26.—Military authorities here strongly favor a more aggressive policy on the part of the British Navy in attacking German submarine bases. It is argued that if such an objective is worth a military offensive from Verdun to Flanders, costing hundreds of thousands of casualties, both the British and American fleet should go in fearlessly and destroy the U-boat nests in Belgium.

This voices from France the suggestion, made here recently, that our navy, with or without that of Great Britain, be sent forthwith into the German's mouth to pull his teeth. To the civilian, perhaps to the army man, it may seem a practicable undertaking at the present time to send an American naval expedition against Germany's Belgian bases. So appeared the disastrous naval attack upon Turkey—in advance of the lesson it taught.

As the suggestion from Paris may gain a fresh foothold here, and give rise to a newspaper campaign on behalf of its acceptance, it would seem to be wise to point out promptly the following facts:

First—Our navy at present is in the soft shell state. It is a nursery, not a fighting establishment. It is hard at work digesting great draughts of green men, who must be taught in a jiffy what it required the personnel of the navy years of hard study and practice to learn.

A naval fight is a sea game, in which an untrained and unhardened team can no more stand up against professionals of long experience than could a team picked from the bleachers stop the Giants. To put a schooling navy up against the hardest naval job known—that of reducing a fortified land position—could result in nothing but a useless slaughter of the innocents, the destruction of unreplaceable equipment of vast international importance, and an increase of Germany's relative sea strength equal to our losses.

Second—Such an undertaking requires especially designed equipment, needing months for its preparation. Without this, and suitable air and land supports, the project would be an exhibition of madness. The new instruments required are not yet at hand, nor is the navy's aerial arm even begun upon such a scale as would enable it to administer to the Belgian bases, by means of a swarm of seaplanes, a sufficient anaesthesia to permit the fleet to engage in a successful operation.

Third—A navy is the world's most intricate fighting machine. Those only understand it who from boyhood have swum in and grown up with its kaleidoscopic problems; no others are competent to say how, or where, or when, precisely, it should be used.

No civilian, nor even the wisest Secretary who ever has sat in the navy's chair, ever was or is competent to mold its strategy, or to guide its tactics. As safely might the boy who climbs into the empty cab of a locomotive handle the levers he finds before him. Such a boy was Churchill at the Dardanelles. One Churchill is enough.

Therefore, we should give the navy its head, and keep the civilian's hand out of its professional problems. We should feed it lavishly with men, new equipment, and supplies, and furnish it at once with an enormous—I use the word advisedly—aerial counterpart of itself. Its strategy and tactics we should leave exclusively in professional hands. But at all times we should insist upon knowing that its plans are its own, and have been made by its ablest minds.

Having faithfully done these things, then, and then only, shall we be entitled to expect of our navy achievements commensurate with its glorious traditions. That they shall be forthcoming not an American doubts.

Save the Birds That Save Crops.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

To the many cogent arguments of commonsense economics and of elementary humanity (too familiar by this time, I hope, to need repetition here) there is now added a new argument—a "hurry call" for protecting our wild birds. America, in these war days, must harvest unprecedented crops; therefore the crops' worst enemies, the insect scourges, must be kept in check as never before.

To this end there is but one sure means. Food products are being conserved, indeed, in their later stages, but plain logic requires that they be conserved first at their source. Just such conservation is accomplished for us, year in, year out, by the tireless industry of the insect-eating birds, best of all conservators of food; therefore should the birds themselves be the first of all to be conserved.

Despite these facts, the high cost of living, working against reason, is now tempting the poor—especially certain foreigners—to a wholesale slaughter of birds for food. This temptation, very naturally, will grow as the Autumn advances, and as myriads of young birds, in various stages of inability to care for themselves, and of southbound migrants, old and young, swarm over the face of the land.

The great dangers of this situation—too obvious to need explanation—must be met at once. Learn the game laws thoroughly. Obey them conscientiously. See to it that others obey them. Report all violations to the proper authorities. Thus may you help to make these laws a power for great good.

Add to this—and it cannot be too much emphasized—a systematic, year-round administration of justice to the birds' most mortal enemy. Every cat not really needed as a ratter and mouser, or counted as a member of the family, should be promptly and mercifully put to death, on sight. Every cat allowed to live must be kept indoors all night, well fed always, (and especially just before going out,) prevented from roaming at will, and, in general, carefully trained to be a law-abiding citizen. One cat, in its lifetime, may kill several hundred birds; one bird may kill many hundred thousand insects. Save the birds!

WOOD MAGIC.

In the deep heart of the woods,
Every leaf, each blade of grass
(With its green, unblinking eye)
Watches all the folk who pass,
Where the trees, like sentinels,
Stand together, clannish, high. . . .

Would some mortal blaze a trail,
Brier switches whip and sting;
From the forest path beside Thorny fingers snatch and cling;
Undergrowth and bushes strive
Jealously the path to hide;

Though long dead (two thousand years,
So 'tis said) they search for him—
Still the wood god's devotees—
In his green haunts, leafy, dim,
Hoping some day to behold
Pan come piping through the trees!

SWANN SEES EVIL AT WORK.

Says Powerful Influences Seek to Balk His Park Land Inquiry.

Charging that sinister influences were at work to stop his investigation of the Rockaway Park and Coney Island deals, District Attorney Swann said yesterday that he would proceed with greater vigor because of these efforts in his attempt to learn who profited illegally at the city's expense.

"Certain persons are trying in every conceivable way to use the City Club's charges against me as a lever to make me stop this investigation," Mr. Swann said. "They are combing the city with a fine tooth comb to find some new charge to make against me. In addition they are approaching persons who know me personally with a view of getting them to use their offices to induce me to stop."

The District Attorney also charged that his enemies were trying to give the Ingraham report submitted to the Governor interpretations which the referee never intended. Because of the investigation's importance to the city, as he expressed it, Mr. Swann said he probably would not appear at Albany next week when the Governor hears the City Club's argument against the approval of the Ingraham report.

"Would you be willing to name these persons whose sinister influences you say are being used against you?" Mr. Swann was asked.

"No, not at this time," he replied. "But I will say this: they are the men who know that they got a lot of the city's money without giving the city adequate consideration for it."

"Would you say that the City Club was back of these men?"

"I don't say the City Club has been knowingly influenced by them," Mr. Swann said. "These influences, though, are very potent. My enemies hoped to get me so interested in the charges against me or in some new accusation that I would forget all about the present investigation. I've balked them in this, as events will prove."

ORGANIZE FRENCH LEAGUE.

C. W. Eliot, Ex-Ambassador Herrick, and Others Incorporate Society

The organization of the French League in America, of which Charles W. Eliot, Myron T. Herrick, George T. Wilson, Paul D. Cravath, and Alexander J. Hemphill are incorporators, was approved yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Guy. The directors for the first year, other than those named, will include Otto H. Kahn, August Belmont, Frederick H. Allen, and Edmund L. Baylies. The purpose of the organization is stated in the petition for incorporation to be as follows:

"To promote a thorough comprehension by the peoples of France and the United States of America of their respective civilizations; to strengthen the bond of intellectual and moral sympathy based on their historic traditions and present collaboration; to encourage between these two great democracies a free interchange of ideas, information, and methods in solving their national and international problems and in furthering their national ideals; to reveal the practical and artistic genius of these two nations to each other, and for these purposes to publish a periodical review as the organ of this corporation and of other French-American groups, and, in general, to bring the United States of America and France to a full and sympathetic understanding of one another."

In approving the charter of the organization, Justice Guy stated that he sympathized with its purposes, and said: "Never in my experience have I been called on officially to approve articles of incorporation in which the personnel of the signers gave such assurance of carrying out an ideal purpose."

REPUBLICS LIKELY TO UNITE

Prospects Bright for Welding of Five in Central America.

LA LIBERTAD, Salvador, Aug. 31.—Prospects appear bright for the gathering of a conference of the Central American republics to discuss the political union of the five States.

The Honduran Government, when the project came up of assembling a conference to renew the peace agreements concluded in 1907, whose ten-year period is about to expire, suggested that the scope of the conference be enlarged to take into consideration the closer union of the five countries.

The invitation of Honduras for the calling of a Central American Congress to this end has been replied to favorably. It is now understood, by the Presidents of the four other republics, Salvador, Guatemala, Costa Rica, and Nicaragua, and Honduras has already appointed two delegates as a preliminary move.

President Melendez of Salvador has announced himself as heartily in favor of the project, declaring that he would resign from the Presidency of the republic if it were necessary to bring the unification project into being. His action was enthusiastically acclaimed in Honduras, where a demonstration in his honor took place in front of the Salvadorean Legation at Tegucigalpa.

QUITS FRENCH CABINET.

Malvy, Only Radical Socialist Member, Gives Up Interior Ministry.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—A statement given to the press after the meeting of the Cabinet this morning announced that Louis J. Malvy, Minister of the Interior, was indisposed and unable to be present. Subsequently it was announced that he had resigned.

Louis J. Malvy is a Radical Socialist. Lately dissatisfaction has been voiced at meetings of the party because, though numerically the strongest group in the Chamber, it had only one representative in the Cabinet. What practically amounted to a demand was made recently that as a compensation M. Malvy should be invited to attend the meetings of the War Council. Premier Ribot agreed to this and expressed the intention of reviving the Higher Council of National Defense with M. Malvy as a member of it.

DROPS JEWISH DESIGNATION

Earl of Derby Yields to Pleas to Change Regiment's Title.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—A deputation of prominent English Jews, headed by Lord Swaythling, visited the Earl of Derby, Secretary for War, yesterday, says the Daily Mail, and urged the abandonment of the title "Jewish Regiment," which had been adopted for the new regiment recently organized.

The deputation pleaded that 40,000 Jews now serving in the army were fighting, not as Jews, but as British subjects, and wished to continue to do so. Lord Derby agreed to the abandonment of the title, and promised to give the regiment a new designation.

The Daily Mail adds that the decision was received with great regret by the promoters and organizers of the regiment.

Osterheld, representing Iselin & Co. of New York.

Dr. Caturegli, on his return to Mexico from the United States on Aug. 18, stated that preliminary negotiations would be opened soon with several groups of American bankers for a loan to Mexico. He expressed confidence that the loan could be arranged.

NEAR AN AGREEMENT ON WEST SIDE PLAN

Committee of Service Commission and Estimate Board Decide on Essentials.

PUBLIC TO BE HEARD SOON

Provision of Contract Will Be Kept Secret Till Completed—An Official Statement Is Expected Soon.

Conferences of members of the joint ommittee of the Public Service Comiission and the Board of Estimate oncerning the west side improvement ave resulted in what was announced esterday as practically an agreement fundamentals and most of the details the desired solution. Points of difrence between the public officials and epresentatives of the railroad company re being ironed out in a way which embers of the committee believe will eet public approval. Unless someing wholly unexpected occurs a form contract and plans for the improveent will be completed in time for the gning of the contract and perhaps for ie beginning of the work before Dec. 1. Public hearings will soon be held by ie joint committee to permit reprentatives of various civic organizations express their opinions and to aid as r as possible in shaping the proposed ontract so as to satisfy all points of iew. Nothing will be agreed to by ie joint committee in advance of the ublic hearings.

Within a week or ten days the joint ommittee will make a complete and etailed statement of its recommendaons as to the provisons of the agreeent. William L. Ransom, chief counel of the Public Service Commission, ith Leroy T. Harkness, Chief of Rapid ransit, and Harold G. Aron of the ommission's legal department, are at ork on a form of contract.

Just what the new contract will prode for, and in what respects it will iffer from the one prepared by the oard of Estimate and the railroad comany, and which aroused widespread nd indignant opposition, could not be earned. It is the intention of the ommittee to keep the precise provisions ecret until it is completed and a stateent is prepared fully explaining it.

Representatives of the Citizens Union, ie City Club, the West Side Associaon, the League to End Death Avenue, nd other civic bodies especially objected any agreement which would give the ilroad company absolute ownership of ny water front, of any public thoroughre leading to the water which the mpany would have the right to close, of any public property between the ver and the railroad tracks. It was leged that the intention of the Board Estimate was to give the company e to land under water and the right to e the water and to build docks and ers, which would close the river front ong the improvement for all time to ie public.

In return for these rights the comany was to deed to the city property id to be worth $6,000,000. It was alged that under the contract the city ould be required to yield property and ghts worth many times more than any would receive in return. Everything ossible to retard and prevent the carying out of the agreement was done y those opposing it. There were many idignation meetings, much writing to ewspapers, and a multitude of charges. the midst of the storm, and while ny settlement of the question seemed be as far off as ever, the Legislature ist Winter passed a law giving the ublic Service Commission equal jurisiction with the Board of Estimate over ie matter. This equality of power was continue until Dec. 1, when it was rovided that if no agreement was eached the commission was to have ole jurisdiction, and power was given to compel the company to make any nprovements which the commission eemed necessary.

There is no doubt that the new conact will give the company all of the ititude it needs to carry out the imrovement, but that it will acquire no ublic property outright. From what ould be gathered yesterday, the new ontract will provide that a rental shall paid for the city property used by ie company, and that the rental shall adjusted at stated intervals. This ethod, it was said, would not only ntinue the city's ownership in the ceedingly valuable property involved, it would assure to the city a rental ised on its actual value. Settlement the real estate features of the case as the hardest problem to solve, but at it has been solved by the joint mmittee is assured.

SENATORS CRITICISE M'ADOO ESTIMATES

FIRST PROFITS VOTE TODAY

Johnson Amendment, Levying 80 Per Cent. Tax, Ready for Action—Harding Calls War Unpopular.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—In debate on the War Revenue bill today, two Republican Senators, Smoot of Utah and Penrose of Pennsylvania, criticised the Secretary of the Treasury for what they called his failure to acquaint the Senate accurately as to funds needed for this year.

The two Senators, members of the Finance Committee, insisted that the committee has been misled as to the money required by the Administration. Senator Penrose declared that the committee had been seriously embarrassed by not having been taken into the Administration's confidence. He alluded to an item of $2,500,000 for field artillery in the estimate of Secretary McAdoo submitted to Congress a few days ago and asked:

"Why did the Secretary of the Treasury fail to let us know about that? Didn't the War Department know field artillery would be needed to fight this war?"

Senator Smoot, in explaining why the Finance Committee had offered a higher schedule of taxation on excess war profits, became the target of Senators who, early in the debate, had found fault with the bill as levying too small a tax on wealth. The Utah Senator admitted that the Finance Committee had found that under its original proposal, based upon the percentage of war profits as compared with pre-war profits, many corporations would have escaped a proper proportion of the tax. He insisted that if the committee had been adequately advised by the War Department and the Secretary of the Treasury it would have submitted a bill whose levy would have been appreciably larger.

"Now that the committee has revised the excess profits tax schedule," said Senator Smoot, "we have a bill with a war levy of $1,060,000,000 upon corporation profits alone. That, with the existing tax, amounts to $1,260,000,000 that the corporations must pay on profits this year. That is enough."

Johnson Amendment Debated.

The day's debate was confined chiefly to the amendment offered by Senator Johnson of California for a flat excess profits tax of 73 per cent., which, with the existing tax, would compel corporations to pay over 80 per cent. of excess profits. The aggregate excess profit yield under Senator Johnson's scheme would be approximately $2,750,000,000 for this year.

The Senate was ready to vote on Senator Johnson's amendment late in the day, but there was no quorum. This aggravated Senator Simmons, sponsor of the bill, who remarked that it was "a shame" that the Senate allowed time to be wasted. Senator Simmons spoke of twenty-five Senators being absent. The Johnson amendment will come up for a vote tomorrow. It seems destined to defeat.

In his speech Senator Smoot explained that, as redrafted, the excess profits tax was no longer essentially a "war profits" levy, since the new schedule applied a tax upon all profits, based upon an exemption running from 6 to 10 per cent. on capital stock invested. In its original shape, he said, the levy was put upon war profits directly, based upon pre-war earnings. But the committee had found that under the latter system many corporations with heavy pre-war earnings and substantially the same proportion of war earnings, would escape with only a small levy.

Senator Penrose interrupted Senator Smoot, saying that in its deliberations over the bill the Finance Committee had been embarrassed by failure to get definite estimates as to prospective expenditures. He spoke of Secretary McAdoo having appeared before the committee on July 8 and giving what was considered the final estimate.

Subject to Grave Criticism.

"Hardly had the Finance Committee completed its redraft of the bill," Senator Penrose continued, "before the Secretary of the Treasury came again, wanting more than $5,500,000,000 more. Yes, the Secretary came along after the committee had been toiling arduously for over two months, and several weeks after his so-called 'estimate,' with a further requisition for $5,500,000,000 more. If he is not subject to grave criticism, certainly the Administration is subject to the gravest sort of criticism for not letting the Finance Committee know earlier what the final amount of the estimates would be.

"In this last estimate of the Secretary of the Treasury $2,500,000 was for field artillery, and it is absurd to say that the War Department did not know until nearly August that battles must be fought in Europe with 'field artillery' and that $2,500,000 would be needed for that purpose. The War Department did not wake up.

"I think that what the business world in the United States demands—and the demand is getting more overwhelming and more insistent every day—is that we should know what is the final estimate of the cost of this war, at least for this year."

Senator Jones of New Mexico defended the Administration against the criticism of Senator Penrose, insisting that the War Department undoubtedly had plans which it could not well reveal.

"I am not going to get into any controversy here as to whether the Secretary of the Treasury was lax in his duties or not," said Senator Smoot, "but, I will say that when the estimates were sent in to the committee showing the receipts and disbursements for 1918 I stated then and there that that was not correct; that I was positive there would be $3,500,000,000 more needed, and I so told the committee at the time."

Senator Smoot alluded to the American Tobacco Company and the Ford Motor Car Company as escaping war profits tax under the system originally proposed by the committee.

"Did the committee go into an investigation of its original proposal and find the corporations were going to escape?" asked Senator Bankhead.

Didn't Get Adequate Estimate.

"Frankly, yes, so far as I am concerned," admitted Senator Smoot. "But that isn't all, that isn't the only reason why we changed our schedule. One of the principal reasons was that we didn't get an estimate of what was needed. But it is true that some corporations, many of them in fact, might have escaped adequate tax under the original scheme. One I know of, with an average pre-war and war profit of 800 per cent., would have paid hardly anything."

"That was exactly what I wanted to bring out," exclaimed Senator Bankhead. "I wanted to know from the Finance Committee if it was not true that its profits tax as proposed would have exempted many great concerns. It is easy to see now that the bill as drafted by the committee originally was almost a crime."

"What I would like to know," interjected Senator Borah, "is why the Finance Committee did not discover that long ago?"

"I did," retorted Senator Smoot. "I have explained the difficulty under which the committee labored."

"This is the most remarkable debate I have ever heard," insisted Senator Borah. "When the Finance Committee made its first report any one who opposed it was denounced as a friend of the Kaiser or was accused of 'trying to make the war unpopular;' now the committee has brought out an amendment containing principles at war with every feature of the original report."

Senator Gronna of North Dakota in arguing for the extreme limit of tax upon corporations, said Senators were getting a raft of letters every day showing that the people wanted wealth drastically conscripted.

"I am glad to see, at last, that the Finance Committee has abandoned the argument it made in the Senate when it brought in its original tax schedule," Senator Gronna went on. "The committee has completely reversed itself, and it's a good thing it has done so. The proposals put in by the minority of the Senate were roundly condemned by the Finance Committee. Now the Finance Committee turns to the proposals we made at the outset.

"All this goes to show what a gross injustice would have been done if the bill as originally framed by the Finance Committee had gone through. The people of the country know now how gently the Finance Committee's scheme would have dealt with the nation's wealth."

Harding for Committee Draft.

Senator Harding of Ohio advocated the revised war profits tax as submitted by the Finance Committee.

"I class myself as conservative, yet I want the Senate to know that I would take a radical attitude on this war tax, to triumphantly win the war," said Senator Harding. "If the country needed it, I would vote to conscript every dollar of income above $5,000 to a family.

"As this bill stands, it is radical enough. The people of the country ought to know that it proposes to take $1,250,000,000 of excess and super-profits and $900,000,000 from incomes, while the direct tax upon the people—the consumption tax, I mean—is but $86,000,000; I do not count in this direct tax the levy upon transportation or liquor. I allude to the tax on necessities of life.

"Now we contemplate in this bill, as amended, to levy one-fifth of the expense of the war for this year in taxes to be paid this fiscal year. No other country has attempted to go so far as that. Of the levy for this year, let the American people know that twenty-one-twenty-sixths is applied against capital and income and one-twenty-sixth upon the consumer. That will give an idea to the country as to whether we are conscripting wealth.

"The fact is that we are taking an infinitely greater percentage of wealth than of men. Senators have spoken of conscripting the blood of the nation and of letting wealth escape. That criticism cannot prevail against this bill as it stands before the Senate."

Senator Harding contended that the war was not popular.

"There are scores of contributing reasons," he said. "We are sincerely devoted to peace, as shown by the campaign cry of the year before our involvement. We are a polyglot people, without racial entity. Our free republic is full of aliens. We have many who cloak themselves in American habiliments, but their souls, genius, and cunning are loyal to the land from which they came. We harbor the trained propagandists whose business is to spread sedition. We have plotters and bomb planters and wholesale murderers. We have the anarchist, whose creed is destruction. We have the greedy and the profiteer in every walk of life, and we have not been clear in our reasons for making war. It would be well to say less about world-wide democracy and let it ring clear that we mean to hold America safe for Americans. We are not fighting to fix the international boundaries of Europe.

"If you strike at excess profits you reduce incomes, and are likely to hinder our industrial development," he continued. "There is no cause for penalizing. Were it not for munition plants and for big and highly organized American industries, Germany would today be dominating the world.

"Conscript incomes and profits and we shall have no one to buy our bonds. We are raising larger taxes in the first year of the war than Great Britain in her third. The war is likely to end, and I believe will end before the burdens we are now levying are turned into the Treasury. We may well co-operate to strike a staggering blow at the enemy, but need not strike ourselves at the same time."

An amendment to the war profits section to make 8 per cent. the minimum exemption instead of 6 was introduced by Senator Bankhead.

Estimates Include Fund for Building Largest Fleet of Destroyers Ever Known.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Another tremendous request for ships, armament, rifles and ammunition will go to Congress tomorrow from Secretary McAdoo, the total of the estimates to be laid before the House being $659,642,000. This brings the total Administration requests for money this week to a billion and a half, and makes the total of pending appropriation requests $7,065,000,000.

The estimates to be sent to the Capitol tomorrow include a request for money to carry out the naval policy of building a fleet of destroyers greater than anything of the kind ever seen. This estimate asks for $225,000,000 cash for immediate use and $125,000,000 to be used as soon as the first installment is spent. The next largest item is $168,000,000 for automatic machine rifles. For new field artillery $53,490,000 is asked; for field artillery ammunition $77,182,000. Eleven million dollars is asked for target practice expenses.

The appropriation bill which will carry these and all other war items still unprovided for is slowly being whipped into shape, but owing to an uncertainty as to further needs of the Government, members of the special sub-committee working on the bill are unable to predict just when the measure will be in shape for the House.

'WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES.'

WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES—George Broadhurst's farce revived. At the Forty-eighth Street Theatre.

Jones	Hale Hamilton
Ebenezer Goodly	John Daly Murphy
Rev. Anthony Goodly, D. D.	Charles Harbury
Richard Heatherly	James Spottswood
The Policeman	Alphonz Ethier
The Patient	Thomas P. Gunn
The Superintendent	Will H. Gregory
Mrs. Goodly	Marie Wainwright
Alvina Starlight	Marcia Harris
Cissy	Leila Frost
Marjorie	Margaret Ferguson
Minerva	Viola Leach
Helma	Josie Sadler

In his curtain speech, George Broadhurst remarked that he never could believe twenty years had passed since the first production of "What Happened to Jones," if it were not for the calendar. And when, in response to his summons, three ladies in the audience stood up who had been in the original cast, one heartily agreed with him. But it is different with plays. Much as we are inclined to denounce the drama for decadence, the best of them dates after a mere decade.

Nowadays we expect in farce not only brisk dialogue and surprise situations, but verisimilitude of a kind in the action, and, above all, a considerable integrity in characterization. A wild invention or two we still condone, but thereafter the people must convince us as real. This farce is rich in rapidly shifting incident and ridiculous encounters, but there is not a character in the cast that does not belie himself without a qualm in order to contribute to the intended effect.

What happened to Jones was that, being at a prizefight which was pulled by the police, he fought his way to the house of two other fugitives and, to escape identification, donned the breeches and apron of a Bishop. To the modern playwright this juxtaposition of a prizefight fan in clerical weeds with a Bishop—who eventually dons the incriminating check trousers and fancy waistcoat—would be material enough. But presently a lunatic escapes from a neighboring sanitarium, who imagines that he is an Indian chief, and he in turn encounters the Bishop—who is now arrayed in the blanket from his bed and is daubed with war paint. It is a mad world, my masters!

Such as they are, these situations, and still others of the same order, are very skillfully manipulated. Reinforced by the racy colloquial lines of which Mr. Broadhurst was even then master, they created much hearty amusement. No word of Maeterlinck's was ever truer than that, in the theatre, we all tend to revert to the primitive moods of our ancestors. And the ancestors of many who laughed were no farther back than the child that is father of the man. Yet there was a sense of water beneath the bridge more potent than any evidence of the calendar.

Mr. Broadhurst admitted that the manager who believes most firmly in the man who comes back warned him against trying it on with plays. The venture, one gathered, was largely of sentiment. It was twenty years ago! But there is a further aspect of the occasion at which Mr. Broadhurst barely hinted.

Whatever the lapse of time, there is always interest in plays that once were good in their kind. Therefore, among peoples who are enlightened, there are theatres which not only try out the newest inventions, but from decade to decade serve as a sort of museum of the drama. It may be that Mr. Broadhurst had no such idea, and will resent having it put upon him, but the fact remains. A part of the pleasures last evening lay in the conviction it gave one that, quite apart from the relative popular value of the farces of today, they are of a school considerably further advanced in the depiction of manners and character, and thus in the representation of contemporary life.

GIANTS LOSE AND TIE IN DOUBLE ENGAGEMENT WITH THE BROOKLYN ROBINS

HICKMAN IS THORN IN SIDE OF GIANTS

Dodger Youngster Wins First Game by Batting and Saves Second with Homer.

FIELDING FEATS PLENTIFUL

New York Makes Great Battle, but Loses Opener, 5 to 4, and Is Tied in Second, 1 to 1.

Jimmy Hickman stood between the Giants and victory twice at Ebbets Field yesterday. The little Brooklyn outfielder had a holiday with his bat and slashed out a hit in the first part of a double-header which sent both the tying and winning runs over the plate, giving the Robins the game, 5 to 4. In the final frolic Hickman rushed into the picture when the Giants had a 1 to 0 clutch on the contest and larruped a homer which sewed up the score and forced the two teams to battle until darkness broke up the game without a decision.

Both games sizzled with excitement and caused a lot of commotion in Flatbush. A crowd of 15,000 sat in at the party, inmates of New York making up the majority. A great many persons have the habit of following the Giants to Brooklyn, but the Street Department over there is doing its best to discourage the practice. Getting to Ebbets Field through Brooklyn's ripped-up boulevards has all the adventure of wandering through the ruins of Pompeii.

The Dodgers as usual played better against the Giants than they ever play against any other club. If Squire Ebbets could dress all the other teams in the league in Giant uniforms the Robins would breeze through to another streamer.

Removing the figure of Jimmy Hickman from the mêlée, the Giants would have won the first game 4 to 3 and the second 1 to 0. Then, on the other hand, placing Jimmy Hickman back into the fray just where he was, you can readily see that it was Jimmy alone who kicked the Giants' hopes into a cocked hat. When Hickman made each of his timely hits there were two strikes on him, and he gave absolutely no visible evidence of packing such a thump in his batting kit.

Fielding Frills Are Many.

Both pastimes were jammed with the kind of ball playing which causes normal folks to become temporarily unbalanced and break straw hats. The Giants did some truly remarkable fielding, and three times during the afternoon when the Dodgers had the bases loaded lightning-fast double plays quenched impending rallies.

The Twelfth Regiment, under Colonel Reginald Foster, trooped on to the field between games and gave the most impressive military display that has been seen at the baseball parks this year. The soldiers marched around the field and formed into a great hollow square of khaki. Then they went up into the upper stand and caught all the baseballs that were fouled into the crowd.

Rube Benton and Ed Pfeffer were the pitchers in the second tilt, and they indulged in a battle that was all wool and a yard wide. There wasn't one in the big crowd who did not gladly go without his hash to see the battle to a finish. Both were stingy with their hits, and received gilt-edged support.

There wasn't a suggestion of a run until the Dodgers' half of the eighth. Miller started with a single, and was forced by Pfeffer. Johnston singled to left, and Daubert walked, crowding the bases. Hi Myers smashed a fly to centre field, after which Pfeffer started for home. Kauff made a deadly throw and nipped Pfeffer at the plate.

In the first of the ninth, with one gone, Davey Robertson did the first damage to Pfeffer when he crashed a three-bagger off the wall in right centre. He scored on Zimmerman's single to right, which just grazed the tips of Myers's fingers. In the last half of the same stanza Hickman tore the ball along on a dizzy trip between Burns and Kauff for a home run, which tied the count.

Schupp Beaten in First Game.

The first game saw the downfall of Ferdie Schupp and a triumph for Larry Cheney. In this game Charley Herzog, Captain of the Giants, collapsed after sliding home in the eighth inning and had to be carried to the bench. It was feared last night that Herzog had again injured his back, but he hopes to be back in the game again in a short time.

Ivan Olson was put out of the first game by Umpire Bill Klem for arguing, and yet Ole avers he never said a word. All his arguing was done in pantomime. When he came to bat in the fifth, Olson had something awful in his mind, and the penetrating eyes of Klem got it in a second. Then Ole got the blue envelope.

Ferdie Schupp had no terrors for the Dodgers. In the first inning of the opening clash Olson walked and went to second on Daubert's sacrifice. Myers cracked a spunky little hit down to first base and Olson galloped all the way home. Myers stole second and counted on Johnston's drive to centre. The Giants loaded up the bases in the third, with two gone, but Johnston made a great catch of Zim's short fly to left, and Cheney was saved from untold embarrassment.

New York delved into Cheney's shoots in the fourth. Herzog inaugurated the session with a safe tap to second, and Holke ambled. Rariden smacked a single to centre, scoring Herzog, while Holke trotted to third. After Schupp fanned, Burns scored Holke with a sacrifice fly to Johnston. With the score tied Robertson drove Stengel back to the wall for a circus catch, which saved the day for the time being.

Giants Take Lead.

The Giants pranced to the lead in their section of the eighth. Fletcher singled through third and Herzog hit to right. Holke got an infield tap near third and filled the bases. Rariden's single to centre sent Fletcher and Herzog over the plate. As Herzog slid into the plate he was injured, and later was carried to the dressing rooms.

In their portion of the same round the Dodgers ripped Schupp's curves to shreds and captured the game. Mack Wheat started the eruption with a Texas Leaguer back of second. Holke ran back for the ball, got in Robertson's path and no one caught it. Wheat went right along to second during this mental depression on the part of the Giants.

Daubert singled to centre, scoring Wheat. Hi Myers bunted and Rariden threw wild to second for a force out, all hands being safe. Stengel beat out a hit to short and loaded the bases. Johnston rolled to Fletcher, who threw out Daubert at the plate, Rariden doubling Johnston at first. Jimmy Hickman proved himself the curly-haired boy of Flatbush when he pickled a single to centre, pushing Myers over with the tying run and Stengel with the winning tally.

The scores:

YANKS SLIP STEP NEARER TO CELLAR

Washington Wins Both Ends of Double-Header at Polo Grounds.

That mystic something which was supposed to be in possession of Darkey Walker, the Yankees' mascot, was again proven a myth yesterday at the Polo Grounds, where the hapless Donovan clan dropped both games of their opening engagement with Washington, the first by a score of 4 to 1 and the second by 6 to 3 in eleven innings. These losses gave the Yanks impetus in their flight cellarward, and they are now resting uneasily in sixth place in the American League race.

Particularly in the second game was this magical ability of the Yankee mascot flouted, when, after starting away to a one-run lead, which was later increased by two more, they cracked under the strain and were snowed under by three insurmountable Senator runs in the eleventh, when dusk was fast falling on the field and it was difficult to discern the midget form of their dark piece of superstition.

Urban Shocker twirled the nightcap engagement for the Yanks, but a galaxy of misplays came along to undermine him and discount his efforts. Gedeon, Peckinpaugh, and Pipp were the perpetrators of these bobbles, and it was the miscues of the latter two which aided the Senators in their second victory of the day.

With the score favoring the Yanks by 3 to 1 in the eighth, Gharrity grounded to Peck and Roger made an unmerciful heave to Pipp, the ball rolling to the stand, while Gharrity raced to second. On Ainsmith's single to left Gharrity went to third, but was choked off at the plate when Leonard, batting for Jimmy Shaw, grounded to Baker. Ainsmith went to second on the play, and both he and Leonard crossed the plate on Menosky's double off the right field fence, and the score was tied.

From then until the eleventh chapter the teams battled unsuccessfully to break the tie. Just as the 3,000 fans were beginning to entreat Umpire Nallin to permit them to go home to their cold dinners, things began to happen to the Yanks. Starting the eleventh Shanks got a single to centre, and went to third on Milan's single to right. Rice then rapped a bounder at Pipp which confused Wally. He was undecided whether to play for Rice at first or throw to the plate and head off Shanks. Finally he threw to the plate and the toss got past Alexander, who replaced Nunamaker behind the bat in the eleventh, while Shanks scored. Foster's single to centre scored both Milan and Rice.

Hendryx's home-run drive to deep centre in the second session put the Yanks in the lead for a while, but in the fifth Washington pulled up on even terms when Morgan belted one of Shocker's offerings into the left-field bleachers for a circuit dash. In the sixth High's single to right, an error by Shaw on Gilhooley's grounder, and a double to left by Peckinpaugh pushed the Yanks into the lead again with two runs, but they only stayed there until the eighth.

The opening tilt was a decided triumph for Doc Ayres, and he just reveled in his superiority over the Yankee batsmen. Six scattered hits the Washington twirler allowed, and were it not for a bobble by Clyde Milan in the fifth, Ayres would have had a shut-out. With George Mogridge, it was a catastrophe, for he was never treated with respect by the Washington batters. Eleven times George was soundly thumped.

After getting safely past the first, the Senators fell on Mogridge with a vengeance in the second and thumped him for three runs. Rice beat out an infield hit, went to second when Foster was thrown out and stole third, while Mogridge stood as if spellbound with the ball in his hand. H. Milan received a pass and then Gharrity rapped a double to right which registered Rice and put Milan on third. Milan and Gharrity both scored on Henry's single to left.

In the eighth, another Senator tally came home when Rice walked, went to second on Foster's single, advanced to third on H. Milan's sacrifice and scored when Peckinpaugh let High's return of Gharrity's fly get away from him.

The Yankees' lone tally tricked across the plate in the fifth. Alexander singled to left and went to second on Mogridge's ran to centre over Morgan's head. Both runners advanced when C. Milan juggled the ball, and Alexander registered on High's sacrifice fly to C. Milan.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31.—Defeating Detroit by 1 to 0 today, Cleveland retained third place.

The victory was due to the steady pitching of Coveleskie and the brilliant fielding of Chapman and Evans. Cleveland scored the only run of the game on a pass to Speaker, Roth's sacrifice, and Turner's two-base hit. The score:

CHICAGO ATHLETES WIN JUNIOR GAMES

Four Records Broken and One Equaled in National Title Competitions.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 31.—The Illinois Athletic Club of Chicago romped away with 44 points to win the National A. A. U. junior champions at the Washington University Stadium this afternoon. The Meadowbrook Club of Philadelphia was second, with 30 points, and two St. Louis aggregations annexed the next two places. The Columbian A. C. was third with 13, and the Missouri A. A. followed with 10.

Starting with the pole vault, the athletes smashed four records, tied another, and set a record for the three-mile walk, the first time that the event has ever been held in the junior games. E. Knourek of the Illinois A. C. broke the pole vault record set by S. B. Wagoner of Yale, when he went up to 12 feet 5.75 inches. The former record was 12 feet 5.64 inches. Charles L. Siebert of the Chicago Turn Gemeinde shattered the old mark of 6 feet 3-5 inches, when he cleared the bar at 6 feet and 1 inch.

F. J. Shea of the Pittsburgh A. A. clipped three-fifths of a second from the 440-yard dash mark. He trotted over the distance in 50 seconds flat. Harold E. Barron of the Meadowbrook Club of Philadelphia, ran the 120-yard high hurdles in 15 2-5 seconds. The former mark was 15 3-5, made by W. Donald of the Seattle A. C. in 1909.

W. D. Hayes of the Boston A. A. tied the ten flat record of A. E. Ward of the Chicago A. A. for the 100. A. Jessup, unattached, of New York, won the three-mile walk in 24:29 3-5.

BADOUD EASY FOR LEWIS.

Welter Champion Knocks Out Swiss Boxer in First Round.

The scheduled thirty rounds of boxing at the St. Nicholas A. C. last night simmered down to less than seventeen actual rounds, knockouts in two of the contests halting them long before the scheduled time.

The most decisive finish of the evening came in the principal contest in which Ted Kid Lewis, the English boxer who holds the world's welterweight championship title, disposed of Albert Badoud, the Swiss boxer, in the first round. Lewis at 144 pounds, weighing seven pounds less than his opponent, wasted no time in getting after Badoud and dancing in and out with lightning-like speed boxed rings around the Swiss pugilist and countered damagingly to the face and stomach with both hands. When the round had gone 2 minutes and 45 seconds Lewis feinted an opening and sent Badoud down for the ten-count with a right to the jaw.

Before starting the bout Lewis was presented with a large silver loving cup by the Royal A. C. of Harlem.

Joe Welling, the Chicago lightweight, and Tommy Touhey of Paterson, N. J., were scheduled for ten rounds as the semi-final to the Lewis-Badoud contest, but in the sixth session, when it was apparent that their man was totally outclassed, Touhey's seconds tossed a sponge into the ring, admitting defeat.

In the other bout Frankie Burns, the veteran bantamweight of Jersey City, earned the honors over Frankie Brown, an east side lad in ten interesting rounds.

FALL RACING SEASON OPENS.

Leading Thoroughbreds Return to Belmont Park Today.

For the first time in many years there will be a metropolitan Fall racing session, which will last long enough to be designated a season. Fresh from triumphs at Saratoga the thoroughbred stars are corralled at Belmont Park for the opening meeting that will last until Sept. 15. After that there will be a joint meeting of the three other local racing associations, which will be held at Aqueduct, and will conclude on Oct. 7.

Racegoers who attend the opening at Belmont Park this afternoon may look forward to more comfortable surroundings for the sport than those which maintained in the Spring. The damage done by the fire has been repaired in a measure, though the immense grand stand has not been entirely rebuilt. The racing also promises to be keener, as the long campaign on Eastern tracks has hardened the horses and made them fit for the most strenuous tests.

The outstanding events to be run are the Futurity and the Lawrence Realization, both long recognized as deciding contests for two and three-year-olds, respectively. The Futurity, which will be run next Saturday, will lack some of its lustre because of the ineligibility of Sun Briar, who proved himself the best juvenile at Saratoga, and also because of the injury which will keep August Belmont's Luculite from going to the post. George W. Loft's Papp, the greatest contender of Sun Briar at the Spa, is a sure starter, however, as is also Rosie O'Grady, the queen of the two-year-old fillies.

The features of today's card are the Broadhollow Steeplechase Handicap and the Belmont Park Autumn Handicap at a mile and a furlong. Good performers are named for both events. Owing to the difficulty of transporting horses from Saratoga the fields are rather light, but by Monday, when a big holiday crowd is expected, most of the good campaigners will be at the park and ready for the races.

The entries follow:

FIRST RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward; conditions; six furlongs; main course. Naturalist, (imp.,) 102 pounds; The Decision, 116; King's Joker, 119; Adalid, 116; Basil, 115; Manister Toi, (imp.,) 105; Barry Shannon, 109; Deck Mate, 105; Riverdale, 100; High Noon, 122.

CHAMPIONS IN GOLF FINAL.

Mrs. Letts to Play Miss Rosenthal for Western Title.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—As a result of today's semi-final matches for the women's Western golf championship at the Flossmoor Country Club, Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Ravisloe, North and South champion, and Mrs. F. C. Letts, Jr., of Indian Hill, title holder, will meet tomorrow in the final match for the title.

Miss Rosenthal earned her right to a chance at the title by virtue of her victory of 3 and 1 over Miss Frances Hadfield of Blue Mound, Wis., champion.

The match between Miss W. Llewellyn of La Grange, and Mrs. Letts resulted in a closer struggle than had been expected, the young woman giving her more experienced opponent the strongest kind of a contest. Mrs. Letts won 2 up.

Mixed Foursomes Played.

Several couples competed in the weekly mixed foursomes at the Van Cortlandt links yesterday, and also contributed to the growing Red Cross fund. Mrs. M. E. Grey and B. R. Abbot managed to distance the field with a card of 93—29, 64. The winners received useful prizes.

ST. FRISCO LOWERS TROTTING RECORDS

POUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 31.—Two new race records for a trotting stallion were established here today by St. Frisco, driven by E. F. Geers. St. Frisco trotted two heats in 2:04¼ and 2:01¾, defeating Mabel Trask in a special event for a $1,000 purse.

His time in the second heat bettered the former stallion trotting race record of 2:02, held jointly by The Harvester and Peter Volo. The two heats were the faster ever trotted by a stallion in a race.

The time of the second heat by quarters was: 0:31¼, 1:01¾, 1:32, 2:01¾. St. Frisco's former record was 2:03¼.

In the first heat Mabel Trask was beaten only a head in a driving finish, and she lost the second heat by a scant half length. Cox trailed to the home stretch in both heats.

The 2:17 trot, unfinished from Thursday, was won by North Spur in straight heats. Little Frank D. was the winner of The Directum I, 2:05 pace, although The Savoy won the final heat.

HOLD THREE IN DRAFT CASE.

Mother, Son, and Doctor Alleged to Have Made False Exemption Claim.

An affidavit stating that his mother was a widow, made to get exemption, resulted in the arrest yesterday of Theodore Willner, 25 years old, a restaurant proprietor of 2,988 West Twenty-eighth Street, Coney Island. United States Commissioner Caheone later held him in $5,000 bail for a hearing on Sept. 10. His mother, Mrs. Sadie Willner, who lives with her son, and Dr. Adolph Brandstein of 102 South Second Street, were held in $2,000 bail because they made corroborative affidavits. All three were charged with conspiring against the draft.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

An active market yesterday was built very largely around United States Steel, which bore the brunt of the selling generally credited to fears over the outcome of the deliberations over the form of the new war revenue measure. It is popularly supposed that the leaders in Congress try out each new suggestion for the raising of revenue through the new excess profits tax on the estimates of the Steel Corporation's current earnings, and it is natural that the bear element in the Street should play upon this issue in taking advantage of the depression caused by the gloomy reports from Washington. Dealings in Steel made up more than 35 per cent. of the transactions, and the expected final drive shortly before the close was aimed particularly at this issue. With its dividend of $4.25 off, Steel opened at a range of from 111⅛ to 112⅜, and sold down to 109⅞. It rallied from that point to 110⅝, but again gave way in the last few minutes and closed at 109¼, with a net decline of 2⅛.

While there was less pressure upon the list yesterday than made itself felt in the short session on Thursday, the failure of stocks to benefit by the usual covering operations incident to the last session preceding a three-day holiday indicated the continuance of the bearish conditions which have dominated the market for several days past. Brokerage houses are not yet advising customers to accumulate stocks, although there was better investment buying in sight yesterday, in the belief that until the new revenue bill is near a vote the market is likely to continue to give way at each suggestion that the excess profits tax be made heavier. Senator Harding's argument for caution in the matter of conscripting wealth emphasized the view that the Government must keep in mind the fact that it is proposing to raise larger sums by taxation in the first year of the war than Great Britain levied in her third, while planning for bond sales running into billions.

Call money loaned at one time yesterday at 6 per cent., with the ruling rate 4½. The advance was due to the fact that loans made yesterday will carry over to Tuesday, with the usual first of the month requirements increasing the demand. Payment of the final instalment on the Liberty Loan and the movement of funds to the interior threatened to bring about a stringency in the money market. Most of the thinly margined accounts in the Street have been cleaned up, and the decline yesterday was not aggravated by the execution of many stop-loss orders. When the Exchange reopens there will intervene but five more sessions before the Senate must vote, under its agreement, on the War Tax bill.

LONDON MARKET IS FIRM.

Money Is Easily Obtained and Discount Rates Are Steady.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Money was easily obtainable today. Discount rates were steady.

The stock market was firm with a growing volume of speculative business in the miscellaneous section. Rubbers, tins, and silver and gold mines were active and hardening, and armament and explosive shares were strong features. Russians were steadier after exchange dropped from 270 to 265. Gilt-edged securities were steadily supported, but Mexican rails were flat and American securities dull.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Rubles Down to 17 1-4 Cents.

Russian rubles, which have every day this week made new low records, dropped yesterday to 17¼ cents, a rate representing a depreciation of 66½ per cent. compared with a parity of 51½ cents. The Russian Government internal 5½ per cent. bonds, which have also been declining in sympathy with the depression in exchange, sold down to $177 per 1,000 rubles, as against $180 on Thursday and $342 a year ago. The closing bid price for the 5½ per cent. bonds traded in on the Curb was 60 and for the 6½s it was 80. The Bourse Gazette of Petrograd was quoted as saying that it had reason to believe that the Russian Provisional Government would soon obtain from the United States a loan of 5,000,000,000 rubles. Under normal rates of exchange this would amount to $2,575,000,000, but at the current rate of 17¼ cents 5,000,000,000 rubles is valued at only $862,500,000.

Advance in Call Money Rates.

Rates for call money advanced yesterday to 6 per cent., the highest in six weeks. The opening and renewal rate was 4½ per cent., which was the low for the day, but the closing figure was 6, as against 4 per cent. on Thursday. The rally was ascribed to the general activity of the money market incident to the final Liberty Loan payment, the payment of Treasury certificates of indebtedness, the withdrawal and redeposit of Government funds, and to the usual demands at the first of the month. Incidentally, the rates fixed for yesterday's loans will apply for over the three-day holiday. There were practically no changes in time rates.

Price-Fixing and Production.

Everybody, even in Wall Street, admits that it is a heinous thing to make money out of the war. But if you are a manufacturer dependent upon a business in whose upbuilding you have expended a great deal of time and pains for a livelihood, and if your product is so important for the Government's war plans that it steps in and virtually commandeers your factory, preventing you from making money out of anything else, what are you going to do? On the other hand, there is no doubt that the worst enemy of the honest and patriotic manufacturer is the squealing profiteer who distorts the honest man's arguments for getting a fair price from the Government, in the hope of confusing the issue and protecting his own extortions. People like this need to be smoked out, but Wall Street does not think it fair to condemn everybody for the sake of a few selfish individuals or concerns, who may not, after all, form so large a proportion of the whole as the Administration at times seems to think.

"Geese and Golden Eggs."

These remarks were made yesterday by a Wall Street man in close touch with important phases of the Government's buying program, as preliminary to the statement that overmuch zeal for economy in running the war had already begun to have its effect in diminishing production in some of the things the Government needs most. He then went on to say that two big corporations that in the last few years have built up an immense munitions business have definitely decided to abandon the field, after long negotiations with the Government, because they believe it impossible to manufacture under any terms the Government will give them except at a substantial loss. And the Government badly needs their output.

Helping One's Competitors.

There is another company now manufacturing an article badly wanted for the Government's war program, a pioneer in its own field, which after going through the preliminary struggles, experiments, and adjustments, all costing much money, has just found the broad road of economical production in large quantities opening up before it. At this point the Government steps in and contracts for its entire output. So far, good. But the Government, needing far more than the output of all the present manufacturers in this line, and consequently wishing to increase production to the utmost possible limit, not only gives all this concern's smaller competitors, which have only begun to struggle along in its wake, contracts more favorable than it enjoys—the difference amounting to subsidies covering their larger unit costs of production, and depriving the big concern of its hard-earned advantage of position—but also hands over to these small competitors free all the manufacturing secrets the big concern has painfully worked out for itself. The individual officers of the big concern, as patriotic men, look on, grin, and bear it. Their reward may be great hereafter, but corporations are not supposed to have any future existence, and this particular corporation is merely building up after-war competition for itself.

An Attractive Investment.

The United States Government 3 per cent. Panama bonds are now being offered at 84, at which price they yield about 3⅝ per cent. This bond compares favorably with the Liberty Loan 3½ per cent. bonds which are selling close to par, except that the Panama bonds have not the conversion feature belonging to the Liberty Loan. But, on the other hand, the yield is considerably higher, and there is the additional advantage of the relative smallness of the issue, only $50,000,000 being outstanding, compared with billions of the other. The Panama bonds mature in 1961, and investors are assured of an absolutely tax-exempted security for a period of forty-four years, a consideration to which importance is attached in view of the evident movement for legislation designed to terminate the further issuance of tax-exempt bonds. A few weeks before the breaking of diplomatic relations, the Panama 3s sold at 103.

TRADE CONDITION IMPROVES

Dun's Review, out today, sounds a hopeful note, declaring that "conditions are clearly more wholesome, and the transition to a more natural range of prices, though accompanied by some evidence of unsettlement, can only be regarded as favorable in its ultimate bearing. By far the most significant feature of the present situation is the process of readjustment in some commodities in which there had formerly seemed no end to the advances.

"With further downward revisions in the larger industries foreshadowed, either through official action or from other causes, the possibilities of cancellations of orders are not disregarded; yet the sound position of business is demonstrated in many ways and the doubts about the changes still to be effected, rather than any weakness of fundamental conditions, remain the chief obstacle to progress."

"Governmental buying, moderate expansion in regular Fall business, light retail trade at the East, exceptionally good crop reports, activity in industry, liquidation in the stock market induced by concern over the excess profits tax, and unanimity of opinion respecting the expected large proportions of Fall trade, stand out as the pre-eminent features of present-day trade conditions," says Bradstreet's.

"The wants of the Government are so numerous, extend into so many fields and are so absorptive, that retail dealers fear a scarcity of goods, and concern in this respect restricts conservatism in buying, which latter attitude is in turn dictated by the knowledge that there will be more or less economizing by people who live on incomes from investments, as well as by the belief that the demand for civilian clothing will undergo considerable curtailment."

N. Y. Shipbuilding Bonds Ready.

The New York Shipbuilding Corporation 5 per cent. sinking fund bonds, total par value $1,000,000, whose issue forms one of the final steps in the liquidation of the New York Shipbuilding Company, are now ready for distribution to the stockholders, according to a notice sent out by the liquidating committee. Each stockholder will receive bonds amounting to $21.04 par value a share, with 52 cents in cash for adjustment of accrued interest.

SEEK BETTER RATE FOR EXCHANGE ON U.S.

CHANCE TO GIVE UP SILVER

Explanation of Trouble Found in Relations Between the Dollar and the Pound Sterling.

The National City Bank of New York, in its September bulletin, issued today, comments upon the fact that notwithstanding that the balance of trade between this country and the rest of the world for the fiscal year ended June 30 reached the enormous total of $3,635,000,000, exchange on the United States is now at a discount generally in all neutral countries. The explanation for this is to be found in the relations between the dollar and the pound sterling, says the bank, which proceeds to point out that extraordinary efforts had been put forth to sustain sterling exchange in this market.

"The British Government," it says, "has bought or borrowed American securities from its citizens on a great scale, which have been sold or pledged in this country, borrowed heavily, and shipped enormous amounts of gold to New York for this purpose, and the exchange rate has been stabilized within about 2 per cent. of the parity. For various reasons it has not been so well sustained in other markets, with the result that exchange dealers in Madrid, Yokohama, and other financial centres have sold sterling exchange in New York not only to settle any indebtedness those markets might have to this country on direct trade, but in large additional amounts. In short, this being the best place to realize on sterling exchange, it comes here from all quarters. Any restrictions which London may place upon gold exports to other countries are evaded by selling sterling in New York and taking gold from here."

This proceeding has not been pleasing, the City Bank says, either to London or New York. The former is anxious not only to sustain the rate of exchange with New York, on account of its great purchases here, but to keep this money market easy to facilitate its borrowing. The leakage of gold from here counteracts its efforts. On the other hand, neither the Treasury authorities nor the bankers of this country relish having this country's gold stock drawn on to settle the trade balances of Great Britain.

The City Bank declares that, while no country likes to put restrictions on the free movement of gold in the Exchanges, in time of war it is entirely proper to refuse to allow it to be taken out of the country. It also suggests that, in view of the fact that Great Britain has approved of gold exportations direct from the United States to India, our Government avail itself of the opportunity of relieving itself of its great store of silver, amounting to more than $400,000,000, which lies in its vaults.

Discussing the gold movement, the bank says:

"Shipping conditions in themselves, with high insurance rates, have tended to hold the export movement in check and to raise exchange rates, and in some instances even the country to which gold was shipped has discouraged the movement on the ground that its gold stocks were already ample and that more would aggravate the state of inflation already existing. The Scandinavian countries were the first to adopt this policy, nearly two years ago, and the Bank of Spain is now discounting American gold coin about 6 per cent. Furthermore, the leading banking institutions of this country for public reasons have declined to participate in gold shipments from this country. Although there was a handsome profit in such transactions, they have held that it was in the public interest at this time to discourage gold exports and compel the settlement of international transactions by other means.

"Parties who have not understood the situation have complained of this attitude on the part of the banks, and have conducted an agitation in favor of having the reserve banks take over the foreign exchange business to facilitate the operations of merchandise importers, but the reason for the attitude of the bankers has been well known to the reserve banks and the Government authorities.

"The Treasury and reserve banks have no option, however, under the law, but to pay gold upon the presentation of paper money redeemable in gold, and under this condition, and with the opportunity open for profit, it was inevitable that gold would go out, and it has been moving in increasing volume, the exports for May and June being $57,667,419 and $67,164,263 respectively, the most noteworthy movements being to Spain and Japan."

Patent Suit May Involve Millions.

Following a recent decision by a court in Butte, Mont., of a suit brought by the Minerals Separation Company against the Butte and Superior Mining Company for the use of processes controlled by the former company's patents, it is reported the Minerals Separation Company will press for an injunction restraining the Miami Copper Company, also, from using the processes, and will also ask for an accounting to determine the profits due from Butte and Superior, the Miami Copper Company and several others, for their unauthorized use. The sums that may be collected are said to run far up in the millions.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Ransome Concrete Machinery Company of New York, a concern of twenty-five years' standing, has reincorporated under the laws of New Jersey, increasing its capital stock to $1,000,000, of which half is in 7 per cent. cumulative preferred and half in common stock, in order to enlarge its output and facilities.

Arthur Lipper & Co. have opened a branch office at 8 East Forty-third Street, discontinuing their office at 621 Broadway.

The local agency of the Standard Bank of South Africa, Ltd., has received a cable from London announcing that the Directors have declared an interim dividend at the rate of 14 per cent. a year, subject to audit.

The New York Telephone Company has petitioned the Public Service Commission for authority to issue $25,000,000 of common stock to discharge outstanding demand notes and for other purposes.

Wheatley, Matchett & Co., Inc., have dissolved by mutual consent, closing the firm's books Aug. 31. William Wheatley will continue business in his own name, and Charles C. Matchett will become a member of the firm of Markoe, Morgan & Co.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway will sell $4,000,000 of two-year 6 per cent. notes through a syndicate headed by the National City Company and the Guaranty Trust Company.

The Sub-Treasury transferred yesterday another $1,200,000 in gold to San Francisco to cover the shipment of an equal amount to Japan. Expectation is that several more shipments of this nature will be made in the near future before the embargo on gold exports is imposed from Washington.

The Republic Motor Truck Company is offering stockholders of record Aug. 31 the subscription rights to 23,675 shares of new common stock at $55 a share, on the basis of one share of new stock for every three shares of common now held. The original issue of Republic stock was put out without par value.

The Guaranty Trust Company has issued a booklet designed to assist the exporter in dealing with problems created by the Government licensing and embargo regulations.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Prices generally rallied quite well in the closing dealings on the Consolidated Exchange, but United States Steel was an exception. The market generally was under pressure throughout the forenoon, but the volume of selling lessened after midday, with the tone improving.

THE COTTON MARKET

Despite the fact that the Government's crop report was almost exactly in line with average expectations, its publication yesterday morning was followed by a very sharp break in the cotton market. Local brokers said it seemed that selling previously held in check by the possibility of a bullish surprise from the Census Bureau came on the market as soon as the figures were announced. At any rate, December contracts sold off from 22.88 to 21.75 cents, and after a rally to 22.14, closed at 21.95. The general list closed steady at a net decline of 17 to 37 points.

The market was quiet but generally steady during the first hour. After opening at an advance of 5 to 7 points active months sold about 17 to 20 points net higher on continued covering for over the report and the Labor Day adjournment. This buying apparently exhausted the support around the ring, however, and right after the Government report of 67.8 per cent. appeared selling became general. The break carried active months 63 to 69 points under the high level of the morning and 43 to 52 points under Thursday's closing figures. This first wave of selling appeared to include very few offerings from the South. Perhaps this was a disappointment to some of the early sellers here, and there were rallies of several points from the lowest on covering in the early afternoon. Later there was renewed pressure, partly from Southern sources, with the market nervous and unsettled at the close.

The Government's condition figure of 67.8 points to a crop of 12,499,000 bales, excluding linters. Compared with the indication at the end of July, these figures showed an increase of about half a million bales. It was pointed out that this estimate was by no means final, and that the crop had still to go through the period of Autumn storms and frost. Some traders, indeed, said they thought it more probable that crop estimates would be reduced than increased before the end of the season. Such considerations appeared to carry very little weight around the ring, however, and local traders seemed more inclined to base their price views on their opinions as to whether the South would rush its early receipts to market, or sell slowly during the period of accumulating supplies.

Exports for the day were 17,428 bales, making 345,595 so far this season, against 408,479 last year.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The price of $2.20 fixed by the Government for wheat was higher than most traders had been expecting. A Chicago house estimated that the total wheat crop was 678,000,000 bushels, or 38,000,000 in excess of last year's harvest. Chicago reports said that outstanding September contracts in that market would be settled at $2.13. In all Western markets cash wheat was weaker, showing declines of 5c to 20c per bushel. No. 2 red wheat here was quoted at $2.27 and No. 2 hard $2.27, both cost, insurance, and freight, New York spot.

RYE.—Market firmer; No. 2 Western, $1.90, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

CORN.

A much stronger tone prevailed in the corn market yesterday with a better class of buying partly based on the fact that the wheat price established by the Government was higher than expected, but also on the pronounced strength of cash corn at the West, with Chicago reported to be 7 cents higher. At the close futures were up 2¼c to 2⅞c per bushel and practically top for the day. In the local market cash corn was strong and higher, No. 2 yellow being quoted $2.15 and No. 2 mixed $2.11 cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

This market was also stronger on the higher cash prices and the high price fixed for wheat, in addition to the continued light farm offerings and further export demand, involving sales of about 400,444 bushels. There was good commission house buying and considerable covering for over the holiday, with final prices 1⅜c to 1½c net higher and top for the day. The cash market here was higher, as follows: Standard, 70c; No. 2 white, 70½c; No. 3 white, 69c; No. 4 white, 68c; fancy clipped white, 73@75c; ordinary clipped white, 71@73c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for provisions was stronger on continued advances in live hogs and the strength of foreign news, together with higher corn prices. Receipts continued very light, Chicago getting only 4,000 hogs, with 5,000 expected on Saturday. Kansas City had 500 hogs and Omaha 5,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

There was another strong upward movement in cottonseed oil based on the further advance in lard, and prices sold up 15 to 29 points in the early trade. Subsequent reactions followed the bearish cotton report, but at the close the market was still 11 to 17 points net higher. Sales were 30,000 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

Rumors that the Brazilian Government was planning to buy coffee if necessary to support values failed to stimulate trading in the coffee market here yesterday. There was scattered covering, but this was attributed chiefly to the possibility of unfavorable weather developments over Labor Day, and early advances were barely maintained, with the market closing at a net gain of 1 to 3 points. Sales were reported of 34,000 bags. The local spot market was unchanged to 9⅛ for Rio 7s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The market for refined sugar was unchanged, at 8.40 to 8.50c for fine granulated, but there was very little business aside from withdrawals on old contract. Raw sugar was dull, with no fresh business reported. The market was very much unsettled, owing to developments at Washington, and little if any business is being looked for until after next Wednesday's conference at Washington, when representatives of the sugar trade will meet with the Food Administration to thrash out the many details now under consideration. Straight September shipment Cubas were offered at 6c, cost and freight, with a possible buying interest at that price for immediate shipment. In fact, it was believed that fractionally higher prices could have been obtained for suitable positions, but no prompt sugars were openly being offered, holders awaiting developments. Spot quotations were nominally steady, as follows: Centrifugals, 7.02c; molasses, 6.14c; cost and freight, 6c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 8,462 packages. A stronger feeling has developed all along the line. Top grades advanced ½c and were firm at the higher rates. Only a little renovated is here, and it is wanted at 41c when fine. Ladles are firmer, and the scarcity of packing stock enables receivers to get an extreme price for all grades. Creamery, higher than extras, per pound, 43½@44¼c; extras, (92 score,) 43@43½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 41¼@43¾c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 39½@41c; thirds, 38@39c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 45@45½c; extras, 44@44½c; firsts, 42½@43½c; seconds, 40½@42c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 42@43c; good to prime, 40@41½c; common to fair, 36½@39½c; renovated, extras, 40½@41c; firsts, 39@40c; lower grades, 36½@38½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 38@38½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 37@37½c; seconds, 36½c; lower grades, 35@36c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 36½c; No. 2, 35¼@36c; lower grades, 34@35c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 12,493 cases. The market continues generally quiet and tone irregular. Some receivers report a fair call for fine to fancy qualities, of which the offerings are moderate, but buyers are critical, and outside quotations are by some still regarded as extreme. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 44@45c; extra firsts, 42@43c; firsts, 39@41c; seconds, 36@38c; thirds and poorer, 32@35c; dirties, No. 1, 34@35c; No. 2 and poorer, 26@33c; checks, good to choice, dry, 31@32c; undergrades, 25@30c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, 39@39½c; firsts, 38@38½c; seconds, 36@37½c; refrigerator, State whites, 41@43c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 51@54c; ordinary to good, 42@50c; gathered whites, good to fine, 42@50c; poor to fair, 36@40c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 36@46c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, 46@49c; gathered brown and mixed color, 36@45c.

NEW HAVEN DIRECTORS DENY BUYING B. & M.

Having failed to procure the dismissal of the $165,000,000 restitution suit instituted in the Federal District Court by five of the stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company against the company, its former officers and Directors, an answer was filed yesterday by J. Pierpont Morgan, Herbert L. Satterlee, William P. Hamilton, and Lewis Cass Ledyard, as executors of the will of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, and William Rockefeller, Charles M. Pratt, and Mr. Ledyard as individual defendants.

The complaint was filed on Aug. 30 of last year. It charged the defendants with conspiracy, among the specific charges being the loss to the railroad company of $133,000,000 by the alleged unlawful purchase of various corporations, and the loss of $2,000,000 in revenue by injury to the freight and passenger business, and by the expenditure of money in acquiring newspapers, influencing action of bills pending in the Legislature, &c.

The answer denies the charge in the complaint that the New Haven Company or any of its subsidiary companies ever acquired any control of the Boston & Albany Railroad or the Metropolitan or Eastern Steamship Companies. Continuing the answer, Mr. Rockefeller explained that prior to June 30, 1915, the then Board of Directors of the defendant company advised with counsel concerning the acts of former Directors and whether an action for restitution should be begun against them.

He said that it was decided not to begin such an action because the litigation was sure to be very expensive, complicated, and would probably be barren of any good result. This action, it was said, was thereafter indorsed by a vote representing 950,000 shares of stock out of a total of 1,571,000. Asa P. French, on behalf of the defendants, presented a resolution calling upon the Directors to bring a suit for restitution, and this was defeated, Mr. Rockefeller said, by persons owning 925,124 shares of stock. Then the Directors, whose action had been indorsed by the stockholders, were re-elected. For these reasons the defendants ask that the suit be dismissed.

The five plaintiffs are Edwin Adams, Julius C. Morse, George C. Fisk, James F. Ray, and Mary M. Clark. They own a total of 1,056 shares of stock.

COTTON FORECAST 12,499,000 BALES

Washington Reports Conditions Improved in August to Extent of 550,000 Bales.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Cotton production prospects improved to the extent of 550,000 bales in August and brought the estimate of final outturn to 12,499,000 equivalent 500-pound bales. That quantity was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture on the condition of the crop Aug. 25, which showed a decline of 2.5 points compared with a ten-year average of 6.6 points decline. Acre yield was forecast at 174.8 pounds, compared with 166.9 pounds forecast from July 25 conditions.

The forecast today compares with 11,949,000 bales as estimated from the condition of the crop July 25 and 11,633,000 bales as estimated from the condition on June 25. Last year's crop was 11,449,930 bales; two years ago it was 11,191,820; three years ago 16,134,930, and four years ago 14,156,486.

The condition reported compared with 70.3 per cent. of a normal on July 25 this year; 61.2 on Aug. 25 last year; 69.2 two years ago, and 70.9, the average on Aug. 25 of the last ten years.

In forecasting the total production the Department of Agriculture allowed 1 per cent. from the planted area for abandonment. The final outturn probably will be larger or smaller than the quantity forecast, according as conditions hereafter are better or worse than average conditions.

Condition by States follows:

Virginia	76	Texas	55
North Carolina	69	Arkansas	79
South Carolina	74	Tennessee	80
Georgia	68	Missouri	83
Florida	65	Oklahoma	84
Alabama	65	California	90
Mississippi	75	Arizona	89
Louisiana	75

The Cotton Crop Specialist summarizes the cotton crop situation of Aug. 25 as follows:

"The most noticeable feature in cotton crop conditions at this time is the heavy deterioration which has occurred in Texas. No rain of real benefit fell in Central and Southern Texas during the last month and the crop went to pieces rapidly. In much of this section one picking got the crop, and the stalk is dead or so badly damaged that nothing could now benefit it. Should heavy rains come at this late date is it doubtful if it would benefit the crop. Frost probably would get any new fruit that was put on.

"In portions of Northern and Eastern Texas and in almost the entire cotton belt to the east improvement was made during the month, the chief exception being portions of Florida, Alabama, and Georgia, where, because of too much rain, weevils are ravaging the crop. In the older weevil-infested States weevils are doing less damage than in former years.

"Army worms are reported in several sections, but there has been no material damage to date. Rust, blight, and shedding are local complaints in a number of the States.

"The crop generally is fruiting well and seems to have overcome a part of its lateness in many sections. However, in the northern part of the belt there is much young cotton which will require at least a normal frost date to reach full maturity. The crop has been largely picked and ginned in portions of Southern Texas and picking is in progress everywhere in the southern part of the cotton belt. There is some fear that a scarcity of pickers will be felt in most of the States."

CHANGES ON NEW HAVEN.

General Manager Bardo Becomes Assistant to Road's President.

A considerable shake-up in the executive offices of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company has just been announced. Clinton L. Bardo has been promoted from General Manager to assistant to the President; G. W. Wildin from General Mechanical Superintendent to General Manager; G. O. Hammond from Assistant to General Mechanical Superintendent to that office, and W. L. Bean, who has been acting as assistant to the President, becomes Assistant General Mechanical Superintendent.

The changes are to take effect today. Mr. Bardo, in his new office, will continue in general charge of the operating department, and the general object of the changes is to relieve the President's office and General Manager's office of burdensome detail.

Mr. Bardo has been General Manager of the New Haven since Feb. 15, 1913. He began his railroad career as a telegrapher for the Pennsylvania in 1885, and his entire service has been with three roads, the Pennsylvania, the Lehigh Valley, and the New Haven. Mr. Wildin has been General Mechanical Superintendent of the New Haven since last May, and Mr. Hammond his assistant the same length of time. Mr. Bean has been assistant to the President since July, 1916.

HIGH COSTS HIT PENN. R. R.

Revenue Grows $26,765,539 and Expenses $37,214,322 in Six Months.

The report of earnings of the Pennsylvania Railroad for the month of July and for the six months' period ended July 31, 1917, just published, shows an increase in net operating income for the month of $212,746, but a decrease for the six months of $10,448,782. As with practically every other big railroad system to report on its current earnings, the Pennsylvania shows a tremendous increase in operating expenses, which is responsible for the decrease in income.

Thus the total operating revenue for all lines, both east and west of Pittsburgh, comprised in the Pennsylvania system, for the six months' period, was $276,197,502, and for the month of July was $44,524,419. These amounts represented increases since the corresponding periods in 1916 of $26,765,539, and $5,697,505, respectively. But in the same periods operating expenses increased by $37,214,322 in the six months' period, and $5,484,759 in the month of June alone.

The increase, both in income and in operating expenses, was far more marked in the lines east of Pittsburgh, which for the six months' period showed increases of nearly $19,000,000 in total operating revenue, but of $24,000,000 in operating expenses. The net earnings for the entire system for the twelve months ended July 31, 1917, amounted to 5.07 per cent. on the total investment, against 6.09 per cent. in 1916, but even this was better than the showing in any of the five previous years.

Offer California Highway Bonds.

A syndicate headed by the National City Company, the Equitable Trust Company, and E. H. Rollins & Sons has purchased and is offering $1,750,000 of State of California 4½ per cent. gold highway bonds of varying maturities, at prices to yield 4.35 per cent. on the investment. These bonds are exempt from the Federal income tax, are eligible as security for postal savings deposits, and are legal investments for savings banks and trustees in New York State, Massachusetts, and Connecticut. The same syndicate is also offering $1,000,000 Pierce County (Washington) army post 5 per cent. bonds of different maturities at a price to yield 4.80 per cent. These bonds are legal investments for savings banks in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island.

Income Return Extension.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has extended for three months, or until Nov. 1, 1917, the operation of the decision of April 5, 1917, which granted an extension of time in which to file returns of income for 1916 by non-resident alien individuals and corporations and American citizens residing or traveling abroad. In all such cases there is required to be attached to the return a statement of the reasons for the delay, and if an extension of time beyond Nov. 1, 1917, is necessary, it is required that an application be made in each particular case, with a statement for the reasons for the request.

Offers a New Aviation Coat.

A particularly attractive aviation coat of the reversible type is being offered by the local representative of a number of British clothing manufacturers. One side of the coat is of leather, oiled and waterproofed, while the other is made of a dark gray woolen cloth set off with large checks. The coat has a high military collar which may be turned up and buckled, affording protection from the cold to ears and nose. It is made after the type of coat used in the British service, and is being offered for both men and women.

No Nursery Stock from France.

A cablegram to the Department of Commerce from the American Consulate General at Paris says that an embargo has been placed on the exportation and re-exportation of trees, shrubbery, and other nursery products from France. The embargo, which is now in effect, is subject to the usual exceptions in favor of allied and American countries. From London has come a cablegram saying that the British Minister of Munitions has prohibited dealings in tin plates and terne plates, except under license.

Trimmed Hats Are Selling.

While it is said that the season is starting a little more slowly than heretofore, reports from manufacturers of trimmed millinery in this city tell of a good current demand. Among the things that are doing well at the moment are roll-brim sailors of velvet, both in the medium and small shapes. These are selling in the higher-priced goods, and the popular colors include taupe, purple, brown, navy, black, and silver. Silver gray panne and Lyons velvet hats, combined with self materials of black, negre brown, and navy, also are doing well in the better class of goods.

They Are Not All Pleased.

Not all the manufacturers and buyers who have had the chance of seeing the early arrivals from the recent showings in Paris are pleased with what they saw. So far as can be determined, the chief complaint is that they show little which is really new, in spite of what the local trade had been led to expect. With the predicted improved sales of ready-to-wear this Fall, especially suits, held to be largely dependent on the element of novelty in the French offerings, there is not a little pessimism visible in certain quarters. On the other hand, there are manufacturers who think the same garments mean a new lease of life for the trade.

Piano Sales Average Up.

Piano manufacturers report that while they have not experienced this year what they term a normal increase in business over last year, they have not fallen behind. They also say that just at this time they have more unfilled orders on their books than last year. Conditions in the trade are looked upon as satisfactory considering the war situation and the wave of economy that is sweeping over the country. This, it was said, might be expected to make itself felt in this line as soon as in any other. Preparations for the Fall and holiday trade are under way, and a good business is anticipated, despite the drawbacks attendant on the war.

Colored Cotton Gloves Wanted.

That American manufacturers have succeeded in their efforts to make colored cotton gloves since the war so seriously curtailed supplies of the imported article, is apparent from the large volume of business those houses are doing whose salesmen have been out on the road with the Spring sample lines. Manufacturers who have greatly increased their factory output still find themselves unable to meet the unusual demand. The scarcity of French kid gloves and their almost prohibitive prices—due to the French Government's having forbidden the use of flour in the curing of the leather—together with the difficulty of getting mocha gloves to this country, are considered largely responsible for the big demand for fabric gloves of every description.

Gray Goods Demand Fair.

Much to the surprise of most traders, there was a pretty fair business put through in the local gray goods market yesterday. The bulk of it, however, was done from second hands. About the only first-hand sale of interest was that of nearby 39-inch 72-76s at 12¼ cents. Second hands sold spot 38½-inch 64-60s at 9⅛ cents, and at 10⅜ cents they also sold contracts of 39-inch 68-72s. Other sales were more or less of a scattering nature. Business also was done on 31-inch five-yard sheetings at 9½ cents. Printcloth prices closed this way:

39-inch,	72-76s	12¼c	38½-inch,	64-56s	9⅛c
39-inch,	68-72s	11⅛c	38½-inch,	60-52s	8⅝c
39-inch,	56-44s	7⅝c	38½-inch,	60-48s	8⅛c
38½-inch,	64-64s	10⅛c	27-inch,	64-60s	7c

DRY GOODS SALES IMPROVE.

Running Far Ahead of Those for Same Period Last Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods is running ahead of the very heavy shipments for the same period a year ago. The total volume of road sales for immediate Fall and Spring delivery has been in excess of the same week in 1916. Merchants have been in the market in slightly smaller numbers. Collections are ahead."

EXPORTERS IN RECORD RUSH

More Than 1,000 Visit New York Branch of License Bureau.

Shippers desirous of early action on applications for licenses for cargoes to European neutrals will have an opportunity today up to noon to file their requests. The New York office of the Export License Bureau received instructions late yesterday that the local office was to be closed on Monday, Labor Day.

The rush of steamship, railroad, and exporting interests to the New York License Bureau yesterday surpassed all previous records, it being estimated that at fewest 1,000 persons called to file applications or seek information. Merchandise which was not on the license embargo list prior to President Wilson's latest proclamation list continued to arrive at New York railroad freight yards and steamship terminals in increasing volume.

It was said yesterday that the Exports Administrative Council was considering what action should be taken on exports of this character. According to estimates made yesterday, something like $10,000,000 worth of goods of all kinds had arrived at New York terminals which had been shipped before the President made his proclamation effective Aug. 30.

Steamship companies were unwilling to put merchandise of this character aboard their vessels, and as a result it is held in railroad terminals or on piers awaiting orders from Washington.

Application has been made to the Supreme Court for the voluntary dissolution of the Lyman & Clarke Company, manufacturer's agent for hosiery and underwear at 346 Broadway, by A. Keeney Clarke, who holds 50 per cent. of the stock. Judge Mullan has named Samuel A. Levine referee in the matter and set down the order to show cause for Oct. 15. The company is solvent. It was incorporated on Oct. 16, 1905, with capital stock of $10,000 and represented several out-of-town manufacturers, among them being William B. Threeappleton's Sons, Philadelphia; Radcliffe Brothers, Shelton, Conn., and Haddon Hosiery Company, Germantown, Phila. There is only one other stockholder owning 50 per cent. of the stock, Theodore P. Lyman, with whom Mr. Clarke could not agree, which was the cause of the dissolution. The unsatisfied engagements for merchandise sold, but not delivered, are $129,640 and the accounts for merchandise purchased are about $20,000.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Hotel Endicott, at Eighty-first Street and Columbus Avenue, one of the oldest and best-known of the uptown hostelries, has been purchased by William and Julius Manger, the present lessees, at a figure said to be close to $1,000,000.

Negotiations for the sale of the property have been pending for several months past, with Susan L. Vivian of England and the United States Trust Company as Trustees of the estate of Marshall O. Roberts, which took the structure over in foreclosure proceedings about five years ago.

It is a seven-story building occupying the entire block front on the west side of Columbus Avenue, between Eighty-first and Eighty-second Streets, 204.4 feet on the avenue and 134 feet on each of the side streets. Although erected almost forty years ago, the structure has been modernized and rebuilt several times.

The city assesses the property for taxation purposes at $675,000, of which $400,000 represents land value. The present sellers bid $750,000 for the hotel at the auction in 1912. That action involved an overdue first mortgage which, with interest, amounted to about $644,000. John D. Rockefeller also held a second mortgage on the property for $109,000 at one time, but this was wiped out entirely in foreclosure proceedings. No change in the present management of the hotel is contemplated by the buyers.

Bronx Sales.

Stephen H. Jackson purchased from the Taxpayers and Store Leasing and Improvement Company 1,776 Bathgate Avenue, a three-story dwelling on a lot 21.8 by 109.10.

The Jack-Alan Holding Company sold to Adolph Weiss for investment the St. Cloud, a six-story elevator apartment house at 980 Prospect Avenue, northwest corner of 164th Street. The structure occupies a plot 74.5 by 75 and was held at $100,000.

The selling company acquired the property last week from J. L. Feinberg, who took it over at auction on July 19 as plaintiff in a foreclosure action against the B. & W. Building Company and others. Samuel Cowan negotiated the sale.

The private dwelling, 1325 Purdy Street, Unionport, on a plot 37.6 by 100, was sold by Frank Gass, Inc., to Neubert & Hester.

John F. Fetzer sold for James T. Barry to Matilda Rembein, 2,007 Bailey Avenue, a five-story flat on a plot 50 by 100. Also for Lusia E. Piser to Peter Doersam, 1,831 Marmion Avenue, a five-story plot, 50 by 147.

Brooklyn.

Tutino & Cerny sold for William L. Condy to a client for occupancy the two-story and cellar brick two-family dwelling at 547 Fiftieth Street.

Walter S. Ross and C. C. Gretsinger sold for John Biagini the plot, 40 by 100, on the north side of Sixty-seventh Street, west of Tenth Avenue, to a builder for immediate improvement.

The Maynard Construction Co. sold the following one-family private dwellings with garages in the new residential development in section bounded by Avenue M, East Third to East Fifth Streets, No. 1,378 East Fifth Street, 26 by 100, to Charles Freeman; No. 415 Avenue M, 26 by 98, to Samuel Wacht, Jr.; No. 417 Avenue M, 25 by 98, to Benjamin Shapiro.

Long Island City Sale.

Cross & Brown Company sold for Frederick Ayer of Boston a plot of 10 lots on the west side of Hancock St., between Harris Avenue and Bodine Street, Long Island City, to a large building concern, which it is understood is contemplating improving the property with manufacturing buildings.

Queens Borough Sales.

The City Tax Lien Company, through Thomas F. Doyle, referee, has completed title to a plot of lots in the Bayside Park addition at Bayside on which they acquired a lien at a recent Queens sale for unpaid taxes.

The Anderson Avenue Realty Company has sold to the Alcade Realty Company a plot of thirty lots in Block 26 of the Malba Realty Trust at Whitestone.

The Jamaica Terrace Construction Company, Inc., purchased from E. Pelechek, a plot 60 by 100 on the east side of Woodlawn Avenue, north of Remsen Street, and a plot on the north side of Pacific Street east of New York Avenue, Jamaica.

Buys Greenwich Estate.

I. Newton Lewis of L. J. Phillips & Co. has purchased from Perry D. Bogue of the Bankers Trust Company the W. C. Squire, 3d's, residence at Rock Ridge, Greenwich, Conn., adjoining the estate of E. B. Close. The property comprises about two acres with a road frontage of nearly 600 feet. Mr. Lewis takes immediate possession of the premises. Franklin Edson of Greenwich was the broker in the transaction.

Suburban Sales Today.

Two residences at Far Rockaway, L. I., will be offered at auction today by Joseph P. Day on the premises at 2:30 P. M. The properties comprise 2,239 Cornaga Avenue, a two and one-half story stucco dwelling, on plot 75 by 150, and 2,214 Loretto Place, a two-story frame house, on plot 61 by 74 by 251.

Bryan L. Kennelly will sell at auction today at 2 P. M. on the premises, twenty bungalow plots at Meadow Beach, immediately adjoining Rye Beach on Long Island Sound, in Westchester County.

At Edgemere Crest, L. I., Alfred H. Wagg will sell today at 2:30 six cottages and a number of ocean front plots.

Commercial Leases.

The Charles F. Noyes Company leased to the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc., for M. & L. Hess, Inc., agents for Stern Brothers, owners, the three-story and basement building, 115 by 98.9, at 140 and 154 West Thirtieth Street. The building, formerly used by Stern Brothers as a service station, will be occupied by the new tenants as a bonded storage warehouse.

Porter & Co. leased for the Brussel estate to Joseph Viola for a term of years, the store located at 135 and 137 East 125th Street; also for the Schaefer Company to the C. & S. Motor Corporation, the store located at 19 and 21 West 125th Street.

CHILD LABOR ACT DECLARED INVALID

GOVERNMENT WILL APPEAL

Department of Justice Confident That the Supreme Court Will Uphold the Law.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Aug. 31.—Federal Judge Boyd of the Western District of North Carolina held the Keating-Owen child labor law unconstitutional today, and enjoined the United States District Attorney, William C. Hammer, and his "successors, assistants, deputies, and agents," from enforcing in the district the provisions of the act of Congress, which becomes effective tomorrow.

Judge Boyd's decision came at the conclusion of three days of argument on the constitutionality of the act. The case came before the court in injunction proceedings brought in the name of Roland H. Dagenhart and his minor sons, Reuben and John of Charlotte, who sought to restrain a Charlotte cotton mill company from discharging the two boys.

In announcing his decision Judge Boyd said he was gratified by the candor of Professor Thomas I. Parkinson of Columbia University, representing the Department of Justice, who asserted that Congress had used its power over interstate commerce for the object of regulation of local conditions within the State and the discouragement of child labor. This admission, said the Judge, left the issue clear and brought forward the question: "Can Congress do by indirection that which it undoubtedly can not do directly?"

"Congress," he said, "can regulate trade among the States, but not the internal conditions of labor."

Judge Boyd expressed his approval of laws tending to elevate the condition and moral state of all the people, and made it clear that his judgment on the act was based upon his interpretation of the Constitutional limitations of Congressional power.

After a preliminary recital of the facts, the Court, setting forth its opinion that the act "is unconstitutional and without the power of Congress to enact," enjoins the milling company from discharging or curtailing the hours of labor of the minor plaintiffs, and decrees:

"That the said William C. Hammer, United States Attorney, as aforesaid, and his successors, assistants, deputies, and agents, be and they are hereby permanently enjoined from in any way or manner enforcing or attempting to enforce the provisions of the aforesaid act of Congress, or any part thereof, and from instituting or causing to be instituted any prosecution or proceedings under the aforesaid statute, or any of the provisions thereof."

The case will be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, and persons interested in the law said today that special haste would be made in the presentation of the case on appeal.

Argument was concluded for the plaintiffs by Judge W. P. Bynum of Greensboro, whose chief contention was that the power to close the arteries of interstate commerce to lawful articles of exchange which were not in themselves injurious to public health, morals or safety, was not possessed by Congress.

The law prohibits the employment of any child under 14 years old in any factory, mill, workshop or cannery, whose products are to be shipped in interstate commerce, and requires that the working day of children 14 to 15 years old shall not be longer than eight hours. Reuben Dagenhart is under 16 and John Dagenhart under 14. The father contended that he had a right to their wages until they are 21, and that as the North Carolina law allows eleven hours a day, Reuban has a right to work more than eight hours a day, while John has a right to work in the mill, although under 14, because the State law permits it.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Department of Justice officials regard the decision of Judge Boyd holding the child labor law unconstitutional merely as a vehicle for getting the question before the Supreme Court, where they are entirely confident the action of Congress will be sustained. It had been assumed when the law was passed that the milling interests would not permit its enforcement without a vigorous fight.

The law becomes effective tomorrow, and the decree at Greensboro affects only the North Carolina district. Except where the courts interfere it will be enforced.

The enforcement of the Law has been delegated by the Secretary of Labor to the Children's Bureau, and the head of the new child labor division of that bureau is Miss Grace Abbott of Chicago, a woman of wide experience in industrial betterment work in this and foreign countries.

NATION-WIDE CENSUS OF FOOD UNDER WAY

Every Manufacturer and Dealer in the Country Called upon to List His Holdings.

The Federal Department of Agriculture began yesterday, as a war measure, a survey of the food supply of the country. From the Bureau of Markets of the department, 204 Franklin Street, thousands of circulars have been sent out on which the inventory of the city's food supply is to be made. The inventory is to be along broad lines, for the department is authorized to "investigate and ascertain the demand for, the supply, consumption, costs, and prices of, and the basic facts relating to the ownership, production, transportation, manufacture, storage and distribution of foods, food materials, feeds, seeds, fertilizers, agricultural implements, and machinery, and any article required in connection with the production, distribution, or utilization of food."

The survey will be of actual food conditions at the close of yesterday's business day and the schedule contains eighteen items, the report on which must cover the stock on hand or in transit. On another tentative schedule are 103 articles of food which will be based on conditions that may exist after the crops are harvested.

Failure to supply the information is punishable by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both. Attention is called, however, to the fact that filling out the blanks and returning them promptly to Washington is a patriotic duty.

CAPT. ROWLEY TO WED VISCOUNT'S DAUGHTER

New Yorker, Son of Illustrator and Painter, Betrothed to the Hon. Irene Molesworth.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The engagement is announced of the Hon. Irene Molesworth, daughter of Viscount Molesworth, to Captain Charles Rowley of the British Royal Artillery and a son of J. R. Capel Rowley of New York. They will be married in London on Oct. 14.

Captain Rowley is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Capel Rowley of 90 Pinehurst Avenue, New York. He was born in Illinois and was educated in this city, graduating from the De Witt Clinton High School and later studying at Columbia, leaving there to go into business. He went to England in 1910 and was with the Western Electric Company at their English works. When the war began he entered the British Army, being commissioned a Lieutenant and later rose to a Captaincy. He has not been at the fighting fronts, but has served in other capacities, and for some time was at Gibraltar.

His mother was an English girl whom his father married in Canada. His younger brother, Douglas Rowley, is a student at the New York University. His father is an illustrator and painter who came to this country when he was a boy.

The Hon. Irene Evelyn Beatrice Molesworth is the eldest of the Viscount's three children, and is 32 years old. Her brother Charles is two years her junior, and her younger sister, Cecily, is 15. Her mother was Nina Alida Faulkner, a daughter of the late Colonel H. D. Faulkner. Her father is George Bagot Molesworth, Viscount, of Swords, County Dublin, and Baron Philipstown of Philipstown, Ireland. He is is a Major in the Army Pay Department Reserve Officers.

Mother of Four Children Asks Aid.

The father of a family in Brooklyn has died after an acute attack of pneumonia, leaving his wife to support their four children. Finding it impossible by day work to make ends meet the widow has appealed to the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, 69 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, for assistance. The sum of $3.50 a week is required to supplement her present income, and the bureau wishes to raise $85 for the next six months. Gifts toward this amount may be mailed to the bureau marked "for 0332 T."

HOOVER HOPEFUL OF CHEAPER BREAD

Plans to put in operation the licensing system under the supervision of the Grain Corporation will be taken up at once. It is expected that the full machinery will be ready not later than Sept. 10.

BIGGER LOAF FOR 10 CENTS.

Local Dealers Doubt if There Will Be a 14-Ounce Loaf for 5 Cents.

There was in evidence yesterday among those representing the big flour milling interests and among the bakers a feeling of uncertainty as to just how the fixing of wheat prices by the Government would affect retail prices and benefit the ultimate consumer. In one thing there was apparent agreement—that until flour could be bought at $9 a barrel there could be no profitable baking of fourteen-ounce loaves of bread for 5 cents. Government officials held to this view also. What is expected to happen is either a decrease in the price of the present ten-cent loaf or at least a 30 per cent. increase in its weight.

The Grain Corporation of the Food Administration, of which Julius H. Barnes of Minneapolis is the head, is confident that the five-cent loaf will be one of the results. The milling men figure a scant three bushels of wheat to a barrel of flour, and this would make the maximum price about $11 a barrel. It was said yesterday that there had been sales at $10.56 a barrel. Competition, a representative of one of the biggest flour mills in the country said, might force the millers to a smaller margin of profit. George F. Ward of the Ward Baking Company was quoted yesterday as saying that it did not seem possible that the bakers could furnish a fourteen-ounce loaf for 5 cents with wheat selling at $2.20 a bushel. In this he probably reflected the feeling of the trade. It is probable, however, that some bakers may try to put on the market a five-cent loaf with weight proportionate to the profit that will come in the drop in the price of flour.

"The price arrived at by the Food Administration is a very fair one, but, of course, there will be a difference of opinion, the farmers saying that it is not high enough and the bakers that it is not low enough," said George A. Zabriskie, General Manager of the Pillsbury Flour Company. "The standardizing of prices will clear the situation and every one will know just where he stands. The millers have agreed on a maximum profit of 25 cents a barrel, but in my opinion they will not get it. Competition may force the margin of profit down, and it may be that during the time when flour is being laid in they may get the full price. At other times they may get only about a fifteen-cent profit.

"Whether there will be a five-cent loaf of bread under present prices is, of course, a problem. There may not be a fourteen-ounce loaf for 5 cents, but it is probable that the present loaf may increase in weight by perhaps 33 per cent."

John A. Sims, General Manager of the Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling Company, would not discuss the situation. He thought it would not be fair to the Grain Corporation to do so and that very little good could come from setting forth a diversity of opinions on the subject. At the office of the Washburn-Crosby Company, 17 Battery Place, it was said that it was only a selling agency for the mills and that any opinion should come from the millers.

The Food Administration Grain Corporation, whose central office is at 42 Broadway, will begin on Sept. 4 to buy and distribute the wheat crop of the United States. The corporation's arrangement with the mills of the United States will begin on Sept. 10, but in order to furnish a stable basis to the thousands of country elevators and other buyers who are now in doubt as to the value of their purchases when delivered at the terminals, the corporation will begin to buy wheat on September 4 at its various agencies.

CHICAGO GRAIN MEN PROTEST.

Fear Government Wheat Differentials Will Ruin Their Market.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—The world's greatest wheat market is not only in grave danger of losing its laurels, but fears it may become a "wheatless city."

Board of Trade men, bankers, and railroad officials joined today in vigorous protest against the differentials to be applied to the different markets in regard to wheat prices. They charged "rank discrimination."

It is contended that so serious are the price differences as arranged that shippers may sell their wheat in practically every market in the country at advances over the Chicago prices, these advances ranging as high as 3 cents a bushel. Tonight a formal protest went forward to Herbert C. Hoover, food administrator, from the Board of Trade. Preceding it was a telegram from Joseph P. Griffin, President of the board, in which he said:

"If the schedule of price differentials at which the food control will buy wheat in different terminal markets, as published, is authoritative, it discriminates against Chicago markets in favor of markets both east and west of us."

The protest went forward on the heels of an announcement by Howard B. Jackson, Vice President of the Food Administration Grain Corporation, who will control all buying and selling of wheat in this territory, that Government buying would begin on Sept. 4, but that reselling to millers would not be inaugurated until Sept. 10.

Grain men assert that under the proposed differentials, wheat even from Eastern Illinois can be shipped to New York and other Eastern markets at greater profit than to Chicago, and that in turn all wheat west and north of the city, aside from a very limited territory, will go to Minneapolis, Kansas City, and other markets.

HOOVER PICKS AID IN LONDON

L. P. Sheldon to Deal with Baron Rhondda for Food Co-operation.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Louis P. Sheldon, who is associated with a London banking firm, has been asked by Herbert C. Hoover to accept appointment as representative of the American food administration in the United Kingdom. It is understood Mr. Sheldon has accepted, and that it is now being determined whether he shall become an attaché of the American Embassy.

As Mr. Hoover's representative, Mr. Sheldon will deal with the British Food Controller, Baron Rhondda, to bring about close co-operation between the United States and England in regard to the control of food. Mr. Sheldon, who is a Yale graduate, for some time has been assisting the commercial attaché of the embassy, overseeing shipments of certain raw materials to the United States.

WANTS HUGE AIRPLANES BUILT IN AMERICA

Italian Army Expert Says They Could Be Flown From Here to Battlefront.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 31.—The use of gigantic airplanes which the Italians are now building, as the best means of ending the submarine menace by attacking German naval bases, was urged by Major R. Perfetti, head of the special Italian aeronautic mission to the United Staes at a benefit theatrical performance for American aviators here tonight.

Major Perfetti said that aircraft carrying twenty-five or more men could be built in large numbers in this country, where materials were abundant, flown across the Atlantic, and used on the other side against Germany and her allies. He expressed the belief that if the American Government or a group of patriotic Americans would devote $5,000,000 to such a project the air cruisers would soon solve the most difficult problem of the war.

"I am now glad to state it as a fact that these machines can be built," Major Perfetti said. "Italy will be glad to supply a number of these air cruisers to the United States Government or to any group of patriotic Americans who may wish to demonstrate the possibility of delivering airplanes to Europe by flying them there."

Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske supplemented Major Perfetti's plea for a great air fleet.

"The urgency of the situation in Europe and America demands that we utilize every advantage that we can secure and that we accept from aeronautics in particular, because it is the newest art, every aid which it can bestow," said the American officer. "We need the aid of every good invention that can be produced.

"We are at war with the most formidable nation in the world, the nation that has already made a specialty of preparing for war and waging war. We are at war with the incarnated combination of intellect and evil. We are at war with the devil himself."

HEARST DECLINES TO RUN FOR MAYOR

term, campaign plans have been held in abeyance, awaiting a decision from the former Independence League leader.

Judge Hylan was at the suite occupied by the Business Men's League, at 50 East Forty-second Street, when he received the news that Mr. Hearst had declined to run in the primaries. He seemed pleased, but said he had no comment to make.

At the headquarters of the Democratic Fusion Committee of One Hundred and Seventy in the same building there was no one in a position to speak for that organization when the news arrived.

Charles F. Murphy was engaged in a secret conference with some of his leaders when the news was flashed to Tammany Hall. He made this formal statement:

"This is very gratifying news. It means harmonious efforts for the success of the Democratic ticket and the election of Judge Hylan, of which there now can be no doubt."

The declination of Mr. Hearst to run against Judge Hylan in the primaries was filed with the Board of Elections at 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by L. J. O'Reilly, Mr. Hearst's personal representative in this city. It read as follows:

> Please take notice that I decline the designation as candidate for nomination by the Democratic Party for the office of Mayor, tendered to me by petition of duly enrolled voters of said party, to be voted for at the official primary election to be held on the nineteenth day of September, 1917, certificate of which designation has been filed in your office.
> WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Frank Moss, who has been designated as a candidate for the nomination for District Attorney on the ticket headed by former State Senator William M. Bennett in the Republican primaries, also filed his declination with the Board of Elections yesterday afternoon. This will leave the field free to William L. Ransom, counsel for the Public Service Commission, who has been designated for the same office by the Republicans and other groups constituting the Mitchel Fusion organization.

The declination of Mr. Hearst may have its effect in Brooklyn in the elimination of Register Edward T. O'Loughlin, the local Independence League leader who declined to accept a nomination from the McCooey organization and has been circulating petitions with a view to entering the Democratic primaries as an independent candidate for Borough President.

The revolt against the McCooey machine culminated yesterday in the advent of ex-Controller Bird S. Coler as an independent candidate for Borough President. Mr. Coler has filled this position once before. To make place for Mr. Coler, United States Marshal James M. Powers withdrew as a candidate for this nomination. The contest now promises to become a three-cornered one, for Frank J. Prial, after breaking with the anti-McCooey faction that placed Mr. Coler in the running, threatened to become a candidate and to place an entire county and borough ticket of his own in the field.

Vincent P. Donihee, designee on the Democratic ticket for Sheriff of Kings County, also withdrew. No substitution has yet been made for that nomination, but it is believed that the name of Congressman Daniel Griffin will be used.

BENNETT TALKS IN BROOKLYN.

Attacks Mitchel Administration in Leader Livingston's Club.

William M. Bennett, candidate for the Mayoralty nomination against Mayor Mitchel in the Republican primaries, opened his campaign in Brooklyn last night, speaking in the district clubhouse of Republican Leader Jacob A. Livingston. He has received invitations from five other Brooklyn leaders to speak at their clubhouses next week. Mr. Bennett said that Brooklyn had paid the heaviest penalty of all the boroughs "for the centralization policy of the Mitchel régime," and added:

"Literally millions and millions of dollars in taxes have been squandered by the Mitchel régime for every sort of a fad or bizarre scheme as well as for land in which persons of known friendship for Mr. Mitchel have an interest. He has publicly declared several times that ex-Senator Reynolds is a friend and he was glad to claim him as a friend, until the recent indictment in New York County. There was no praise of Reynolds that day. All the Mayor said was that the indictment did not affect him as Mayor. Perhaps Reynolds may get the cold shoulder, until after the campaign is over, if he goes to the City Hall these days."

Judson G. Wall, candidate for the nomination for Controller, attacked Controller Prendergast, accusing him of being an opportunist. Frank D. Wilsey, candidate for the Aldermanic Presidency, spoke at length on the Gary system in the public schools. He promised, if elected, to stop "the extravagant expenditure for Garyising the schools" and to do all in his power to provide "every child in New York City of school age with a seat in an accessible schoolhouse."

Mr. Bennett has written to the Legislative Committee of the Public School Neighborhood Federation, denouncing the introduction of the Gary plan into the public schools by the Mitchel administration. He accuses the Mayor of forcing a reorganization of the Board of Education contrary to the city charter, in order to win approval for the Gary plan by that body.

Mr. Bennett says that if elected Mayor he will encourage the local school boards and select seven Commissioners who know something about schools and avoid persons "who have for a lifetime expressed disdain for the public schools by sending their children to private schools."

Hylan for 86th Street Line.

County Judge John F. Hylan has given a written pledge that if he is elected Mayor he will use his influence in promoting the extension of the Eighty-sixth Street cross-town street car line west from its present terminal on Central Park West to Broadway, to permit the giving of transfers from the cross-town cars to the Columbus and Amsterdam Avenue lines. Mayor Mitchel has been asked to make a similar pledge, but has not yet responded.
